Foreword

The banking sector in Cambodia is playing an important role in contributing to economic development through the mobilization and allocation of previously unproductive financial resources to fulfill the financial needs of the manufacturing and services sectors.

Matching savings to investment and economic growth, the banking sector must develop in line with private sector development in order to sustain the economic growth pace, a measure regarded by Royal Government of Cambodia as essential for poverty reduction.

Since the 1990s, a legal framework for the banking sector has been established. At that time Prakas, directives, circulars and regulations were issued to facilitate the smooth functioning of this sector. As a result, in recent years the banking and financial sectors have developed rapidly, reflected through the banking intermediation of mobilizing financial resources to support the manufacturing and services sectors. This is clear evidence of the subsequent increase of public confidence in Cambodia's banking and financial sectors.

We at the National Bank of Cambodia understand that a compilation of these regulations is essential for bankers, auditors, students and investors who are willing to get a better understanding of the comprehensive and centralized legal framework and regulations for Cambodia's banking sector. As for the evolution of the banking sector, all laws and regulations have been issued and updated by the National Bank of Cambodia into the textbook of Laws and Regulations Applicable to Banks and Financial Institutions.

I hope and believe that the Laws and Regulations Applicable to Banks and Financial Institutions textbook truly provides considerable benefits to bankers, auditors, students, and investors in their research studies aimed at a better understanding of the legal framework and regulations of the banking sector in Cambodia.

I would like to thank the working team for their hard work in compiling this textbook.

This book was prepared with permanent guidance from Mr. Michel DABADIE, General Advisor to the NBC, and enduring support from Mrs CHEA Serey, Deputy Director of the Bank Supervision Department of the NBC.

Much of the practical work of compiling and putting texts together was performed by two students from the NGO Enfants du Mékong, in internship with the Bank Supervision Department of the NBC :

- Ms. ORM Socheata,
- Mr. YOEU Samnang.

The gathering and updating of laws and regulations was achieved by a working group composed of the following NBC staff members:

- Mr. POU Chhiang Hong (Bank Supervision Department),
- Mr. LUN Sam Ol (Bank Supervision Department),
- Mrs. Geneviève HUSSENOT (Legal Office),
- Mr. NGET Sovannarith (Legal Office),
- Mr. KHOU Vouthy (Legal Office),
- Ms. KONG Suntheary (Legal Office).

Ms. Sandra LACOUR, Student in internship with the French Embassy, was the secretary of the working group and recorded the minutes of the meetings.

Special thanks are owed to Mr. Guillaume PREVOST, from the French Mission Economique au Cambodge, who shared his experience of gathering the French Code Monétaire et Financier with the working group.

However, securities transactions, whether carried out by the banks and by the specialized financial institutions, shall also be subject to the supervision of a special Commission, which shall ensure that savings invested in securities are protected through compliance with securities issuance conditions and with securities disclosure requirements.

The composition and functioning of this Commission shall be determined by the laws and regulations governing the financial market.

Article 7. Owing to the risks that may result from a combination of securities activities within banks or within specialized financial institutions, such as the receipt of earmarked deposits and the custody and the management of securities portfolios, the supervisory authorities of the banking system and of the financial system, acting in concert either at the time of initial licensing or by regulation, shall establish rules for regulating combination of such securities activities.

Article 8. The operations related to the banking business referred to in Article 3 Paragraphs 2, 3, 4 and 5 of this law, and carried out for customers by entities other than banks, shall comply with the rules established by the supervisory authority.

CHAPTER II: Scope

1. The banking and financial institutions defined in Chapter I, and hereinafter referred to as covered entities, shall be subject to the provisions of this law.

2. No person other than a covered entity may carry out banking operations on a regular basis.

Article 11. A covered entity shall be incorporated either as a public company under commercial law or as a cooperative or a mutual noncommercial society subject to special statute.

Cooperatives or mutual societies shall belong to a common federative body called a “central body”.

Central bodies shall be responsible for ensuring cohesion among the entities affiliated with their network as well as the smooth functioning thereof. To this end, they shall take all necessary measures, in particular to safeguard the liquidity and solvency of each of these institutions and of the network as a whole.

The central bodies themselves are considered as covered entities.

Article 12. A covered entity may be locally incorporated in Cambodia or be a branch of a foreign bank.

Article 13. With prior approval of the supervisory authority, a foreign bank may open an information, liaison or representative office in the Kingdom of Cambodia, which office shall not be entitled to carry out banking operations or financial intermediation and canvassing operations.

Such establishments may be locally incorporated or be a simple entity, a delegate person, or an office, and shall be so entered in the Trade Registry.

Such offices may use the business name of the foreign bank they represent.

An authorization is given for a period of two years, which may be renewed once only

CHAPTER IV: Licensing of Covered Entities

Article 14. Before starting business, covered entities must obtain a license from the supervisory authority.

Before issuing a license, the supervisory authority shall ensure :

1. the qualifications of the shareholders and the accuracy of their reported financial position;
2. the ability of the principal shareholders to fulfill, jointly and severally, their obligation to strengthen the bank's own funds if required to do so in accordance with the provisions of Article 27 of this law;
3. the adequacy of human, technical, and financial resources for the planned activities.

The supervisory authority shall be aware of the reciprocity offered by other countries when the shareholders of a locally incorporated bank or the head offices of branches of foreign banks are from said countries.

Article 15. The supervisory authority shall reach a decision within six months of receiving the application together with all relevant documents. Applicants shall be notified of any refusal of authorisation. The supervisory authority shall maintain a current list of licensed institutions, which shall be published in the Bulletin of the National Bank of Cambodia and in the Official Gazette of the Kingdom of Cambodia.

2. Before obtaining a license, a branch of a foreign bank must have a fully paid-up capital endowment at least equal to the minimum capital of a covered entity locally incorporated as a company.

3. The minimum capital shall be fixed by a regulation issued by the National Bank of Cambodia. A portion of the minimum capital, equal to a percentage prescribed by a regulation issued by the National Bank of Cambodia, shall be permanently deposited with the National Bank of Cambodia as a guarantee deposit.

The minimum capital of commercial banks shall amount at least to riel 50 billion.

4. A covered entity that is either locally incorporated or operating as a branch of a foreign bank, must at all times be able to prove that its assets minus related potential losses and intangibles exceed its liabilities to third parties by an amount at least equal to the minimum capital.

Article 17. Covered entities must also observe a solvency ratio, the level of which shall be fixed by the supervisory authority in compliance with international standards. The ratio shall be calculated as a proportion of the covered entity's net worth in relation to its risks.

CHAPTER VI: Capacity of Directors and Managers

Article 18. No one may be member of a board of directors or supervisory board of a licensed entity, or, either directly or through an intermediary, direct, manage or run a licensed entity in any capacity, or be authorised to sign on behalf of such an institution if he :

In compliance with the provisions of Articles 11 and 14-2 of this law, the central body shall be responsible for guaranteeing the solvency and liquidity of each network vis-à-vis third parties, depositors and creditors.

CHAPTER VIII: Composition, Permanent Identification, and Responsibilities of Shareholders in Locally Incorporated Covered Entities

Article 20. The shareholders of locally incorporated covered entities may be individuals or, under conditions fixed by the supervisory authority, legal persons whose own shareholders must be clearly identified.

The supervisory authority shall particularly avoid situations where there are chains of shareholding companies, each of them holding shares in the others.

Article 21. A holding company which holds as subsidiaries, exclusively or principally, one covered entity or more, shall itself be deemed a covered entity, particularly as regards its licensing approval and submission to the supervisory authority.

Article 22. A covered entity applying for a license must inform the supervisory authority of the identity of its shareholders who directly or indirectly hold 5 percent or more of its capital or voting rights.

Article 23. Any shareholder, or any group of shareholders acting in concert, shall, directly or through the concerned covered entity, notify to the supervisory authority of any increasing in or transfer of direct or indirect equity holdings in a covered entity which would enable this shareholder or group of shareholders to acquire or to lose 5 percent of the covered entity's capital or voting rights.

Article 24.

1. Any shareholder, or any group of shareholders acting in concert, shall, directly or through the concerned covered entity, obtain the prior authorisation of the supervisory authority for taking on or disposing of equity holdings that would directly or indirectly enable this shareholder or group of shareholders to :

2. The covered entity shall be held accountable for completing the notification and authorisation request formalities.

Article 25. Unless otherwise stipulated by ordinary commercial law, the minimum number of shareholders and the level of each stake in the share capital of a covered entity shall not be restricted. However, while examining an application for license, and when scrutinising a notification or application for authorisation to step across a regulatory threshold, the supervisory authority shall, on one hand, look to the presence of one or more influential shareholders, and, on the other hand, shall avoid either the extreme concentration or the excessively wide dispersal of shareholdings. However, a high concentration can be accepted if the concerned shareholder is a foreign bank of high standing.

Article 26. For the purposes of this law, a shareholder shall be deemed to be influential from the moment that he directly or indirectly holds at least 20 percent of the share capital or voting rights, or if he holds de facto decision making power as a consequence, inter alia, of widely dispersed shareholding.

Article 27. If the financial position of a covered entity so warrants, the supervisory authority shall enjoin the influential shareholders, jointly and severally, to increase the net worth until the solvency standards are met.

If they refuse to comply, the concerned influential shareholders shall be liable to penalties provided in Article 55-2 below, without prejudice, in case of voluntary liquidation, to actions in meeting disputed liabilities as opposed by creditors or depositors.

change in the composition of the influential shareholding of its parent company, as soon as such a change arises.

Article 30. If a branch does not abide by prudential regulations, the supervisory authority shall invite its parent company abroad to reconstitute its capital endowment as mentioned in Article 16-2 of this law or to modify the distribution of assets.

Article 31. In case of voluntary liquidation of the parent company abroad, all assets of the foreign branch in Cambodia are earmarked, on a priority basis, for repayment of resident customers, whether they are depositors of securities, gold, or cash, or whether they are creditors, as far as their rights to the assets of the branch at the time of liquidation have been acknowledged by the liquidator of the branch.

CHAPTER X: Equity Participations by Covered Entities in the Capital of Other Commercial Companies

Article 32. For the purposes of this law, holdings shall be regarded as equity participations when they directly or indirectly confer on a covered entity at least 10 percent of the capital or voting rights of another company.

Article 33. A covered entity may hold equity participations, which must at no time exceed either of the following two limits:

1. as regards each equity participation, 15 percent of the amount of the own funds of a covered entity,

- either the deduction of the participations held by the covered entity in other banking or financial institutions, or the prior consolidation of balance sheets of companies of the group whenever relevant upstream.

- or downstream holdings reach at least 20 percent of the capital of related companies.

Article 37. Any acquisition of holdings by a covered entity in the capital of an industrial or a commercial undertaking registered abroad shall be subject to the prior approval of the supervisory authority.

CHAPTER XI: Establishment Abroad or in Cambodia

In calculating the net worth of a covered entity on which prudential norms are based, the supervisory authority must deduct not only any intangible or worthless asset recorded in the balance sheet, but also any equity participation in a banking or financial institution, as well as credits and loans of whatever nature or maturity granted to shareholders or other commitments to shareholders under regulatory conditions.

Article 43. Under conditions prescribed by the supervisory authority, a covered entity must have an internal control system aiming particularly at:

1. verifying that the operations carried out by a covered entity, as well as the organization and internal procedures, comply with the laws and regulations in force, professional and ethical standards and practices, and the policy of the executive body,

Any person who fails to observe this obligation of professional secrecy shall be liable to the sanctions laid down in Article 55 of this law.

CHAPTER XVII: Money Laundering

Article 51. In addition to the specific legal provisions that it must observe regarding money laundering, a covered entity shall take appropriate measures to identify precisely all its customers and, above a threshold to be defined by the supervisory authority, the transactions carried out through them, and shall keep all relevant documentation thereon for at least ten years.

If circumstances so warrant, the provisional administrator's mission can be extended for another period of 3 months.

Article 58. As soon as he is appointed, a provisional administrator has exclusive powers to manage, direct and represent the covered entity.

Article 59. The provisional administrator's main duties are immediately to make an assessment of whether or not the covered entity is solvent, and to administer the current activities in order to preserve as far as possible the covered entity's solvency and maintain the rights of depositors and creditors.

Article 69. Article 1. This Law governs negotiable instruments and payment transactions and covers bank accounts and the operation of the payment system.

1. Negotiable instruments are written orders or promises to pay a determinate sum of money, transferable by delivery, and where required, also with endorsement. Negotiable instruments governed by the Law are checks, bills of exchange, and promissory notes.

2. Payment transactions governed and defined by this Law are transfers of funds between or from bank accounts. A payment transaction may be either a credit or debit transfer. It is initiated by means of a payment order, which may be written, electronic, and under some conditions, oral.

3. A payment system consists of institutions and mechanisms facilitating payment in money and the transfer of monetary value by means of payment transactions.

(ii) Participants are the originator, originating bank, destination bank and the receiver, and may include one or more intermediary banks;

(iii) whenever the originating bank does not settle directly with the destination bank at least one intermediary bank is required; and

(iv) for each interbank payment order, the sending bank settles with the receiving bank as provided in Article 202.

23. “Destination bank” means the bank identified in a payment order in which either payment to the payee in a credit transfer is to take place or the payor's account in a debit transfer is held. In a debit transfer the destination bank is the payor's bank.

26. “Intermediary bank” means a receiving bank other than the originating or destination bank.

27. “Security procedure” means a procedure established by agreement between a customer and a receiving bank for the purpose of (i) verifying that a payment or cancellation order is that of the customer, or (ii) detecting an error in the transmission or the content of the payment or cancellation order. A security procedure may require the use of algorithms or other codes, identifying words or numbers, encryption, callback procedures, or similar devices. Comparison of a signature on a payment order or communication with an authorized specimen signature of the customer is not by itself a security procedure.

29. “Payment order” means an instruction given to a bank to pay or collect a specific sum of money out of a designated account, to or for a payee, or to or for a payee's account, and includes any amendment to a payment order. May be a transfer of funds in which the payor’s account is held, and payment to the payee takes place, in either the same or two different banks.

35. “Adequate cover” for a payment order means the availability of sufficient funds, namely the existence of an account balance not smaller than the amount of the payment order, consisting of the closing balance of the previous banking day, plus credit already posted to the payor’s account in the course of the current banking day for incoming payments, deposits and remittances, less outgoing payments and disbursements already occurring in the course of the current banking day, and anticipated bank charges. Funds reflecting mere provisional credit to the payor’s account do not constitute part of the required cover.

36. “Funds” includes cash and deposits kept in bank accounts.

37. “Aval” indicates a guarantee liability on a check, bill of exchange or promissory note.

38. “Foreign currency” means any currency other than the domestic currency.

CHAPTER II-- CHECKS

SECTION 1—THE DRAWING AND FORM OF A CHECK

Article 3. A check is an unconditional order in writing, addressed to a banker and signed by the person giving the order, requiring the banker to pay a determinate sum of money to, or to the order of a specified person or to bearer. It must be payable at sight and conform to all requirements provided by this Chapter.

Article 4. A check is a payment instrument. It may be written in Khmer or any other language and must contain:

- The term “check” inserted in the body of the instrument and expressed in the language employed in drawing up the instrument;
- An unconditional order to pay a determinate sum of money;
- The name of the banker who is to pay (drawee);
- A statement of the place where payment is to be made;
- A statement of the date when and the place where the check is drawn;
- The signature of the person who gives the order on the check (drawer).

Article 5. An instrument in which any of the requirements mentioned in the preceding article is wanting is invalid as a check, except in the cases specified in the following paragraphs:

1. In the absence of special mention, the place specified beside the name of the drawee is deemed to be the place of payment. If several places are named beside the name of the drawee, the check is payable at the first place named.

2. In the absence of these statements, and of any other indication, the check is payable at the place where the drawee has his principal establishment.

3. A check which does not specify the place at which it was drawn is deemed to have been drawn in the place specified beside the name of the drawer.

Article 6. A check must be drawn on a banker holding funds at the disposal of the drawer and in conformity with an agreement express or implied, whereby the drawer is entitled to dispose of those funds by check. Nevertheless, if these provisions are not complied with, the instrument is still valid as a check.

Article 7.

1. A check cannot be accepted. A statement of acceptance on a check shall be disregarded.

2. A check does not operate as an assignment of funds in the hands of the drawee available for payment thereof and the drawee of a check is not liable to the holder.

Article 8.

1. A check may be made payable:

- a. To a specified person with or without the express clause “to order,” or
- b. To a specified person, with the words “not to order” or equivalent words, or
- c. To bearer.

2. A check made payable to a specified person with the words “or to bearer,” or any equivalent words, is deemed to be a check to bearer.

3. A check which does not specify the payee is deemed to be a check to bearer.

Article 9.

1. A check may be drawn to the drawer's own order.

2. A check may be drawn for account of a third person.

3. A check may not be drawn on the drawer himself unless it is drawn by one establishment on another establishment belonging to the same drawer.

Article 10. Any stipulation concerning interest which may be embodied in the check shall be disregarded.

Article 11. A check may be payable at the domicile of a third person either in the locality where the drawee has his domicile or in another locality, provided that such third person is a banker.

Article 12.

1. Where the sum payable by a check is expressed in words and also in figures, and there is any discrepancy, the sum denoted by the words is the amount payable.

2. Where the sum payable by a check is expressed more than once in words or more than once in figures, and there is any discrepancy, the smaller sum is the sum payable.

Article 13. If a check bears signatures of persons incapable of binding themselves by a check, or forged signatures, or signatures of fictitious persons, or signatures which for any other reason cannot bind the persons who signed the check or on whose behalf it was signed, the obligations of the other persons who have signed it are none the less valid.

Article 14. Whoever puts his signature on a check as representing a person for whom he had no power to act is bound himself as a party to the check and, if he pays, has the same rights as the person for whom he purported to act. The same rule applies to a representative who has exceeded his powers.

Article 15. The drawer guarantees payment. Any stipulation by which the drawer releases himself from this guarantee shall be disregarded.

Article 16. If a check which was incomplete when issued has been completed otherwise than in accordance with the agreements entered into, the non-observance of such agreements may not be set up against the holder unless he has acquired the check in bad faith or, in acquiring it, has been guilty of gross negligence.

SECTION 2—ENDORSEMENT

Article 17.

1. A check made payable to a specified person, with or without the express clause “to order,” may be transferred by means of endorsement.

2. A check made payable to a specified person, in which the words “not to order” or any equivalent expression have been inserted, can only be transferred according to the form and with the effects of an ordinary assignment.

3. A check may be endorsed even to the drawer or to any other party to the check. These persons may re-endorse the check.

Article 18.

1. An endorsement must be unconditional. Any condition to which it is made subject shall be disregarded.

2. A partial endorsement is null and void.

3. An endorsement by the drawee is also null and void.

4. An endorsement “to bearer” is equivalent to an endorsement in blank.

5. An endorsement to the drawee has the effect only of a receipt, except in the case where the drawee has several establishments and the endorsement is made in favor of an establishment other than that on which the check has been drawn.

Article 19.

1. An endorsement must be written on the back of the check or on a slip affixed thereto (allonge). It must be signed by the endorser.

2. The endorsement may leave the beneficiary unspecified or may consist simply of the signature of the endorser (endorsement in blank).

Article 20.

1. An endorsement transfers all the rights arising out of a check.
2. If the endorsement is in blank, the holder may:
 - a. Fill up the blank either with his own name or with the name of some other person;
 - b. Re-endorse the check in blank or to some other person;
 - c. Transfer the check to a third person without filling up the blank and without endorsing it.

Article 21.

1. In the absence of any contrary stipulation, the endorser guarantees payment.
2. He may prohibit any further endorsement; in this case he gives no guarantee to the persons to whom the check is subsequently endorsed.

Article 22. The possessor of an endorsable check is deemed to be the lawful holder if he establishes his title to the check through an uninterrupted series of endorsements, even if the last endorsement is in blank. In this connection cancelled endorsements shall be disregarded. When an endorsement in blank is followed by another endorsement, the person who signed this last endorsement is deemed to have acquired the check by the endorsement in blank.

Article 23. An endorsement on a check to bearer renders the endorser liable in accordance with the provisions governing the right of recourse; however, it does not convert the instrument into a check to order.

Article 24. Where a person has, in any manner whatsoever, been dispossessed of a check, whether it is a check to bearer or an endorsable check to which the holder establishes his right in the manner mentioned in Article 22, the holder into whose possession the check has come is not bound to give up the check unless he has acquired it in bad faith or unless in acquiring it he has been guilty of gross negligence.

Article 25.

1. Persons sued on a check cannot set up against the holder defenses founded on their personal relations with the drawer or with previous holders, unless the holder in acquiring the check has knowingly acted to the detriment of the debtor.

2. Paragraph 1 does not apply to a check made payable to a specified person, in which the words “not to order” or any other equivalent expression have been inserted.

Article 26.

1. When an endorsement contains the statement “value in collection” (“valeur en recouvrement”), “for collection” (“pour encaissement”), “by procuration” (“par procuration”), or any other phrase implying a simple mandate, the holder may exercise all rights arising out of the check, but he can re-endorse it only in his capacity as agent.

2. In this case the parties liable can only set up against the holder defenses which could be set up against the endorser.

3. The mandate contained in an endorsement by procuration does not terminate by reason of the death of the party giving the mandate or by reason of his becoming legally incapable.

Article 27.

1. An endorsement after protest or after an equivalent declaration or after the expiration of the limit of time for presentment

- i. Operates only as an ordinary assignment; and
- ii. Does not operate to give rights under Articles 22, 24, and 25.

2. Failing proof to the contrary, an undated endorsement is deemed to have been placed on the check prior to the protest or equivalent declaration or prior to the expiration of the limit of time referred to in the preceding paragraph.

SECTION 3—“AVALS”

Article 28.

1. Payment of a check may be guaranteed by an “aval” as to the whole or part of its amount.

2. This guarantee may be given by a third person other than the drawee, or even by a person who has signed the check.

Article 29.

1. An “aval” may be given either on the check itself or on an “allonge”.

2. It is expressed by the words “good as aval,” or by any other equivalent formula. It is signed by the giver of the “aval”.

3. It is deemed to be constituted by the mere signature of the giver of the “aval,” placed on the face of the check.

4. An “aval” must specify for whose account it is given. In default of this, it is deemed to be given for the drawer.

Article 30.

1. The giver of an “aval” is bound in the same manner as the person for whom he has become guarantor.

2. His undertaking is valid even when the liability which he has guaranteed is inoperative for any reason other than defect of form.

3. He has, when he pays the check, the rights arising out of the check against the person guaranteed and against those who are liable to the latter on the check.

SECTION 4—PRESENTMENT AND PAYMENT

Article 31.

1. A check is payable at sight. Any contrary stipulation shall be disregarded.

2. A check presented for payment before the date stated as the date of issue is payable on the day of presentment.

Article 32.

A check must be presented for payment within six months of its date.

Article 33. Where a check is drawn in one place and is payable in another having a different calendar, the day of issue shall be construed as being the corresponding day of the calendar of the place of payment.

Article 34. The presentment of a check either at or through a clearing-house, or electronically, as provided by agreement or regulations issued by the National Bank of Cambodia, is an effective presentment for payment.

Article 35.

1. Payment on a check may be countermanded without prejudice to the rights of the holder.

2. If payment on a check has not been countermanded, the drawee may pay it even after the expiration of the time limit for presentment.

Article 36.

Neither the death of the drawer nor his incapacity taking place after the issue of the check shall have any effect as regards the check.

Article 37.

1. The drawee who pays a check may require that it shall be given up to him receipted by the holder.

2. When there is insufficient cover in the drawer's account the holder may not refuse partial payment.

3. In case of partial payment the drawee may require that the partial payment shall be mentioned on the check and that a receipt shall be given to him.

Article 38.

The drawee who pays an endorsable check is bound to verify the regularity of the series of endorsements, but not the signature of the endorsers.

Article 39.

1. A check is deemed to be an authorization given to the drawee to pay in the currency of the account on which it is drawn.

2. When a check is drawn payable in a currency which is not that of the account, the sum payable may be paid by the drawee in the currency of the account according to its value on the date of payment.

3. If a check drawn payable in a currency which is not that of the place of payment has not been paid on presentment, the holder may at his option demand from a party liable that payment of the amount of the check be made in the currency of the place of payment according to the rate on the day of presentment or on the day of payment.

4. The usage of the place of payment shall be applied in determining the value of foreign currency. Nevertheless, the drawer may stipulate that the sum payable shall be calculated according to a rate expressed in the check.

5. Notwithstanding paragraph 3, a check either drawn payable in a currency which is widely accepted in Cambodia, or in which the drawer has stipulated that payment must be made in a certain specified foreign currency, may be enforced by the holder against any party liable in the stated currency.

6. If the amount of the check is specified in a currency having the same denomination, but a different value in the country of payment and the country of issue or any other country, unless specifically indicated otherwise, where the currency is not that of the account, reference in the check is deemed to be made to the currency of the country of payment. Where the currency of the country of payment does not have the same denomination, reference is deemed to be made to a currency which is widely accepted in the place of payment.

SECTION 5—CROSSED CHECKS AND CHECKS PAYABLE IN ACCOUNT

Article 40.

1. The drawer or holder of a check may cross it with the effects stated in the next article hereof.

2. A crossing takes the form of two parallel lines drawn on the face of the check. The crossing may be general or special.

3. The crossing is general if it consists of the two lines only or if between the lines the term “banker” or some equivalent is inserted; it is special if the name of a banker is written between the lines.

4. A general crossing may be converted into a special crossing, but a special crossing may not be converted into a general crossing.

5. The alteration either of a crossing or of the name of the banker shall be regarded as not having taken place.

Article 41.

1. A check which is crossed generally can be paid by the drawee only to a banker or to a customer of the drawee.

2. A check which is crossed specially can be paid by the drawee only to the named banker, or if the latter is the drawee, to his customer. Nevertheless the named banker may procure the check to be collected by another banker.

3. A banker may not acquire a crossed check except from one of his customers or from another banker. He may not collect it for the account of other persons than the foregoing.

4. A check bearing several special crossings may not be paid by the drawee except in a case where there are two crossings, one of which is for collection through a clearing house.

5. The drawee or banker who fails to observe the above provisions is liable for resulting damage up to the amount of the check.

Article 42.

1. The drawer or the holder of a check may forbid its payment in cash by writing transversally across the face of the check the words “payable in account” (“à porter en compte”) or a similar expression.

2. In such a case the check can only be settled by the drawee by means of book-entry such as credit in account, transfer from one account to another, set off or clearing-house settlement. Settlement by book- entry is equivalent to payment.

3. Any obliteration of the words “payable in account” shall be deemed not to have taken place.

4. The drawee who does not observe the foregoing provisions is liable for resulting damage up to the amount of the check.

SECTION 6—RECOURSE FOR NON-PAYMENT

Article 43.

The holder may exercise his right of recourse against the endorsers, the drawer and the other parties liable if the check on presentment in due time is not paid, and if the refusal to pay is evidenced:

1. By a protest or any other formal instrument, or

2. By a declaration dated and written by the drawee specifying the day of presentment, or

3. By a dated declaration made by a clearing-house, stating that the check has been delivered in due time and has not been paid.

Article 44.

1. A protest shall be signed by an officer legally authorized to authenticate documents. As long as no such person has been designated by law he shall be designated by the National Bank of Cambodia. A protest must contain a copy of the check, or the original check may be annexed thereto, and specify the person at whose request the check is protested, the place and date of the protest, the cause or reason for protesting the check, the demand made and the answer given, if any, or the fact that the drawee cannot be found. It shall be made at the place of the refusal to pay or accept or at some other place in Cambodia situated within 10 kilometers of the place of presentment and refusal to pay or accept.

2. The protest or equivalent declaration must be made before the expiration of the limit of time for presentment.

3. If the check is presented on the last day of the limit of time, the protest may be drawn up or the equivalent declaration made on the first business day following.

4. After the expiration of the limits of time fixed for drawing up the protest for non-payment, the holder loses his right of recourse against parties liable on the check but may sue the drawer under the Law of contract and ordinary assignment, in an action governed by the Law of contract and assignment. Any recovery under this paragraph is reduced by damages for any injury caused to the drawer by the holder's failure to meet required limits of time.

Article 45.

1. The holder must give notice of non-payment to his endorser and to the drawer within the four business days which follow the day on which the protest is drawn up or the equivalent declaration is made or, in case of a stipulation “retour sans frais”, “retour sans protêt”, or any other equivalent expression, the day of presentment. Every endorser must, within the two business days following the day on which he receives notice, inform his endorser of the notice which he has received, mentioning the names and addresses of those who have given the previous notices and so on through the series until the drawer is reached. The periods mentioned above run from the receipt of the preceding notice.

2. When, in conformity with the preceding paragraph, notice is given to a person who has signed a check, the same notice must be given within the same limit of time to his avaliseur.

3. When an endorser either has not specified his address or has specified it in an illegible manner, it is sufficient if notice is given to the endorser preceding him.

4. The person who must give notice may give it in any form whatever, even by simply returning the check.

5. He must prove that he has given notice within the limit of time prescribed. This time-limit shall be regarded as having been observed if a letter giving the notice has been posted within the said time.

6. A person who does not give notice within the limit of time prescribed above is liable for the damage, if any, caused by his negligence, but the amount of his liability shall not exceed the amount of the check.

Article 46.

1. The drawer, an endorser, or an avaliseur may, by the stipulation “retour sans frai,” “retour sans protêt”, or any other equivalent expression written on the instrument and signed, release the holder from having a protest drawn up or an equivalent declaration made in order to exercise his right of recourse.

2. This stipulation does not release the holder from presenting the check within the prescribed limit of time, or from giving the requisite notices. The burden of proving the non-observance of the limit of time lies on the person who seeks to set it up against the holder.

3. If the stipulation is written by the drawer, it is operative in respect of all persons who have signed the check; if it is written by an endorser or an avaliseur, it is operative only in respect of such endorser or avaliseur. If, in spite of the stipulation written by the drawer, the holder has the protest drawn up or the equivalent declaration made, he must bear the expenses thereof. When the stipulation emanates from an endorser or avaliseur, the costs of the protest or equivalent declaration, if drawn up or made, may be recovered from all the persons who have signed the check.

Article 47.

1. All the persons liable on a check are jointly and severally bound to the holder.

2. The holder has the right to proceed against all these persons individually or collectively without being compelled to observe the order in which they have become bound.

3. The same right is possessed by any person signing the check who has taken it up and paid it.

4. Proceedings against one of the parties liable do not prevent proceedings against the others, even though such other parties may be subsequent to the party first proceeded against.

Article 48.

The holder may claim from the party against whom he exercises his right of recourse:

1. The unpaid amount of the check;

2. Interest at a rate determined by the National Bank of Cambodia as from the date of presentment;
3. The expenses of the protest or equivalent declaration, and of the notices given as well as other expenses.

Article 49. A party who takes up and pays a check can recover from the parties liable to him:

1. The entire sum which he has paid;
2. Interest on the said sum calculated at a rate determined by the National Bank of Cambodia, as from the day on which he made payment;
3. Any expenses which he has incurred.

Article 50.

1. Every party liable against whom a right of recourse is, or may be, exercised, can require against payment, that the check shall be given up to him with the protest or equivalent declaration and a receipted account.

2. Every endorser who has taken up and paid a check may cancel his own endorsement and those of subsequent endorsers.

Article 51.

1. Should the presentment of the check or the drawing up of the protest or the making of the equivalent declaration within the prescribed limits of time be prevented by an insurmountable obstacle (vis major), these limits of time shall be extended.

2. The holder is bound to give notice without delay of the case of vis major to his endorser and to make a dated and signed declaration of this notice, on the check or on an allonge; in other respects, the provisions of Article 45 shall apply.

3. When vis major has terminated, the holder must without delay present the check for payment and, if need be, procure a protest to be drawn up or an equivalent declaration made.

4. If vis major continues to operate beyond fifteen days after the date on which the holder, even before the expiration of the time-limit for presentment, has given notice of vis major to his endorser, recourse may be exercised and neither presentment, not a protest nor an equivalent declaration, shall be necessary.

5. Facts which are purely personal to the holder or to the person whom he has entrusted with the presentment of the check or the drawing up of the protest or the making of the equivalent declaration are not deemed to constitute cases of vis major.

6. Liability on a check that has been lost or destroyed may be enforced only against security provided by the party enforcing the check, which to the satisfaction of the court indemnifies the party liable on it against any claim of any other person on the check if it reaches a holder who acquires it otherwise than in bad faith or gross negligence.

SECTION 7- CHECK COLLECTION

Article 52.

1. Where a check is delivered to a banker for deposit to the credit of the customer and the banker credits him with the amount of the check, the banker acquires all the rights and powers of a holder of the check.

2. Unless otherwise agreed, credit so posted to the account is provisional, and the banker may debit the account or shall otherwise have recourse from the customer if the check is not paid. Unless otherwise agreed, any withdrawal of such provisional credit is at the banker's sole discretion and subject to charge-back or recourse from the customer if the check is not paid.

3. Regardless of the lack of any defect, restriction or limitation in, or form or type of, customer's endorsement, the banker's rights under paragraph 1 are:

- i. As if he is the possessor of an endorsable check under Article 22, and
- ii. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in Article 26 where it otherwise applies.

Article 53.

The delivery of a check to a banker for collection is a payment order governed by Chapter V of this Law. In case of an inconsistency with respect to a check between a provision of Chapter V of this Law and a provision of this Chapter, this Chapter prevails.

SECTION 8—ALTERATIONS

Article 54. In case of alteration of the text of a check, parties who have signed subsequent to the alteration are bound according to the terms of the altered text; parties who have signed before the alteration are bound according to the terms of the original text.

SECTION 9—LIMITATION OF ACTIONS OF RECOURSE

Article 55.

1. Actions of recourse by the holder against the endorsers, the drawer and the other parties liable are barred after six months as from the expiration date of the limit of time fixed for presentment.

2. Actions of recourse by the different parties liable for the payment of a check against other such parties are barred after six months as from the day on which the party liable has paid the check or the day on which he was sued thereon.

Article 56. Interruption of the period of limitation under Article 55 is only effective against the person in respect of whom the period has been interrupted.

SECTION 10—TIME CALCULATIONS

Article 57.

1. The presentment or protest of a check may only take place on a business day.

2. When the last day of the limit of time prescribed by the Law for performing any act relating to a check, and particularly for the presentment or for the drawing up of a protest or the making of an equivalent declaration, is a legal holiday, the limit of time is extended until the first business day which follows the expiration of that time. Immediate holidays are included in computing limits of time.

Article 58. The limits of time stipulated in the present Chapter shall not include the day on which the period commences.

Article 59. No days of grace, whether legal or judicial, are permitted.

CHAPTER III—BILLS OF EXCHANGE

SECTION 1—ISSUE AND FORM OF A BILL OF EXCHANGE

Article 60. A bill of exchange is an unconditional order in writing, addressed by one person to another, signed by the person giving it, requiring the person to whom it is addressed to pay a determinate sum of money to, or to the order of, a specified person, or to bearer. It must be payable at a maturity and conform to all requirements as provided by this Chapter.

Article 61. A bill of exchange is a credit instrument. It may be written in Khmer or any other language and must contain:

- The term “bill of exchange” or “draft” inserted in the body of the instrument and expressed in the language employed in drawing up the instrument;
- An unconditional order to pay a determinate sum of money;
- The name of the person who is to pay (drawee);
- A statement of the time of payment;
- A statement of the place where payment is to be made;
- The name of the person to whom or to whose order payment is to be made;
- A statement of the date and of the place where the bill is issued;
- The signature of the person who gives the order on the bill (drawer).

Article 62. An instrument in which any of the requirements mentioned in the preceding article is wanting is invalid as a bill of exchange, except in the cases specified in the following paragraphs:

1. A bill of exchange in which the time of payment is not specified is deemed to be payable at sight.

2. In default of special mention, the place specified beside the name of the drawee is deemed to be the place of payment, and at the same time the place of the domicile of the drawee.

3. A bill of exchange, which does not mention the place of its issue, is deemed to have been drawn in the place mentioned beside the name of the drawer.

4. A bill of exchange may be drawn payable to bearer. A bill of exchange which does not contain the name of the person to whom or to whose order payment is to be made is deemed to be made payable to bearer.

Article 63. A bill of exchange may be drawn payable to drawer's order. It may be drawn on the drawer himself or for account of a third person.

Article 64. A bill of exchange may be payable at the domicile of a third person either in the locality where the drawee has his domicile or in another locality.

Article 65.

1. When a bill of exchange is payable at sight, or at a fixed period after sight, the drawer may stipulate that the sum payable shall bear interest. In the case of any other bill of exchange, this stipulation is deemed not to be written (non écrite).

2. The rate of interest must be specified in the bill; in default of such specification, the stipulation shall be deemed not to be written (non écrite).

3. Interest runs from the date of the bill of exchange, unless some other date is specified.

Article 66.

1. When the sum payable by a bill of exchange is expressed in words and also in figures, and there is a discrepancy between the two, the sum denoted by the words is the amount payable.

2. Where the sum payable by a bill of exchange is expressed more than once in words or more than once in figures, and there is a discrepancy, the smaller sum is the sum payable

Article 67. If a bill of exchange bears signatures of persons incapable of binding themselves by a bill of exchange, or forged signatures, or signatures of fictitious persons, or signatures which for any other reason cannot bind the persons who signed the bill of exchange or on whose behalf it was signed, the obligations of the other persons who signed it are nonetheless valid.

Article 68. Whosoever puts his signature on a bill of exchange as representing a person for whom he had no power to act is bound himself as a party to the bill and, if he pays, has the same rights as the person for whom he purported to act. The same rule applies to a representative who has exceeded his powers.

Article 69.

1. The drawer guarantees both acceptance and payment.
2. He may release himself from guaranteeing acceptance but may not release himself from guaranteeing payment.

Article 70. If a bill of exchange which was incomplete when issued has been completed otherwise than in accordance with the agreements entered into, the non-observance of such agreements may not be set up against the holder unless he has acquired the bill of exchange in bad faith or, in acquiring it, has been guilty of gross negligence.

SECTION 2—ENDORSEMENT

Article 71.

1. A bill of exchange payable to a specified person, with or without the express clause “to order”, may be transferred by means of endorsement.
2. When the drawer has inserted in a bill of exchange payable to a specified person the words “not to order” or an equivalent expression, the instrument can only be transferred according to the form, and with the effects of an ordinary assignment.
3. A bill of exchange may be endorsed even in favor of the drawee, whether he has accepted or not, or of the drawer, or of any other party to the bill. These persons may re-endorse the bill.

Article 72.

1. An endorsement must be unconditional. Any condition to which it is made subject is deemed not to be written (non écrite).
2. A partial endorsement is null and void.
3. An endorsement “to bearer” is equivalent to an endorsement in blank.

Article 73.

1. An endorsement must be written on the back of the bill of exchange or on a slip affixed thereto (allonge). It must be signed by the endorser.
2. The endorsement may leave the beneficiary unspecified or may consist simply of the signature of the endorser (endorsement in blank).

Article 74.

1. An endorsement transfers all the rights arising out of a bill of exchange.
2. If the endorsement is in blank, the holder may:
 - a. Fill up the blank either with his own name or with the name of some other person;
 - b. Re-endorse the bill in blank, or to some other person;
 - c. Transfer the bill to a third person without filling up the blank, and without endorsing it.

Article 75.

1. In the absence of any contrary stipulation, the endorser guarantees acceptance and payment.
2. He may prohibit any further endorsement; in this case, he gives no guarantee to the persons to whom the bill is subsequently endorsed.
3. An endorsement on a bill of exchange to bearer renders the endorser liable in accordance with the provisions governing the right of recourse; however, it does not convert the instrument into a bill of exchange to order.

Article 76.

1. The possessor of a bill of exchange is deemed to be the lawful holder if he establishes his title to the bill through an uninterrupted series of endorsements, even if the last endorsement is in blank. In this connection, cancelled endorsements are deemed not to be written (non écrite). When an endorsement in blank is followed by another endorsement, the person who signed this last endorsement is deemed to have acquired the bill by the endorsement in blank.
2. Where a person has been dispossessed of a bill of exchange in any manner whatsoever, the holder who establishes his right thereto in the manner mentioned in the preceding paragraph or of a bill of exchange payable to bearer is not bound to give up the bill unless he has acquired it in bad faith, or unless in acquiring it he has been guilty of gross negligence.

Article 77.

1. Persons sued on a bill of exchange cannot set up against the holder defenses founded on their personal relations with the drawer or with previous holders, unless the holder, in acquiring the bill, has knowingly acted to the detriment of the debtor.
2. Paragraph 1 does not apply to a bill of exchange made payable to a specified person, in which the words “not to order” or any other equivalent expression have been inserted.

Article 78.

1. When an endorsement contains the statements “value in collection” (“valeur en recouvrement”), “for collection” (“pour encaissement”), “by procuration” (“par procuration”) or any other phrase implying a simple mandate, the holder may exercise all rights arising out of the bill of exchange, but he can only endorse it in his capacity as agent.

2. In this case, the parties liable can only set up against the holder defenses which could be set up against the endorser.

3. The mandate contained in an endorsement by procuration does not terminate by reason of the death of the party giving the mandate or by reason of his becoming legally incapable.

4. The delivery of a bill of exchange to a banker for collection is a payment order governed by Chapter V of this Law. In case of an inconsistency with respect to a bill of exchange between a provision of Chapter V of this Law and a provision of this Chapter, this Chapter prevails.

Article 79.

1. When an endorsement contains the statements “value in security” (“valeur en garantie”), “value in pledge” (“valeur en gage”), or any other statement implying a pledge, the holder may exercise the rights arising out of the bill of exchange, but an endorsement by him has the effect only of an endorsement by an agent.

2. The parties liable cannot set up against the holder defenses founded on their personal relations with the endorser, unless the holder, in receiving the bill, has knowingly acted to the detriment of the debtor.

Article 80.

2. An endorsement after protest or after equivalent declaration or after the expiration of the limit of time for presentment

i. Operates only as an ordinary assignment; and

ii. Does not operate to give rights under Articles 76 and 77.

2. Failing proof to the contrary, an undated endorsement is deemed to have been placed on the bill of exchange prior to the protest or equivalent declaration or prior to the expiration of the limit of time referred to in the preceding paragraph.

SECTION 3—ACCEPTANCE

Article 81. Until maturity, a bill of exchange may be presented to the drawee for acceptance at his domicile, either by the holder or by a person who is merely in possession of the bill.

Article 82.

1. In any bill of exchange, the drawer may stipulate that it shall be presented for acceptance with or without fixing a limit of time for presentment.

2. Except in the case of a bill payable at the address of a third party or in a locality other than that of the domicile of the drawee, or, except in the case of a bill drawn payable at a fixed period after sight, the drawer may prohibit presentment for acceptance.

3. He may also stipulate that presentment for acceptance shall not take place before a named date.

4. Unless the drawer has prohibited acceptance, every endorser may stipulate that the bill shall be presented for acceptance, with or without fixing a limit of time for presentment.

Article 83.

1. Bills of exchange payable at a fixed period after sight must be presented for acceptance within one year of their date.

2. The drawer may abridge or extend this period.

3. These periods may be abridged by the endorsers.

Article 84.

1. The drawee may demand that a bill shall be presented to him a second time on the day after the first presentment. Parties interested are not allowed to set up that this demand has not been complied with unless this request is mentioned in the protest.

2. The holder is not obliged to surrender to the drawee a bill presented for acceptance.

Article 85.

1. An acceptance is written on the bill of exchange. It is expressed by the word "accepted" or any other equivalent term. It is signed by the drawee. The simple signature of the drawee on the face of the bill constitutes an acceptance.

2. When the bill is payable at a certain time after sight, or when it must be presented for acceptance within a certain limit of time in accordance with a special stipulation, the acceptance must be dated as of the day when the acceptance is given, unless the holder requires that it shall be dated as of the day of presentment. If it is undated, the holder, in order to preserve his right of recourse against the endorsers and the drawer, must authenticate the omission by a protest drawn up within the proper time.

Article 86.

1. An acceptance is unconditional, but the drawee may restrict it to part of the sum payable.

2. Every other modification introduced by an acceptance into the tenor of the bill of exchange operates as a refusal to accept. Nevertheless, the acceptor is bound according to the terms of his acceptance as modifying the tenor of the bill of exchange.

Article 87.

1. When the drawer of a bill has indicated a place of payment other than the domicile of the drawee without specifying a third party at whose address payment must be made, the drawee may name such third party at the time of acceptance. In default of this indication, the acceptor is deemed to have undertaken to pay the bill himself at the place of payment.

2. If a bill is payable at the domicile of the drawee, the latter may in his acceptance indicating an address in the same place where payment is to be made.

Article 88.

1. A bill of exchange does not operate as an assignment of funds in the hands of the drawee available for payment thereof, and the drawee of a bill of exchange who does not accept is not liable on the bill of exchange.

2. By accepting, the drawee undertakes to pay the bill of exchange at its maturity.

3. In default of payment, the holder, even if he is the drawer, has a direct action on the bill of exchange against the acceptor for all that can be demanded in accordance with Articles 106 - 107.

Article 89.

1. Where the drawee who has put his acceptance on a bill has cancelled it before restoring the bill, acceptance is deemed to be refused. Failing proof to the contrary, the cancellation is deemed to have taken place before the bill was restored.

2. Nevertheless, if the drawee has notified his acceptance in writing to the holder or to any party who has signed the bill, he is liable to such parties according to the terms of his acceptance.

SECTION 4—“AVALS”

Article 90.

1. Payment of a bill of exchange may be guaranteed by an “aval” as to the whole or part of its amount.

2. This guarantee may be given by a third person or even by a person who has signed as a party to the bill.

Article 91.

1. An “aval” may be given either on the bill itself or on an “allonge.”

2. It is expressed by the words “good as aval” (“bon pour aval”) or by any other equivalent formula. It is signed by the giver of the “aval.”

3. It is deemed to be constituted by the mere signature of the giver of the “aval” placed on the face of the bill, except in the case of the signature of the drawee or of the drawer.

4. An “aval” must specify for whose account it is given. In default of this, it is deemed to be given for the drawer.

Article 92.

1. The giver of an “aval” is bound in the same manner as the person for whom he has become guarantor.

2. His undertaking is valid even when the liability which he has guaranteed is inoperative for any reason other than defect of form.

3. He has, when he pays a bill of exchange, the rights arising out of the bill of exchange against the person guaranteed and against those who are liable to the latter on the bill of exchange.

SECTION 5—MATURITY

Article 93.

1. A bill of exchange may be drawn payable:

- a. At sight;
- b. At a fixed period after sight;
- c. At a fixed period after date; or
- d. At a fixed date.

2. A bill of exchange may be drawn payable by stated installments, each at a fixed date, with a provision that in default in payment of any installment the entire unpaid balance shall become due;

3. Bills of exchange at other maturities are null and void.

Article 94.

1. A bill of exchange at sight is payable on presentment. It must be presented for payment within a year of its date of issue. The drawer may abridge or extend this period. These periods may be abridged by the endorsers.

2. The drawer may prescribe that a bill of exchange payable at sight must not be presented for payment before a named date. In this case, the period for presentment begins from the said date.

Article 95.

1. The maturity of a bill of exchange payable at a fixed period after sight is determined either by the date of the acceptance or by the date of the protest.

2. In the absence of the protest, an undated acceptance is deemed, so far as regards the acceptor, to have been given on the last day of the limit of time for presentment for acceptance.

Article 96.

1. Where a bill of exchange is drawn payable at one or more months after date or after sight, the bill matures on the corresponding date of the month when payment must be made. If there be no corresponding date, the bill matures on the last day of this month.

2. When a bill of exchange is drawn payable at one or more months and a half after date or sight, entire months must first be calculated.

3. If the maturity is fixed at the commencement, in the middle, or at the end of the month, the first, fifteenth or last day of the month is to be understood.

4. The expression "eight days" or "fifteen days" indicates not one or two weeks, but a period of eight or fifteen actual days.

5. The expression "half month" means a period of fifteen days.

Article 97.

1. When a bill of exchange is payable on a fixed day in a place where the calendar is different from the calendar in the place of issue, the day of maturity is deemed to be fixed according to the calendar of the place of payment.

2. When a bill of exchange drawn between two places having different calendars is payable at a fixed period after date, the day of issue is referred to the corresponding day of the calendar in the place of payment, and the maturity is fixed accordingly.

3. The time for presenting bills of exchange is calculated in accordance with the rules of the preceding paragraph.

4. These rules do not apply if a stipulation in the bill or even the simple terms of the instrument indicate an intention to adopt some different rule.

SECTION 6—PAYMENT

Article 98.

1. The holder of a bill of exchange payable on a fixed day or at a fixed period after date or after sight must present the bill for payment either on the day on which it is payable or on one of the two business days which follow.

2. The presentment of a bill of exchange either at or through a clearing-house, or electronically, as provided by agreement or regulations issued by the National Bank of Cambodia, is an effective presentment for payment.

Article 99.

1. The drawee that pays a bill of exchange may require that it shall be given up to him receipted by the holder.

2. The holder may not refuse partial payment.

3. In case of partial payment the drawee may require that the partial payment shall be mentioned on the bill and that a receipt shall be given to him.

Article 100. When a bill of exchange is not presented for payment within the limit of time fixed by Article 98, every debtor is authorized to deposit the amount with the competent authority, as designated by the National Bank of Cambodia, at the charge, risk and peril of the holder.

Article 101

1. The holder of a bill of exchange cannot be compelled to receive payment thereof before maturity.

2. The drawee who pays before maturity does so at his own risk and peril.

3. He who pays at maturity is validly discharged, unless he has been guilty of fraud or gross negligence. He is bound to verify the regularity of the series of endorsements, but not the signature of the endorsers.

Article 102.

1. When a bill of exchange is drawn payable in a currency which is not that of the place of payment, the sum payable may be paid in the currency of the country, according to its value on the date of maturity. If the debtor is in default, the holder may at his option demand that the amount of the bill be paid in the currency of the country according to the rate on the day of maturity or the day of payment.

2. The usage of the place of payment determines the value of foreign currency. Nevertheless, the drawer may stipulate that the sum payable shall be calculated according to a rate expressed in the bill.

3. The foregoing rules shall not apply to a bill of exchange (i) drawn payable in a currency which is accepted in Cambodia, or (ii) in which the drawer has stipulated that payment must be made in a certain specified foreign currency. In each such case the bill of exchange shall be paid in the stated currency.

4. If the amount of the bill of exchange is specified in a currency having the same denomination, but a different value in the country of payment and the country of issue or any other country, unless indicated otherwise, reference in the bill of exchange is deemed to be made to the currency of the country of payment. Where the currency of the country of payment does not have the same denomination, reference is deemed to be made to a currency which is widely accepted in the place of payment.

5. Where a bill of exchange is payable at the domicile of a banker the designation of an account to be debited with the amount payable is deemed to be an authorization to pay in the currency of the account.

SECTION 7—RECOURSE FOR NON-ACCEPTANCE OR NON-PAYMENT

Article 103. The holder may exercise his right of recourse against the endorsers, the drawer, and the other parties liable:

1. At maturity, if payment has not been made, or,
2. Even before maturity:
 - i. If there has been total or partial refusal to accept;
 - ii. In the event of the bankruptcy (faillite) of the drawee, whether he has accepted or not, or in the event of a stoppage of payment on his part, even when not declared by a judgment, or where execution has been levied against his assets without result;
 - iii. In the event of the bankruptcy (faillite) of the drawer of a non-acceptable bill.

Article 104.

1. Default of acceptance or of payment must be evidenced by an authentic act (protest for non-acceptance or non-payment).

2. Protest for non-acceptance must be made within the limit of time fixed for presentment for acceptance. If, in the case contemplated by Article 84, paragraph 1, the first presentment takes place on the last day of that time, the protest may nevertheless be drawn up on the next day.

3. Protest for non-payment of a bill of exchange payable on a fixed day or at a fixed period after date or sight must be made on one of the two business days following the day on which the bill is payable. In the case of a bill payable at sight, the protest must be drawn up under the conditions specified in the foregoing paragraph for the drawing up of a protest for non-acceptance.

4. Protest for non-acceptance dispenses with presentment for payment and protest for non-payment.

5. If there is a stoppage of payment on the part of the drawee, whether he has accepted or not, or if execution has been levied against his assets without result, the holder cannot exercise his right of recourse until after presentment of the bill to the drawee for payment and after the protest has been drawn up.

6. If the drawee, whether he has accepted or not, is declared bankrupt (faillite déclarée), or in the event of the declared bankruptcy of the drawer of a non-acceptable bill, the production of the judgment declaring the bankruptcy suffices to enable the holder to exercise his right of recourse.

7. A protest shall be signed by an officer legally authorized to authenticate documents. As long as no such person has been designated by law he shall be designated by the National Bank of Cambodia. A protest must contain a copy of the bill of exchange, or the original bill of exchange may be annexed thereto, and specify the person at whose request the bill of exchange is protested, the place and date of the protest, the cause or reason for protesting the bill of exchange, the demand made and the answer given, if any, or the fact that the drawee or acceptor cannot be found. It shall be made at the place of the refusal to pay or accept or at some other place in Cambodia situated within 10 kilometers of the place of presentment and refusal to pay or accept.

8. A protest may be constituted by the signed written drawee's declaration specifying the information set out in the previous paragraph.

Article 105.

1. The holder must give notice of non-acceptance or non-payment to his endorser, to the drawer and to any avaliseur of the acceptor within the four business days which follow the day for protest or, in case of a stipulation "retour sans frais," "retour sans protêt," or any other equivalent expression, the day for presentment. Every endorser must, within the two business days following the day on which he receives notice, notify his endorser of the notice he has received, mentioning the names and addresses of those who have given the previous notices, and so on through the series until the drawer is reached. The periods mentioned above run from the receipt of the preceding notice.

2. When, in conformity with the preceding paragraph, notice is given to a person who has signed a bill of exchange, the same notice must be given within the same limit of time to his avaliseur.

3. Where an endorser either has not specified his address or has specified it in an illegible manner, it is sufficient that notice should be given to the preceding endorser.

4. A person who must give notice, may give it in any form whatever, even by simply returning the bill of exchange.

5. He must prove that he has given notice within the time allowed. This time-limit shall be regarded as having been observed if a letter giving the notice has been posted within the prescribed time.

6. A person who does not give notice within the limit of time mentioned above does not forfeit his rights. He is responsible for the injury, if any, caused by his negligence, but the damages shall not exceed the amount of the bill of exchange.

Article 106.

1. The drawer, an endorser, or a person guaranteeing payment by aval (avaliseur) may, by the stipulation “retour sans frais,” “retour sans protêt,” or any other equivalent expression written on the instrument and signed, release the holder from having a protest of non-acceptance or non-payment drawn up in order to exercise his right of recourse.

2. This stipulation does not release the holder from presenting the bill within the prescribed time, or from the notices he has to give. The burden of proving the non-observance of the limits of time lies on the person who seeks to set it up against the holder.

3. If the stipulation is written by the drawer, it is operative in respect of all persons who have signed the bill; if it is written by an endorser or an avaliseur, it is operative only in respect of such endorser or avaliseur. If, in spite of the stipulation written by the drawer, the holder has the protest drawn up, he must bear the expenses thereof. When the stipulation emanates from an endorser or avaliseur, the costs of the protest, if one is drawn up, may be recovered from all the persons who have signed the bill.

Article 107.

1. All drawers, acceptors, endorsers or guarantors by aval of a bill of exchange are jointly and severally liable to the holder.

2. The holder has the right of proceeding against all these persons individually or collectively without being required to observe the order in which they have become bound.

3. The same right is possessed by any person signing the bill who has taken it up and paid it.

4. Proceedings against one of the parties liable do not prevent proceedings against the others, even though they may be subsequent to the party first proceeded against.

Article 108.

1. The holder may recover from the person against whom he exercises his right of recourse:

a. The amount of the unaccepted or unpaid bill of exchange with interest, if interest has been stipulated for;

b. Interest at a rate determined by the National Bank of Cambodia from the date of maturity;

c. The expenses of protest and of the notices given as well as other expenses.

2. If the right of recourse is exercised before maturity, the amount of the bill shall be subject to a discount. This discount shall be calculated according to the official rate of discount (bank-rate) ruling on the date when recourse is exercised at the place of domicile of the holder.

Article 109. A party who takes up and pays a bill of exchange can recover from the parties liable to him:

1. The entire sum which he has paid;

2. Interest on the said sum calculated at a rate determined by the National Bank of Cambodia, starting from the day when he made payment;

3. Any expenses which he has incurred.

Article 110.

1. Every party liable against whom a right of recourse is or may be exercised can require against payment that the bill shall be given up to him with the protest and a receipted account.

2. Every endorser who has taken up and paid a bill of exchange may cancel his own endorsement and those of subsequent endorsers.

Article 111. In the case of the exercise of the right of recourse after a partial acceptance, the party who pays the sum in respect of which the bill has not been accepted can require that this payment shall be specified on the bill and that he shall be given a receipt therefore. The holder must also give him a certified copy of the bill, together with the protest, in order to enable subsequent recourse to be exercised.

Article 112.

1. Every person having the right of recourse may, in the absence of agreement to the contrary, reimburse himself by means of a fresh bill (redraft) to be drawn at sight on one of the parties liable to him and payable at the domicile of that party.

2. The redraft includes, in addition to the sums mentioned in Articles 108 and 109, brokerage and the cost of stamping the redraft.

3. If the redraft is drawn by the holder, the sum payable is fixed according to the rate for a sight bill drawn at the place where the original bill was payable upon the party liable at the place of his domicile. If the redraft is drawn by an endorser, the sum payable is fixed according to the rate for a sight bill drawn at the place where the drawer of the redraft is domiciled upon the place of domicile of the party liable.

Article 113.

1. The holder loses his rights of recourse against the endorsers, against the drawer and against the other parties liable, with the exception of the acceptor, after the expiration of the limits of time fixed:

- a. For the presentment of a bill of exchange drawn at sight or at a fixed period after sight;
- b. For drawing up the protest for non-acceptance or non-payment;
- c. For presentment for payment in the case of a stipulation “retour sans frais,” “retour sans protêt,” or any other equivalent expression.

2. In default of presentment for acceptance within the limit of time stipulated by the drawer, the holder loses his right of recourse for non-payment, as well as for non-acceptance, unless it appears from the terms of the stipulation that the drawer only meant to release himself from the guarantee of acceptance.

3. If the stipulation for a limit of time for presentment is contained in an endorsement, the endorser alone can avail himself of it.

4. The holder who has lost his right of recourse under this Article may sue the drawer under the Law of contract and ordinary assignment, in an action governed by the Law of contract and assignment. Any recovery under this paragraph is reduced by damages for any injury caused to the drawer by the holder's failure to meet required limits of time.

Article 114.

1. Should the presentment of the bill of exchange or the drawing up of the protest within the prescribed limits of time be prevented by an insurmountable obstacle (vis major), these limits of time shall be extended.

2. The holder is bound to give notice without delay of the case of vis major to his endorser and to specify this notice, which he must date and sign, on the bill or on an allonge; in other respects the provisions of Article 105 shall apply.

3. When vis major has terminated, the holder must without delay present the bill of exchange for acceptance or payment and, if need be, draw up the protest.

4. If vis major continues to operate beyond thirty days after maturity, recourse may be exercised, and neither presentment nor the drawing up of a protest shall be necessary.

5. In the case of bills of exchange drawn at sight or at a fixed period after sight, the time-limit of thirty days shall run from the date on which the holder, even before the expiration of the time for presentment, has given notice of vis major to his endorser. In the case of bills of exchange drawn at a certain time after sight, the above time-limit of thirty days shall be added to the period after sight specified in the bill of exchange.

6. Facts which are purely personal to the holder or to the person whom he has entrusted with the presentment of the bill or drawing up of the protest are not deemed to constitute cases of vis major.

7. Liability on a bill of exchange that has been lost or destroyed may be enforced only against security provided by the party enforcing the bill of exchange, which to the satisfaction of the court, indemnifies the party liable on it against any claim of any other person on the bill of exchange if it reaches a holder who acquires it otherwise than in bad faith or gross negligence.

SECTION 8—INTERVENTION FOR HONOR

Article 115.

1. The drawer, an endorser, or a person giving an aval may specify a person who is to accept or pay in case of need.

2. A bill of exchange may, subject as hereinafter mentioned, be accepted or paid by a person who intervenes for the honor of any debtor against whom a right of recourse exists.

3. The person intervening may be a third party, even the drawee, or, save the acceptor, a party already liable on the bill of exchange.

4. The person intervening is bound to give, within two business days, notice of his intervention to the party for whose honor he has intervened. In default, he is responsible for the injury, if any, due to his negligence, but the damages shall not exceed the amount of the bill of exchange.

Article 116.

1. There may be acceptance by intervention in all cases where the holder has a right of recourse before maturity on a bill which has not yet been accepted.

2. When the bill of exchange indicates a person who is designated to accept or pay it as a referee in case of need at the place of payment, the holder may not exercise his rights of recourse before maturity against the person naming such referee and against subsequent signatories, unless he has presented the bill of exchange to the referee and until, if acceptance is refused by the latter, this refusal has been authenticated by a protest.

3. In other cases of intervention the holder may refuse an acceptance by intervention. Nevertheless, if he allows it, he loses his right of recourse before maturity against the person on whose behalf such acceptance was given and against subsequent signatories.

Article 117. Acceptance by intervention is specified on the bill of exchange. It is signed by the person intervening. It mentions the person for whose honor it has been given and, in default of such mention, the acceptance is deemed to have been given for the honor of the drawer.

Article 118.

1. The acceptor by intervention is liable to the holder and to the endorsers, subsequent to the party for whose honor he intervened, in the same manner as such party.

2. Notwithstanding an acceptance by intervention, the party for whose honor it has been given and the parties liable to him may require the holder, in exchange for payment of the sum mentioned in Article 108, to deliver the bill, the protest, and a receipted account, if any.

Article 119.

1. Payment by intervention may take place in all cases where, either at maturity or before maturity, the holder has a right of recourse on the bill.

2. Payment must include the whole amount payable by the party for whose honor it is made.

3. It must be made at the latest on the day following the last day allowed for drawing up the protest for non-payment.

Article 120.

1. If a bill of exchange has been accepted by persons intervening who are domiciled in the place of payment, or if persons domiciled there have been named as referees in case of need, the holder must present the bill to all these persons and, if necessary, have a protest for non-payment drawn up at the latest on the day following the last day allowed for drawing up the protest.

2. In default of protest within this limit of time, the party who has named the referee in case of need, or for whose account the bill has been accepted, and the subsequent endorsers, are discharged.

Article 121. The holder who refuses payment by intervention loses his right of recourse against any persons who would have been discharged thereby.

Article 122.

1. Payment by intervention must be authenticated by a receipt given on the bill of exchange mentioning the person for whose honor payment has been made. In default of such mention, payment is deemed to have been made for the honor of the drawer.

2. The bill of exchange and the protest, if any, must be given up to the person paying by intervention.

Article 123.

1. The person paying by intervention acquires the rights arising out of the bill of exchange against the party for whose honor he has paid and against persons who are liable to the latter on the bill of exchange. Nevertheless, he cannot re-endorse the bill of exchange.

2. Endorsers subsequent to the party for whose honor payment has been made are discharged.

3. In case of competition for payment by intervention, the payment which affects the greater number of releases has the preference. Any person, who with knowledge of the facts, intervenes in a manner contrary to this rule, loses his right of recourse against those who would have been discharged.

SECTION 9 – PARTS OF A SET AND COPIES

Article 124.

1. Where a bill is drawn in a set of two or more identical parts, with each part of the set being numbered and containing a reference to the other parts, the whole of the parts constitute one bill.

2. The acceptance and each endorsement of a bill drawn in a set may be written on any part, but to be liable on the whole bill and not on any separate part, each such acceptance or endorsement must be written on one part only.

3. The drawer who signed each part is nevertheless liable on the whole bill and not on each part.

4. A party who has sent one part for acceptance must indicate on the other parts the name of the person in whose hands this part is to be found. That person is bound to surrender it to the lawful holder of another part. If he refuses, the holder cannot exercise his right of recourse until he has had a protest drawn up specifying:

- a. That the part sent for acceptance has not been given up to him on his demand;
- b. That acceptance or payment could not be obtained on another of the parts.

Article 125.

1. Where the holder of a set endorses two or more parts to different persons:

a. He is liable on every such part, and every endorser subsequent to him is liable on the part he has himself endorsed as if the parts were separate bills.

b. The lawful holder of a part whose title first accrues is entitled to recover payment received by any person paid by the drawer or the drawee who has not accepted the bill.

2. Where the drawee accepts more than one part and such accepted parts get into the hands of different lawful holders, he is liable on every such part as if it were a separate bill.

Article 126.

1. When the acceptor of a bill drawn in a set pays it without requiring the part bearing his acceptance to be delivered up to him, and that part at maturity is outstanding in the hands of a lawful holder, he is liable to the holder thereof.

2. The drawer of a bill drawn in a set is discharged when he pays any part duly presented to him.

3. Subject to this Article and the preceding Article, where any one part of a bill drawn in a set is discharged by payment or otherwise, the whole bill is discharged.

Article 127.

1. Every holder of a bill of exchange has the right to make copies of it.

2. A copy must reproduce the original exactly, with the endorsements and all other statements to be found therein. It must specify where the copy ends.

3. It may be endorsed and guaranteed by aval in the same manner and with the same effects as the original.

Article 128.

1. A copy must specify the person in possession of the original instrument. The latter is bound to hand over the said instrument to the lawful holder of the copy.

2. If he refuses, the holder may not exercise his right of recourse against the persons who have endorsed the copy or guaranteed it by aval until he has had a protest drawn up specifying that the original has not been given up to him on his demand.

3. Where the original instrument, after the last endorsement before the making of the copy contains a clause “commencing from here an endorsement is only valid if made on the copy” or some equivalent formula, a subsequent endorsement on the original is null and void.

SECTION 10—ALTERATIONS

Article 129. In case of alteration of the text of a bill of exchange, parties who have signed subsequent to the alteration are bound according to the terms of the altered text; parties who have signed before the alteration are bound according to the terms of the original text.

SECTION 11—LIMITATION OF ACTIONS OF RECOURSE

Article 130.

1. All actions of recourse arising out of a bill of exchange against the acceptor are barred after three years, reckoned from the date of maturity.

2. Actions of recourse by the holder against the endorsers and against the drawer are barred after one year from the date of a protest drawn up within proper time, or from the date of maturity where there is a stipulation “retour sans frais,” “retour sans protêt,” or any other equivalent expression.

3. Actions of recourse by endorsers against each other and against the drawer are barred after six months, reckoned from the day when the endorser took up and paid the bill or from the day when he himself was sued.

Article 131. Interruption of the period of limitation is only effective against the person in respect of whom the period has been interrupted.

SECTION 12—TIME CALCULATIONS

Article 132.

1. Payment of a bill of exchange which falls due on a legal holiday (jour férié légal) cannot be demanded until the next business day. So too, all other proceedings relating to a bill of exchange, in particular presentment for acceptance and protest, can only be taken on a business day.

2. Where any of these proceedings must be taken within a certain limit of time the last day of which is a legal holiday (jour férié légal), the limit of time is extended until the first business day which follows the expiration of that time. Intermediate holidays (jours fériés) are included in computing limits of time.

Article 133. Legal or contractual limits of time do not include the day on which the period commences.

Article 134. No days of grace, whether legal or judicial, are permitted.

CHAPTER IV—PROMISSORY NOTES

SECTION 1—ISSUE AND FORM OF A PROMISSORY NOTE

Article 135. A promissory note is an unconditional promise in writing made by one person to another signed by the maker, undertaking to pay, a determinate sum of money to, or to the order of, a specified person or to bearer. It must be payable at a maturity and conform to all requirements as provided by this Chapter.

Article 136. A promissory note is a credit instrument. It may be written in Khmer or any other language and must contain:

- The term “promissory note” inserted in the body of the instrument and expressed in the language employed in drawing up the instrument;
- An unconditional promise to pay a determinate sum of money;

- A statement of the time of payment;
- A statement of the place where payment is to be made;
- The name of the person to whom or to whose order payment is to be made;
- A statement of the date and of the place where the promissory note is issued;
- The signature of the person who makes the promise on the instrument (maker).

Article 137. An instrument in which any of the requirements mentioned in the preceding article are wanting is invalid as a promissory note except in the case specified in the following paragraphs:

1. A promissory note in which the time of payment is not specified is deemed to be payable at sight.

2. In default of special mention, the place where the instrument is made is deemed to be the place of payment and at the same time the place of the domicile of the maker.

3. A promissory note which does not mention the place of its issue is deemed to have been made in the place mentioned beside the name of the maker.

4. A promissory note may be payable to bearer. A promissory note which does not contain the name of the person to whom or to whose order payment is to be made is deemed to be made payable to bearer.

Article 138. A promissory note may be payable at a place other than the maker's domicile, including at the domicile of a third person either in the locality where the maker has his domicile or in another locality.

Article 139.

1. When a promissory note is payable at sight, or at a fixed period after sight, the maker may stipulate that the sum payable shall bear interest. In the case of any other promissory note, this stipulation is deemed not to be written (non écrite).

2. The rate of interest must be specified in the promissory note; in default of such specification, the stipulation shall be deemed not to be written (non écrite).

3. Interest runs from the date of the promissory note, unless some other date is specified.

Article 140.

1. When the sum payable by a promissory note is expressed in words and also in figures, and there is a discrepancy between the two, the sum denoted by the words is the amount payable.

2. Where the sum payable by a promissory note is expressed more than once in words or more than once in figures, and there is a discrepancy, the smaller sum is the sum payable.

Article 141. If a promissory note bears signatures of persons incapable of binding themselves by a promissory note, or forged signatures, or signatures of fictitious persons, or signatures which for any other reason cannot bind the persons who signed the promissory note or on whose behalf it was signed, the obligations of the other persons who signed it are nonetheless valid.

Article 142. Whosoever puts his signature on a promissory note as representing a person for whom he had no power to act is bound himself as a party to the promissory note and, if he pays, has the same rights as the person for whom he purported to act. The same rule applies to a representative who has exceeded his powers.

Article 143. If a promissory note, which was incomplete when issued, has been completed otherwise than in accordance with the agreements entered into, the non-observance of such agreements may not be set up against the holder unless he has acquired the promissory note in bad faith or, in acquiring it, has been guilty of gross negligence.

SECTION 2— ENDORSEMENT

Article 144.

1. A promissory note made payable to a specified person, with or without the express clause “to order”, may be transferred by means of endorsement.

2. When the maker has inserted in a promissory note payable to a specified person the words “not to order” or an equivalent expression, the instrument can only be transferred according to the form, and with the effects of an ordinary assignment.

3. A promissory note may be endorsed even in favor of the maker, or of any other party to the promissory note. These persons may re-endorse it.

4. An instrument in the form of a promissory note payable to the maker's order is not a promissory note under this Chapter, unless it is endorsed by the maker.

Article 145.

1. An endorsement must be unconditional. Any condition to which it is made subject is deemed not to be written (non écrite).

2. A partial endorsement is null and void.

3. An endorsement “to bearer” is equivalent to an endorsement in blank.

Article 146.

1. An endorsement must be written on the back of the promissory note or on a slip affixed thereto (allonge). It must be signed by the endorser.

2. The endorsement may leave the beneficiary unspecified or may consist simply of the signature of the endorser (endorsement in blank).

Article 147.

1. An endorsement transfers all the rights arising out of a promissory note.
2. If the endorsement is in blank, the holder may:
 - a. Fill up the blank either with his own name or with the name of some other person;
 - b. Re-endorse the promissory note in blank, or to some other person;
 - c. Transfer the promissory note to a third person without filling up the blank, and without endorsing it.

Article 148.

1. In the absence of any contrary stipulation, the endorser guarantees payment.
2. He may prohibit any further endorsement; in this case, he gives no guarantee to the persons to whom the promissory note is subsequently endorsed.
3. An endorsement on a promissory note to bearer renders the endorser liable in accordance with the provisions governing the right of recourse; however, it does not convert the instrument into a promissory note to order.

Article 149.

1. The possessor of a promissory note is deemed to be the lawful holder if he establishes his title to the promissory note through an uninterrupted series of endorsements, even if the last endorsement is in blank. In this connection, cancelled endorsements are deemed not to be written (non écrite). When an endorsement in blank is followed by another endorsement, the person who signed this last endorsement is deemed to have acquired the promissory note by the endorsement in blank.

2. Where a person has been dispossessed of a promissory note, in any manner whatsoever, the holder who establishes his right thereto in the manner mentioned in the preceding paragraph or of a promissory note payable to bearer is not bound to give up the promissory note unless he has acquired it in bad faith, or unless in acquiring it he has been guilty of gross negligence.

Article 150.

1. Persons sued on a promissory note cannot set up against the holder defenses founded on their personal relations with the maker or with previous holders, unless the holder, in acquiring the promissory note, has knowingly acted to the detriment of the debtor.

2. Paragraph 1 does not apply to a promissory note made payable to a specified person, in which the words “not to order” or any other equivalent expression have been inserted.

Article 151.

1. When an endorsement contains the statements “value in collection” (“valeur en recouvrement”), “for collection” (“pour encaissement”), “by procuration” (“par procuration”) or any other phrase implying a simple mandate, the holder may exercise all rights arising out of the promissory note, but he can only endorse it in his capacity as agent.

2. In this case, the parties liable can only set up against the holder defenses which could be set up against the endorser.

3. The mandate contained in an endorsement by procuration does not terminate by reason of the death of the party giving the mandate or by reason of his becoming legally incapable.

4. The delivery of a promissory note to a banker for collection is a payment order governed by Chapter V of this Law. In case of an inconsistency with respect to promissory notes between a provision of Chapter V of this Law and a provision of this Chapter, this Chapter prevails.

Article 152.

1. When an endorsement contains the statements “value in security” (“valeur en garantie”), “value in pledge” (“valeur en gage”), or any other statement implying a pledge, the holder may exercise the rights arising out of the promissory note, but an endorsement by him has the effects only of an endorsement by an agent.

2. The parties liable cannot set up against the holder defenses founded on their personal relations with the endorser, unless the holder, in receiving the promissory note, has knowingly acted to the detriment of the debtor.

Article 153.

1. An endorsement after protest or after an equivalent declaration or after the expiration of the limit of time for presentment

i. Operates only as an ordinary assignment; and

ii. Does not operate to give rights under Articles 149 and 150.

2. Failing proof to the contrary, an undated endorsement is deemed to have been placed on the promissory note prior to the protest or equivalent declaration or prior to the expiration of the limit of time referred to in the preceding paragraph.

SECTION 3— LIABILITY OF MAKER OF PROMISSORY NOTE

Article 154.

1. By making it, the maker undertakes to pay the promissory note at its maturity.
2. In default of payment, the holder has a direct action on the promissory note against the maker for all that can be demanded in accordance with Articles 175 and 176.

Article 155.

1. A promissory note payable at a fixed period after sight must be presented for visa within one year of its date.
2. The maker may abridge or extend this period.
3. These periods may be abridged by the endorsers.

Article 156.

1. A visa is written on the promissory note. It is expressed by the word “visa” or any other equivalent term. It is signed by the maker.
2. The visa must be dated as of the day when the visa is given, unless the holder requires that it shall be dated as of the day of presentment. If it is undated, the holder, in order to preserve his right of recourse against the endorsers and the maker, must authenticate the omission by a protest drawn up within the proper time.
3. The fixed period after sight at which the promissory note is payable runs from the date of the visa signed by the maker on the note. The refusal of the maker to give his visa with the date thereon must be authenticated by a protest, the date of which marks the commencement of the period of time after sight.

SECTION 4— "AVALS"

Article 157.

1. Payment of a promissory note may be guaranteed by an "aval" as to the whole or part of its amount.
2. This guarantee may be given by a third person or even by a person who has signed as a party to the promissory note.

Article 158.

1. An “aval” may be given either on the promissory note itself or on an “allonge”.
2. It is expressed by the words “good as aval” (“bon pur ava”) or by any other equivalent formula. It is signed by the giver of the “aval”.

3. It is deemed to be to be constituted by the mere signature of the giver of the “aval” placed on the face of the promissory note, except in the case of the signature of the maker.

4. An “aval” must specify for whose account it is given. In default of this, it is deemed to be given for the maker.

Article 159.

1. The giver of an “aval” is bound in the same manner as the person for whom he has become guarantor.

2. His undertaking is valid even when the liability which he has guaranteed is inoperative for any reason other than defect of form.

3. He has, when he pays a promissory note, the rights arising out of the promissory note against the person guaranteed and against those who are liable to the latter on the promissory note.

SECTION 5— MATURITY

Article 160.

1. A promissory note may be made payable:

- a. At sight;
- b. At a fixed period after sight;
- c. At a fixed period after date; or
- d. At a fixed date.

2. A promissory note may be made payable by stated installments, each at a fixed date, with a provision that in default in payment of any installment the entire unpaid balance shall become due.

3. Promissory notes at other maturities are null and void.

Article 161.

1. A promissory note at sight is payable on presentment. It must be presented for payment within a year of its date of issue. The maker may abridge or extend this period. These periods may be abridged by the endorsers.

2. The maker may prescribe that a promissory note payable at sight must not be presented for payment before a named date. In this case, the period for presentment begins from the said date.

Article 162.

1. The maturity of a promissory note payable at a fixed period after sight is determined either by the date of the visa or by the date of the protest.

2. In the absence of the protest, an undated visa is deemed, so far as regards the maker, to have been given on the last day of the limit of time for presentment for visa.

Article 163.

1. Where a promissory note is made payable at one or more months after date or after sight, the promissory note matures on the corresponding date of the month when payment must be made. If there be no corresponding date, the promissory note matures on the last day of this month.

2. When a promissory note is made payable at one or more months and a half after date or sight, entire months must first be calculated.

3. If the maturity is fixed at the commencement, in the middle, or at the end of the month, the first, fifteenth or last day of the month is to be understood.

4. The expression “eight days” or “fifteen days” indicate not one or two weeks, but a period of eight or fifteen actual days.

5. The expression “half month” means a period of fifteen days.

Article 164. When a promissory note is payable on a fixed day or at a fixed period after date in a place where the calendar is different from the calendar in the place of issue, unless a stipulation in the promissory note or even the simple terms of the instrument indicate an intention to adopt some different rule, the day of maturity is deemed to be fixed according to the calendar of the place of payment.

SECTION 6—PAYMENT

Article 165.

1. The holder of a promissory note payable on a fixed day or at a fixed period after date or after sight must present the promissory note for payment either on the day on which it is payable or on one of the two business days which follow.

2. The presentment of a promissory note either at or through a clearing-house, or electronically, as provided by agreement or regulations issued by the National Bank of Cambodia, is an effective presentment for payment.

Article 166.

1. The maker who pays a promissory note may require that it shall be given up to him receipted by the holder.

2. The holder may not refuse partial payment.

3. In case of partial payment the maker may require that the partial payment shall be mentioned on the promissory note and that a receipt shall be given to him.

Article 167. When a promissory note is not presented for payment within the limit of time fixed by Article 165, every debtor is authorized to deposit the amount with the competent authority, as designated by the National Bank of Cambodia, at the charge, risk and peril of the holder.

Article 168.

1. The holder of a promissory note cannot be compelled to receive payment thereof before maturity.

2. The maker who pays before maturity does so at his own risk and peril.

3. He who pays at maturity is validly discharged, unless he has been guilty of fraud or gross negligence. He is bound to verify the regularity of the series of endorsements, but not the signature of the endorsers.

Article 169.

1. When a promissory note is made payable in a currency which is not that of the place of payment, the sum payable may be paid in the currency of the country, according to its value on the date of maturity. If the debtor is in default, the holder may at his option demand that the amount of the promissory note be paid in the currency of the country according to the rate on the day of maturity or the day of payment.

2. The usage of the place of payment determines the value of foreign currency. Nevertheless, the maker may stipulate that the sum payable shall be calculated according to a rate expressed in the promissory note.

3. The foregoing rules shall not apply to a promissory note (i) made payable in a currency which is widely accepted in Cambodia, or (ii) in which the maker has stipulated that payment must be made in a certain specified foreign currency. In each such case the promissory note shall be paid in the stated currency.

4. If the amount of the promissory note is specified in a currency having the same denomination, but a different value in the country of payment and the country of issue or any other country, unless indicated otherwise, reference in the promissory note is deemed to be made to the currency of the country of payment where the currency of the country of payment does not have the same denomination, to a currency which is widely accepted in the place of payment.

5. Where a promissory note is payable at the domicile of a banker the designation of an account to be debited with the amount payable is deemed to be an authorization to pay in the currency of the account.

SECTION 7— RECOURSE FOR NON-PAYMENT

Article 170. The holder may exercise his right of recourse against the endorsers, the maker and the other parties liable:

1. at maturity, if payment has not been made, or
2. even before maturity, in the event of the bankruptcy (faillite) of the maker or in the event of a stoppage of payment on his part, even when not declared by a judgment, or where execution has been levied against his assets without result;

Article 171.

1. Default of payment must be evidenced by an authentic act (protest for non-payment).
2. Protest for non-payment of a promissory note payable on a fixed day or at a fixed period after date or sight must be made on one of the two business days following the day on which the promissory note is payable. In the case of a promissory note payable at sight, the protest must be drawn up within the limit of the time fixed for presentment for payment. Protest for the refusal to give visa dispenses with presentment for payment and must be made within the limit of time fixed for presentment for payment.
3. If there is a stoppage of payment on the part of the maker or if execution has been levied against his assets without result, the holder cannot exercise his right of recourse until after presentment of the promissory note to the maker for payment and after the protest has been drawn up.
4. If the maker is declared bankrupt (faillite déclarée), the production of the judgment declaring the bankruptcy suffices to enable the holder to exercise his right of recourse.
5. A protest shall be signed by an officer legally authorized to authenticate documents. As long as no such person has been designated by law he shall be designated by the National Bank of Cambodia. A protest must contain a copy of the promissory note, or the original promissory note may be annexed thereto, and specify the person at whose request the promissory note is protested, the place and date of the protest, the cause or reason for protesting the promissory note, the demand made and the answer given, if any, or the fact that the maker cannot be found. It shall be made at the place of refusal to pay or at some other place in Cambodia situated within 10 kilometers of the place of presentment and refusal to pay.
6. A protest may be constituted by the signed written maker's declaration specifying the information set out in previous paragraph.

Article 172.

1. The holder must give notice of non-payment to his endorser and to any avaliseur of the maker within the four business days which follow the day for protest or, in case of a stipulation “retour sans frais,” “retour sans protêt,” or any other equivalent expression, the day for presentment. Every endorser must, within the two business days following the day on which he receives notice, notify his endorser of the notice he has received, mentioning the names and addresses of those who have given the previous notices, and so on through the series until the maker is reached. The periods mentioned above run from the receipt of the preceding notice.

2. When, in conformity with the preceding paragraph, notice is given to a person who has signed a promissory note, the same notice must be given within the same limit of time to his avaliseur.

3. Where an endorser either has not specified his address or has specified it in an illegible manner, it is sufficient that notice should be given to the preceding endorser.

4. A person who must give notice, may give it in any form whatever, even by simply returning the promissory note.

5. He must prove that he has given notice within the time allowed. This time-limit shall be regarded as having been observed if a letter giving the notice has been posted within the prescribed time.

6. A person who does not give notice within the limit of time mentioned above is responsible for the injury, if any, caused by his negligence, but the damages shall not exceed the amount of the promissory note.

Article 173.

1. An endorser, or a person guaranteeing payment by aval (avaliseur) may, by the stipulation “retour sans frais,” “retour sans protêt,” or any other equivalent expression written on the instrument and signed, release the holder from having a protest of non-payment drawn up in order to exercise his right of recourse.

2. This stipulation does not release the holder from presenting the promissory note within the prescribed time, or from the notices he has to give. The burden of proving the non-observance of the limits of time lies on the person who seeks to set it up against the holder.

3. A stipulation written by an endorser or an avaliseur, is operative only in respect of such endorser or avaliseur. If, in spite of the stipulation the holder has the protest drawn up, the costs of the protest may be recovered from all the persons who have signed the promissory note.

Article 174.

1. All makers, endorsers or guarantors by aval of a promissory note are jointly and severally liable to the holder.

2. The holder has the right of proceeding against all these persons individually or collectively without being required to observe the order in which they have become bound.

3. The same right is possessed by any person signing the promissory note who has taken it up and paid it.

4. Proceedings against one of the parties liable do not prevent proceedings against the others, even though they may be subsequent to the party first proceeded against.

Article 175.

1. The holder may recover from the person against whom he exercises his right of recourse:

a. The amount of the unpaid promissory note with interest, if interest has been stipulated for;

b. Interest at a rate determined by the National Bank of Cambodia from the date of maturity.

c. The expenses of protest and of the notices given as well as other expenses.

2. If the right of recourse is exercised before maturity, the amount of the promissory note shall be subject to a discount. This discount shall be calculated according to the official rate of discount (bank-rate) ruling on the date when recourse is exercised at the place of domicile of the holder.

Article 176. A party who takes up and pays a promissory note can recover from the parties liable to him:

1. The entire sum which he has paid;

2. Interest on the said sum calculated at a rate determined by the National Bank of Cambodia, starting from the day when he made payment;

3. Any expenses which he has incurred.

Article 177.

1. Every party liable against whom a right of recourse is or may be exercised can require against payment that the promissory note shall be given up to him with the protest and a receipted account.

2. Every endorser who has taken up and paid a promissory note may cancel his own endorsement and those of subsequent endorsers.

Article 178.

1. Every person having the right of recourse may, in the absence of agreement to the contrary, reimburse himself by means of a bill of exchange to be drawn at sight on one of the parties liable to him and payable at the domicile of that party.

2. The bill of exchange includes, in addition to the sums mentioned in Articles 175 and 176, brokerage and the cost of stamping the bill of exchange.

3. If the bill of exchange is drawn by the holder, the sum payable is fixed according to the rate for a sight bill at the place where the original promissory note was payable at the place of his domicile. If the bill of exchange is drawn by an endorser, the sum payable is fixed according to the rate-for a sight bill drawn at the place where the drawer of the bill of exchange is domiciled upon the place of domicile of the party liable.

Article 179.

1. The holder loses his rights of recourse against the endorsers and against the other parties liable with the exception of the maker, after the expiration of the limits of time fixed:

- a. For the presentment of a promissory note payable at sight or at a fixed period after sight.
- b. For drawing up the protest for non-payment.
- c. For presentment for payment in the case of a stipulation “retour sans frais,” “retour sans protêt,” or any other equivalent expression,

2. If the stipulation for a limit of time for presentment is contained in an endorsement, the endorser alone can avail himself of it.

Article 180.

1. Should the presentment of the promissory note or the drawing up of the protest within the prescribed limits of time be prevented by an insurmountable obstacle (vis major), these limits of time shall be extended.

2. The holder is bound to give notice without delay in the case of vis major to his endorser and to specify this notice, which he must date and sign, on the promissory note or on an allonge; in all other respects the provisions of Article 172 shall apply.

3. When vis major has terminated, the holder must without delay present the promissory note for payment and, if need be, draw up the protest.

4. If vis major continues to operate beyond thirty days after maturity, recourse may be exercised, and neither presentment nor the drawing up of a protest shall be necessary.

5. In the case of promissory notes payable at sight or at a fixed period after sight, the time-limit of thirty days shall run from the date on which the holder, even before the expiration of the time for presentment, has given notice of vis major to his endorser. In the case of promissory notes payable at a certain time after sight, the above time-limit of thirty days shall be added to the period after sight specified in the promissory note.

6. Facts which are purely personal to the holder or to the person whom he has entrusted with the presentment of the promissory note or drawing up of the protest are not deemed to constitute cases of vis major.

7. Liability on a promissory note that has been lost or destroyed may be enforced only against security provided by the party enforcing the promissory note, which to the satisfaction of the court indemnifies the party liable on it against any claim of any other person on the promissory note if it reaches a holder who acquires it otherwise than in bad faith or gross negligence.

SECTION 8— INTERVENTION FOR HONOR

Article 181.

1. The maker, an endorser, or a person giving an aval may specify a person who is to pay in case of need.

2. A promissory note may, subject as hereinafter mentioned, be paid by a person who intervenes for the honor of any debtor against whom a right of recourse exists.

3. The person intervening may be a third party already liable on the promissory note.

4. The person intervening is bound to give, within two business days, notice of his intervention to the party for whose honor he has intervened. In default, he is responsible for the injury, if any, due to his negligence, but the damages shall not exceed the amount of the promissory note.

Article 182.

1. Payment by intervention may take place in all cases where, either at maturity or before maturity, the holder has a right of recourse on the promissory note.

2. Payment must include the whole amount payable by the party for whose honor it is made.

3. It must be made at the latest on the day following the last day allowed for drawing up the protest for non-payment.

Article 183.

1. If persons domiciled in the place of payment have been named as referees in case of need, the holder must present the promissory note to all these persons and, if necessary, have a protest for non-payment drawn up at the latest on the day following the last day allowed for drawing up the protest.

2. In default of protest within this limit of time, the party who has named the referee in case of need, and the subsequent endorsers, are discharged.

Article 184. The holder who refuses payment by intervention loses his right of recourse against any persons who would have been discharged thereby.

Article 185.

1. Payment by intervention must be authenticated by a receipt given on the promissory note mentioning the person for whose honor payment has been made. In default of such mention, payment is deemed to have been made for the honor of the maker.

2. The promissory note and the protest, if any, must be given up to the person paying by intervention.

Article 186.

1. The person paying by intervention acquires the rights arising out of the promissory note against the party for whose honor he has paid and against persons who are liable to the latter on the promissory note. Nevertheless, he cannot re-endorse the promissory note.

2. Endorsers subsequent to the party for whose honor payment has been made are discharged.

3. In case of competition for payment by intervention, the payment which affects the greater number of releases has the preference. Any person, who with knowledge of the facts, intervenes in a manner contrary to this rule, loses his right of recourse against those who would have been discharged.

SECTION 9— COPIES

Article 187

1. Every holder of a promissory note has the right to make copies of it.

2. A copy must reproduce the original exactly, with the endorsements and all other statements to be found therein. It must specify where the copy ends.

3. It may be endorsed and guaranteed by aval in the same manner and with the same effects as the original.

Article 188.

1. A copy must specify the person in possession of the original instrument. The latter is bound to hand over the said instrument to the lawful holder of the copy.

2. If he refuses, the holder may not exercise his right of recourse against the persons who have endorsed the copy or guaranteed it by aval until he has had a protest drawn up specifying that the original has not been given up to him on his demand.

3. Where the original instrument, after the last endorsement before the making of the copy contains a clause “commencing from here an endorsement is only valid if made on the copy” or some equivalent formula, a subsequent endorsement on the original is null and void.

SECTION 10— ALTERATIONS

Article 189. In case of alteration of the text of a promissory note, parties who have signed subsequent to the alteration are bound according to the terms of the altered text: parties who have signed before the alteration are bound according to the terms of term original text.

SECTION 11— LIMITATION OF ACTIONS OF RECOURSE

Article 190.

1. All actions of recourse arising out of a promissory note against the maker are barred after three years, reckoned from the date of maturity.

2. Actions of recourse by the holder against the endorsers are barred after one year from the date of a protest drawn up within proper time, or from the date of maturity where there is a stipulation “retour sans frais,” “retour sans protêt,” or any other equivalent expression.

3. Actions of recourse by endorsers against each other are barred after six months, reckoned from the day when the endorser took up and paid the promissory note or from the day when he himself was sued.

Article 191. Interruption of the period of limitation is only effective against the person in respect of whom the period has been interrupted.

SECTION 12— TIME CALCULATIONS

Article 192.

1. Payment of a promissory note which falls due on a legal holiday (jour férié légal) cannot be demanded until the next business day. So too, all other proceedings relating to a promissory note, in particular presentment for payment and protest, can only be taken on a business day.

2. Where any of these proceedings must be taken within a certain limit of time, the last day of which is a legal holiday (jour férié), the limit of time is extended until the first business day which follows the expiration of that time. Intermediate holidays (jours fériés) are included in computing limits of time.

Article 193. Legal or contractual limits of time do not include the day on which the period commences.

Article 194. No days of grace, whether legal or judicial, are permitted.

CHAPTER V -- PAYMENT TRANSACTIONS

SECTION 1— GENERAL PROVISIONS

Article 195. This Chapter governs payment transactions in any currency. It applies to participants' rights and obligations and to the organization, operation, supervision and oversight of payment systems in the Kingdom of Cambodia.

Article 196.

1. Individuals or legal entities may open accounts in domestic and any foreign currency and may conduct payment transactions through these accounts under conditions as agreed subject to the provisions of Section 7 of this Chapter. An individual or legal entity may have more than one account and in more than one bank.

2. Paragraph 1 of this Article does not supersede, and is subject to, any legal requirement relating to the use of the domestic currency, as well as to any restriction or limitation, imposed by law, relating to a specific type or class of accounts, or to foreign exchange.

Article 197.

1. A payment order may be sent by a customer from either within or outside Cambodia and received by a bank located either within or outside Cambodia.

2. A payment order received by a branch or separate office of a bank located in Cambodia is governed by this Chapter and in matters not provided by it, by other laws applicable in Cambodia. This paragraph applies, whether the payment order is sent from within or outside Cambodia, and subject to an agreement to the contrary between the sender and the receiving bank.

3. Subject to an agreement to the contrary between the sender and the receiving bank, a payment order received by a branch or separate office of a bank located outside Cambodia is governed by the Law applicable in the place where that branch or separate office is located.

4. Subject to their agreement to the contrary, rights and obligations between a bank and its customer in relation to the account and any incoming or outgoing payment order are governed by the Law applicable in the place in which the branch or separate office of the bank where the account is maintained is located.

5. The issue of when payment is made pursuant to a payment transaction by the payor to the payee is governed by the Law applicable in the place in which the branch or separate office of the destination bank is located.

6. A payment order may be addressed to the National Bank of Cambodia and instruct payment out or into an account held at the National Bank of Cambodia in which case this Chapter applies to the National Bank of Cambodia as a bank.

7. Where a receiving bank agrees to carry out an instruction which is not a payment order only because it is stated to be subject to a condition, the instruction is deemed to be a payment order. This Chapter applies to the payment transaction, but not to the duties (i) of a receiving bank to pass on the condition to the destination bank, and (ii) of the destination bank to perform the condition.

Article 198.

1. In a debit transfer a receiver may revoke the receiver's authority to the originator by advising the destination bank of the revocation of authority in writing, electronically, or, if so previously agreed in writing, orally. Advice shall be given before the completion of the payment transaction, and at a time and in a manner sufficient to afford the destination bank a reasonable opportunity to act on it. The destination bank shall reject each sender's payment order to which the advice applies.

2. In a debit transfer, the advice of the receiver's death or adjudication of legal incapacity received by the destination bank has the same effect as the receiver's advice of revocation of authority under paragraph 1 of this Article.

3. A customer:

i. Whose account was debited with the amount of a payment order carrying out a debit transfer;

ii. Who contests the originator's authority; and

iii. Who objects to the debit in writing within four days of learning of the debit to the customer's account; shall be entitled to the reversal of the debit unless the destination bank has been provided with evidence of the authority given by the customer to the originator.

4. By authorizing a debit transfer the receiver guarantees payment to the originator.

5. This Article does not apply to the receiver's authority given to the originator by the issue of a check.

SECTION 2—PAYMENT ORDERS

Article 199.

1. A payment order is an instruction by the sender to the receiving bank and does not operate as an assignment of funds in favor of any participant in the payment transaction.

2. A payment order may be given in writing, electronically, or, if so previously agreed in writing between the parties to a payment order, orally. If so previously agreed, and subject to the terms of the agreement, subsequent communications including cancellation orders may also be given orally.

3. A payment order shall accurately identify the receiver and destination bank. Where a payment order processed in an automated system identifies any participant in the payment transaction by name and number, a receiving bank need not confirm the consistency between the name and number and may carry out payment on the basis of the number alone. If any of its employees who handle the payment order notices any inconsistency between the name and the number, the receiving bank shall reject the payment order.

4. The National Bank of Cambodia may issue regulations providing for the conditions under which a payment order and any other communication, including a cancellation order, may be given orally.

Article 200.

1. In a credit transfer, unless agreed otherwise, a receiving bank is obliged to carry out the sender's payment order only where there is adequate cover in the sender's account.

2. In a debit transfer, the originating bank shall carry out the originator's payment order upon being presented to its satisfaction with proof as to the authority given by the receiver, and obtaining the originator's indemnity. Unless otherwise agreed, the originating bank shall not be obliged to provide the originator with funds or even provisional credit prior to the completion of the debit transfer. If the originator's account is credited by the originating bank before the completion of the debit transfer, the credit is provisional, and the originator's account may be debited in the amount of the credit if the debit transfer is not completed as provided in Article 210 of this Law.

3. A receiving bank shall carry out only a payment orders which:

- i. Is properly filled in and authorized or authenticated;
- ii. Properly identifies the destination bank; and
- iii. Describes the receiver with reasonable certainty.

4. A receiving bank that declines to carry out its sender's payment order shall promptly advise the sender of its refusal or rejection.

5. Unless otherwise agreed, and without prejudice to levying charges as agreed or customary, a receiving bank shall carry out a payment order in the amount instructed by the sender.

6. A receiving bank shall carry out instructions contained in a payment order either on the banking day it received it or on its value date, if any - whichever is later. A receiving bank may establish a cut-off hour after which any payment order received is deemed to be received on the following banking day.

7. An originating bank in a credit transfer and a destination bank in a debit transfer that has received in the course of a banking day more than one payment order or other lawful instructions for the withdrawal of funds from an account, may process them in any sequence unless otherwise provided in any Law.

8. A receiving bank shall exercise ordinary care in handling payment orders. It shall exercise ordinary care in the interpretation of ambiguous payment orders, and provided it acts in good faith and without knowledge that its interpretation is contrary to the sender's intent, it may carry out a payment order according to its reasonable meaning.

9. In receiving a payment order and acting in a payment transaction, and notwithstanding any agreement to the contrary, a receiving bank shall comply with this Law and any applicable regulation or directive as well as other law. It shall act diligently and in good faith, comply with common banking standards, and assist participants to complete satisfactorily the payment transaction. Within limits prescribed by this or any other Law, it must maintain confidentiality and act in the best interest of its sender.

10. Subject to any obligation of confidentiality under any applicable law, a receiving bank instructed to route a payment transaction through an intermediary bank or to a destination bank that it judges to be unreliable in the circumstances, shall promptly advise the sender of its concerns. Where the receiving bank is nevertheless instructed to route the transaction over its advice to the contrary, it may reject the payment order, or notwithstanding any other provision of this Law, execute it at the sender's risk.

Article 201.

1. Unless otherwise agreed between a sender and a receiving bank, a payment order is revocable and may be canceled. It is canceled by the sender where a properly authorized or verified cancellation order sent by the sender or on the sender's behalf is received by the receiving bank at a time and in a manner which enables it to initiate cancellation before carrying out the sender's original instructions contained in the payment order.

2. After the execution of a sender's payment order, at the request of the sender, the executing receiving bank may nevertheless issue to its own receiving bank its own cancellation order, which is governed by paragraph 1 of this Article. A cancellation order issued to the destination bank by its sender in the payment transaction is effective only if it reaches the destination bank before the payment transaction is completed.

3. A cancellation order must accurately identify the payment order it seeks to cancel and may be given to the receiving bank in writing, electronically, or if so previously agreed in writing between the parties to a payment order, orally.

4. A payment order that has not been carried out by the receiving bank is withdrawn in the following cases:

- i. At the close of the fifth banking day or any agreed upon shorter period after the receipt of the payment order by the receiving bank, or value date, whichever is later;
- ii. Where the receiving bank learns of the death or adjudication of the legal incapacity of the sender; or
- iii. Where the receiving bank has been closed by the supervisory authorities.

5. No cancellation or withdrawal of a payment order is effective after the completion of the payment transaction.

Article 202.

1. Settlement for interbank payment orders may take place:

- i. On banks' settlement accounts with the National Bank of Cambodia, in which case it is governed by Regulation on the Operation of Settlement Accounts;
- ii. By posting a debit or credit to an account, other than a settlement account, one bank has with the other or with a third bank. Such debit or credit may be either for each payment order individually or for batches of payment orders in which case it may be at the end of a clearing cycle; or
- iii. By any other means in which an obligation is satisfied.

2. The time for settlement under paragraph 1 of this Article occurs as follows:

- i. Under paragraph 1(i), when settlement is completed under Regulation on the Operation of Settlement Accounts issued by the National Bank of Cambodia;
- ii. Under paragraph 1(ii), by means of a debit to an account, when the debit is posted to the account.
- iii. Under paragraph 1(ii), by means of a credit to an account, when the credit posted to the account is used, or if not used, at the opening of the next banking day following the day on which the credit is available for use and the bank whose account has been credited, learns of that fact.
- iv. Under paragraph 1(iii), as determined by the principles of law that determine when the obligation is satisfied.

3. This paragraph applies where settlement under paragraph 1(ii) of this Article takes place pursuant to an agreement or rules governing the completion of interbank settlement other than in the National Bank of Cambodia and is for bilaterally or multilaterally netted amounts of payment orders. Notwithstanding paragraph 2(ii) of this Article, such settlement occurs when it is completed according to the agreement or rules.

4. Regulations issued by the National Bank of Cambodia may restrict or otherwise govern circumstances under which settlement under paragraph 1(ii) or (iii) of this Article may take place as well as modify the time of its occurrence.

5. Notwithstanding anything in any law, whether or not it relates to insolvency proceedings, insolvency proceedings opened against a bank shall neither:

- i. Have retroactive effects on the rights and obligations arising from, or in connection with the clearing and settlement of payment orders, other than as of the moment such proceedings are opened; nor
- ii. Affect the binding effect and enforceability of payment orders received by any receiving bank before the moment of opening of such insolvency proceeding, their bilateral or multilateral netting, and any security provided to secure them.

6. For the purposes of paragraph 5 of this Article and Article 227(2), “Insolvency proceedings” shall mean any collective measure provided for in the Law either to liquidate, wind up, or re-organize a bank, whether voluntary or involuntary, and the moment of the opening of the insolvency proceedings shall be the moment when the relevant judicial or administrative authority handed down its decision.

SECTION 3-- THIRD-PARTY PROCESSORS

Article 203. In carrying out any part of a payment transaction, a bank may employ a third-party processor. As authorized by the bank, a third-party processor may act on behalf of the authorizing bank as:

1. A communication facility;
2. An interbank clearing facility, which may further transmit interbank settlement information to banks, including the bank in which settlement is completed;
3. A managing or operating agent for the bank of bank customers’ accounts; and/or
4. A sending and receiving point for payment orders sent or received by the bank, which may be accessed directly by bank customers for sending and receiving payment orders.

Article 204.

1. A third-party processor shall comply with all requirements, conditions and restrictions set by regulations prescribed by the National Bank of Cambodia. Such regulations may provide for the licensing, regulation, and supervision of third-party processors, and may apply to all third-party processors or any category thereof. Different categories of third-party processors as specified by the National Bank of Cambodia may be subject to different requirements.

2. A bank may act as a third-party processor on behalf of another bank.

Article 205.

1. Other than between itself and the third-party processor, a bank is fully responsible for any action or omission of third-party processor acting with its authority on the bank’s behalf.

2. To ensure compliance with this Law and all other legal requirements, a bank shall ensure that a third-party processor operates under its full control and supervision in matters in which it acts on its behalf; the bank is precluded from denying such control and supervision.

Article 206.

1. A third-party processor shall reject a payment order sent directly to it by a bank customer unless:

- i. It was so sent pursuant to the bank's authority; and
- ii. In the case of a credit transfer:
 - a. The third-party processor acts for the bank as a managing or operating agent of the customer's account and there is adequate cover in the customer's account; or
 - b. The third-party processor has obtained authorization from the bank.

2. The customer's payment order acted on by the third-party processor is deemed to be an instruction from the customer to the customer's bank, executed by the bank's corresponding payment order sent to the third-party processor for onward transmittal to the receiving bank.

3. Where a bank authorized a third-party processor to act as a receiving point for payment orders sent to the bank, a payment order received by the third-party processor is deemed to have been received by that bank acting as the receiving bank.

SECTION 4-- COMPLETION OF CREDIT TRANSFER AND DISCHARGE

Article 207.

1. A credit transfer is completed when the destination bank is paid. In an in-house transfer the bank is paid when it debits the originator's account with the amount of the payment order. In an interbank credit transfer, the destination bank is paid when the interbank settlement that includes the sending bank's payment order is completed.

2. A credit transfer is completed at the opening of the next banking day following the banking day the payment order was received by the destination bank, or its value date, whichever is later, if at that time there is adequate cover to the credit of the sender with the destination bank, and unless the destination bank rejected the payment order not later than one hour thereafter.

3. Where the receiver has no pre-existing account with the destination bank, or where such account has been closed or blocked for incoming payments, the credit transfer is completed upon payment of the destination bank to the receiver.

Article 208.

1. Upon the completion of a credit transfer, the destination bank becomes indebted to the receiver in the amount of the payment order it received, and subject to reasonable charges it may deduct, shall pay the receiver promptly.

2. Payment to the receiver by the destination bank shall be made by crediting the receiver's account not later than on the banking day following the completion of the credit transfer. Where such account does not exist or cannot be identified with reasonable certainty, or where so instructed, the destination bank is to advise the receiver promptly of the availability of funds in the destination bank's hands and pay the receiver as instructed.

3. Where the receiver or the receiver's account is not identified in the payment order received by the destination bank with adequate certainty so as to raise reasonable doubts as to the receiver's identification, the destination bank shall reject the payment order and advise its sender of its rejection.

4. Where the destination bank paid the receiver or undertook to pay the receiver prior to being paid, such payment or undertaking shall be final and irrevocable and the credit transfer is deemed to have been completed, except that each receiving bank may be owed by its sender. The destination bank's undertaking to pay may be given directly to the receiver or be under an interbank agreement.

Article 209.

1. Where the credit transfer has been made in payment of a debt owed by the originator to the receiver, unless otherwise agreed between them, the debt is discharged when the payment transaction is completed. Discharge is to the extent of the payment that completed the payment transaction.

2. Discharge shall take place prior to completion of the payment transaction if and as soon as a guarantee of payment is either accepted by the receiver or, other than in circumstances governed by Article 207(3), confirmed to the receiver by the destination bank.

3. A guarantor or a destination bank guaranteeing or confirming payment under paragraph 2 thereby undertakes to pay and becomes indebted to the receiver in the amount guaranteed or confirmed.

SECTION 5—COMPLETION OF DEBIT TRANSFER AND DISCHARGE

Article 210.

1. A debit transfer is completed when the destination bank debits the receiver's account as instructed in the payment order it received and has not reversed the debit and rejected the payment order until the end of the banking day following the receipt. Where a payment order instructs the destination bank to debit an identifiable account maintained with it, the debit transfer is completed on the conclusion of the banking day that follows receipt of the payment order even before a debit is posted to the receiver's account, provided the payment order is not properly rejected until that time.

2. Until the close of the banking day following its receipt, the destination bank may reject the payment order. It shall become entitled from its sender to a settlement for the amount paid to that sender, by advising its sender and the originating bank, if these are two separate banks, of its rejection. Rejection and entitlement from its sender are automatic by operation of law when the receiving bank has been closed by the supervisory authorities before the close of the banking day following receipt of the payment order.

3. Upon receiving notice of the rejection, each bank sender, other than the originating bank, shall advise its own sender, and has a corresponding right to obtain settlement from that sender. Each bank sender, other than the originating bank, shall advise its sender of the rejection not later than on the banking day following the day it received notice of the rejection.

4. Upon receiving notice of the rejection, the originating bank shall promptly, and no later than on the following banking day, advise the originator of the rejection, and may reverse any provisional credit previously posted to the originator's account, or otherwise, recover from the originator any payment previously made for the payment order.

5. Notwithstanding paragraph 2 of this Article, the destination bank shall be liable to the receiver for wrongfully dishonoring a payment order where unlawfully or without legal justification it rejects the payment order:

- i. With the knowledge of the receiver's authority for the debit transfer;
- ii. Notwithstanding the proper identification in the payment order received by the bank of an existing receiver's account held at it; and
- iii. There is adequate cover in that account.

6. Time periods under Articles 210 and 211 may be shortened by agreement or regulation.

Article 211.

1. Upon the completion of a debit transfer, the destination bank and each receiving bank that obtained payment from its own receiving bank shall be liable to its sender in the amount of the payment it received. Payment by the destination bank to its sender shall be in the amount of the debit to the receiver's account and shall be made not later than on the banking day following the completion of the debit transfer. Payment by any other receiving bank shall be made not later than the banking day following the receipt of its own payment.

2. Upon receiving payment and subject to reversal under Article 198(3) of this Law, the originating bank shall be indebted to the originator in the amount it received. To that extent, any provisional credit given to the originator shall be final. Before such credit becomes final, the originating bank shall not be required to release funds to the originator, and unless agreed otherwise, any release of funds prior to the completion of the debit transfer is provisional until the completion.

Article 212.

1. Where an authorized debit transfer has been made in payment of a debt owed by the receiver to the originator, unless otherwise agreed between them, the debt is discharged when the payment transaction is completed. Discharge is the amount of its completion.

2. Discharge shall take place prior to completion of the payment transaction if and as soon as a guarantee of payment is either accepted by the originator or confirmed to the originator by the originating bank.

3. A guarantor or an originating bank guaranteeing or confirming payment under paragraph 2 thereby undertakes to pay and becomes indebted to the originator in the amount guaranteed or confirmed.

SECTION 6-- LIABILITY, DAMAGES, AND RESTITUTION

Article 213.

1. A person identified as sender shall be liable on a payment or cancellation order accepted by the receiving bank, where the payment or cancellation order was:

- i. Issued to the receiving bank by that person;
- ii. Issued to the receiving bank under that person's authority;
- iii. Accepted by the receiving bank in compliance with a commercially reasonable security procedure agreed upon between the bank and that person for the verification of the authenticity of payment orders issued by that person to the bank; or
- iv. Ratified by that person.

2. Paragraph 1(iii) of this Article does not apply, and the person identified as sender on the payment order is not liable, when the person proves receipt of no benefit from the payment or cancellation order, and that the issue of the unauthorized payment or cancellation order was not caused by:

- i. The person identified as sender, or someone entrusted at any time with duties to act for that person with respect to payment transactions or the security procedure; or
- ii. Someone who obtained from the person identified as sender, or a source controlled by that person, access to that person's transmitting facilities, or information, including any access device, computer software, or the like, facilitating breach of the security procedure.

Article 214.

1. Where a credit transfer is completed, a sender shall hold the receiving bank harmless and reimburse it for any loss up to the amount of the payment order, commercially reasonable expenses, fees and interest charges.

2. In a credit transfer, notwithstanding the execution by the receiving bank and the completion of the payment transaction, a sender is not liable to the receiving bank on a payment order transmitted to the receiving bank pursuant to a security procedure for the detection of error, and to the extent allowed by civil law the receiving bank shall be entitled to recover from the receiver any amount unintended to be paid by the sender where:

- i. The sender did not intend to send the payment order, the sender intended to instruct payment to a receiver other than that of the payment order, or the payment order was in an amount greater than the amount intended by the sender; and
- ii. The sender proves sender's own compliance with the security procedure and that the error would have been detected if the receiving bank had also complied.

3. In a debit transfer, each sender warrants to its receiving bank that the sender's payment order is duly authorized, and is in accordance with an effective and valid authorization of the originator and receiver.

4. A sender of a payment order, and a receiver who authorizes an originator to initiate a debit transfer, including by means of the issue of a check, shall exercise ordinary care in order to prevent forgery and unauthorized issue or alteration of payment orders or the authority to issue them, and in order to ensure that they are clear and unambiguous.

The originator shall further be entitled to recover from the originating bank the originator's commercially reasonable expenses, fees and interest charges for the re-credited amount.

Article 216.

1. A receiving bank is liable for commercially reasonable expenses, fees, interest charges and interest losses, and where applicable, foreign exchange losses, incurred by its delay or failure to carry out a payment order. The originator may recover such losses either from the originating bank or from the receiving bank that caused the delay or failure. The receiver may recover such losses either from the destination bank or from the receiving bank that caused the delay or failure. The receiving bank that caused the delay or failure is accountable to the originating or destination bank that paid such losses for the amount so paid.

2. In addition, a receiving bank that either:

- i. Failed to promptly advise its sender of its rejection of the payment order, or
- ii. Was grossly negligent in carrying out or failing to carry out a payment order, Shall be liable to the originator, whether the originator was or was not its own sender, but provided the originator was not negligent, for actual foreseeable damages, not to exceed the principal amount of the originator's payment order. Where applicable, the sender shall also be entitled to the refund of the amount of the payment order under Article 215 of this Law.

3. The originator shall be entitled to recover under paragraph 1 of this Article the entire amount from either the originating bank or the grossly negligent bank. Subject to an interbank agreement, a bank liable under this Article shall be entitled to contribution from the other according to the other's degree of fault in causing the loss.

4. In a debit transfer, liability under this Article and any limitation thereon is without prejudice to the liability of the destination bank for the wrongful dishonor of a payment order under Article 210(5).

Article 217. Where a credit transfer is completed, but due to an error made by a receiving bank (the "erring bank"), payment to the receiver is not as instructed in the originator's payment order, in addition to recovery under Article 216, if applicable, the following rules apply:

1. Where the amount paid to the receiver either exceeds or is less than the amount of the originator's payment order, the credit transfer is deemed to have been completed in the amount paid to the receiver. On each payment order, each sender is liable to the receiving bank in the amount of the sender's own payment order, so that:

- i. Where the amount paid to the receiver exceeds the amount of the originator's payment order, the erring bank shall be entitled to recover from the receiver the amount of the overpayment in an action governed by the Law of the place where the destination bank is located; and
- ii. Where the amount paid to the receiver is less than the amount of the originator's payment order, the erring bank shall pay the difference to the receiver, and be entitled to retain or receive payment from its sender in the amount of the originator's payment order.

2. Where payment was made to a receiver other than that of the originator's payment order, and the erring bank was not the destination bank of the originator's payment order, the originator and any sender prior to the erring bank, and the receiver of the originator's payment order may treat the credit transfer as not completed. The erring bank shall be entitled to recover from the receiver who has been paid the amount of payment in an action governed by the Law of the place where the destination bank is located.

3. The erring bank is liable to any participant for any principal, interest and reasonable expense losses such as bank charges and communication costs resulting from the error.

2. When the debit to the account of the receiver of the originator’s payment order is in an amount larger than that of the originator’s payment order, the destination bank shall promptly credit the receiver’s account in the amount of the excess. The erring bank shall pay the excess to the destination bank and collect it from the originator or any other participant that actually retains the excess and to the extent it retains it;

3. When the debit is posted to an account of a receiver other than that of the originator’s payment order, the destination bank shall credit that receiver’s account in the amount of the debit and shall debit the account of the receiver of the originator’s payment order in the amount of the originator’s payment order;

4. When the debit is posted to an account of a receiver in a destination bank other than that of the originator’s payment order, that destination bank shall credit that receiver’s account in that amount and collect it from the erring bank. Suspicious Transactions and Know Your Customer Policies

- With reference to the Prakas No B7.02-206 Pro kor dated 21/10/2002 on standardized Procedure for Identification of Money Laundering at the Banking and Financial Institution

I- SUSPICIOUS TRANSACTIONS

1. General Comments

The list of suspicious transactions situations given below is intended mainly as a means of highlighting the basic ways in which money may be laundered. While each individual situation may not be sufficient to suggest that money laundering is taking place, a combination of such situations may be indicative of such a transaction. Further, the list is by no means complete, and will require constant updating and adaptation to changing circumstances and new methods of laundering money. The list is intended solely as an aid, and must not be applied as a routine instrument in place of common sense.

A customer's declarations regarding the background of such transactions should be checked for plausibility. Not every explanation offered by the customer can be accepted without scrutiny.

It is justifiable to suspect any customer who is reluctant to provide normal information and documents required routinely by the banking and financial institution in the course of the business relationship. Banking and financial institution should pay attention to customers who provide minimal, false or misleading information or, When applying to open an account, provide information that is difficult or expensive for the banking and financial institution to verify.

2. Transactions Which Do Not Make Economic Sense

- a) A customer-relationship with the banking and financial institution that does not appear to make economic sense, for example, a customer having a large number of accounts with same banking and financial institution, frequent transfers between different accounts or exaggeratedly high liquidity.
- b) Transactions in which assets are withdrawn immediately after being deposited, unless the customer's business activities furnish a plausible reason for immediate withdrawal;
- c) Transactions that cannot be reconciled with the usual activities of the customer, for example, the use of Letters of Credit and other methods of trade finance to move money between countries where such trade is not consistent with the customer's usual business;
- d) Transactions which, without plausible reason, result in the intensive use of what was previously a relatively inactive account, such as a customer's account which shows virtually no normal personal or business related activities but is used to receive or disburse unusually large sums which have no obvious purpose or relationship to the customer and/or his business;

- e) Provision of personal guarantees or indemnities as collateral for loans between third parties that are not in conformity with market conditions;
- f) Unexpected repayment of an overdue credit without any plausible explanation;
- g) Back-to-back loans without any identifiable and legally admissible purpose.

3. Transactions Involving Large Amounts of Cash

- a) Exchanging an unusually large amount of small-denominated notes for those of higher denomination;
- b) Frequent withdrawal of large amounts that do not appear to be justified by the customer's business activity;
- c) Large cash withdrawals from a previously dormant/inactive account, or from an account which has just received an unexpected large credit from abroad;
- d) Banking and financial institution transactions, both deposits and withdrawals, that are denominated by unusually large amounts of cash, rather than by way of debits and credits normally associated with the normal commercial operations of the company, e.g. letters of credit, bills of exchange, etc;
- e) Depositing cash by means of numerous credit slips by a customer such that the amount of each deposit is not substantial, but the total of which is substantial;
- f) The deposit of unusually large amounts of cash by a customer to cover requests for money transfers or other negotiable and readily marketable money instruments;
- g) Customers whose deposits contain counterfeit notes or forged instruments;
- h) Customers who together, and simultaneously, use separate tellers to conduct large cash transactions.

4. Transactions Involving Deposit Accounts

- a) Matching of payments out with credits paid in by cash on the same or previous day;
- b) Paying in large third party cheques endorsed in favor of the customer;
- c) Substantial increases in deposits of cash or negotiable instruments by a professional firm or banking and financial institution, using client accounts or in-house banking and financial institution or trust accounts, especially if the deposits are promptly transferred between other client company and trust accounts;
- d) High velocity of funds through an account, i.e., low beginning and ending daily balances, which do not reflect the large volume of funds flowing through an account;
- e) Multiple depositors using a single deposit account;
- f) An account opened in the name of a moneychanger that receives structured deposits;
- g) An account operated in the name of an offshore company with structured movement of funds.

5. Transactions Involving Transfers Abroad

- a) Large and regular payments that cannot be clearly identified as bona fide transactions, from and to countries associated with (i) the production, processing or marketing of narcotics or other illegal drugs or (ii) criminal conduct;
- b) Substantial increase in cash deposits by a customer without apparent cause, especially if such deposits are subsequently transferred within a short period out of the account and/or to a destination not normally associated with the customer;
- c) Building up large balances, not consistent with the known turnover of the customer's business, and subsequent transfer to account(s) held overseas;
- d) Cash payments remitted to a single account by a large number of different persons without an adequate explanation.

6. Miscellaneous Transactions

- a) Provision of collateral by way of pledge or guarantee without any discernible plausible reason by third parties unknown to the banking and financial institution and who have no identifiable close relationship with the customer;
- b) Transfer of money to another bank without indication of the beneficiary;
- c) Customers who wish to maintain a number of trustee or clients' accounts that do not appear consistent with their type of business, including transactions that involve nominee names.

II-Know Your Customer (KYC) Policies

In 1999, the Basel Committee identified deficiencies in a large number of countries' know your-customer (KYC) policies.

Sound KYC policies are essential for protecting the safety and the soundness of banks and integrity of banking systems; they must be seen as a critical element in the effective management of banking risks. KYC safeguards go beyond simple account opening and record keeping and require banks to formulate a customer acceptance policy that involves more extensive due diligence for higher risks accounts and includes proactive account monitoring for suspicious activities.

The inadequacy or absence of KYC standards can subject banks to serious customer and counterparty risks, especially reputation, operational, legal and concentration risks.

Sound KYC policies encompass four major elements.

1 – Customer acceptance policy

Banks should develop clear customer acceptance policies, including a description of type customers who pose a higher than average risk to a bank. For preparing such policy, banks must take into account different factors, such as country of origin, public or high profile position, linked accounts, business activities...

According to the risks, the account opening policy must be different. For instance, for a working individual with a small accounts balance, basic account-opening requirements will be demanded. But, for an individual, with a high net worth, whose source of funds is unclear, quite extensive diligence is essential. Decision to enter into business relationships with higher risk customers, such as politically exposed people should be taken exclusively at senior management level.

2 – Customer identification

For KYC policy, a customer includes:

- The person or entity that maintains an account with the bank.
- The beneficiaries of transactions conducted by professional intermediaries.
- Any person or entity connected with a financial transaction who can pose a significant risk to the bank.

A/ General Identification requirements

Banks need to obtain all information necessary to establish the identity of each new customer and the purpose and intended nature of the business relationship. Whatever is customer acceptance policy, the minimum requirements for opening an account are the following:

- To get a copy of the ID card or passport
 - Proof of the address (recent electricity, water or phone bill for instance)
 - Proof of the income.
 - For relationship with higher risk, customer acceptance policy must require more information, as (list not limitative).
 - For existing companies, information on the previous banker, name of the major customers and suppliers, recent and precise data on the level of activity.
 - For new companies, the customer must give a file describing its project: market, level of activity, main customers and suppliers.

B/ Politically exposed persons

Relationships with individual holding important public positions (called politically exposed persons) and with persons or companies related to them expose banks to significant reputational and legal risks.

These persons prominent public functions, including heads of government, senior politicians, senior government, judicial or military officials, senior executives in State companies, important political party officials....

Before opening an account to these persons, banks should investigate the source of funds; the decision should be only taken at a senior management level.

3- On-going monitoring of accounts and transactions

On-going monitoring is an essential aspect of effective KYC procedures. Banks can only effectively control and reduce their risks if they have an understanding of normal and reasonable account activity of their customers. If so, they have means of identifying transactions which fall outside the regular pattern of an account's activity.

Banks should ensure that they have adequate management information systems to provide managers with timely information needed to identify, analyse and monitor high risks customers' accounts.

Banks should develop a clear policy and internal guidelines, procedures and control and remain especially vigilant regarding business relationship with politically exposed persons. A regular review of the most important customers must be periodically done in order to identify new politically exposed persons.

4- Risk management

The Board of directors should be fully committed to an effective KYC policy by establishing appropriate procedures and ensuring their effectiveness.

The channels for reporting suspicious transactions should be clearly specified in writing notes and communicated to all personnel.

Bank internal audit and compliance functions have important responsibilities in evaluating and ensuring adherence to KYC policies. This department must provide an independent evaluation of the bank's policies; it must monitor staff performance through sample testing of compliance and alert Board of directors if it believes management is failing to set-up KYC procedures in a responsible manner.

All banks must have an ongoing employee-training program, so that bank staff is well trained in KYC procedures. New staff should be educated in the importance of KYC policies and the basic requirements at the bank. Front-office staff members who deal directly with the customers should be trained to verify the identity of new customers, to exercise due diligence in handling accounts of existing customers on on-going basis and to detect patterns of suspicious activity.

Requirements in Compliance with Fact and Substance

Article 1

In order for banks to give a true and fair view of financial statements and disclosure requirement in consistency with Accounting Principles of International Accounting Standards (IAS) and Cambodian Accounting Standards (CAS), bank must apply the principle of substance over form and interest accounting.

Article 2

The information presented in the financial statement must "reflect the economic substance of events and transaction and not merely the legal form"; it means that accounting must prioritize substance over the form.

Article 3

Generally, banks do not have to use accounting for hiding some transaction, by using a form complying with regulation and law, whereas substance of transaction is not complying with these laws and regulations.

Particularly, some affected transactions are under the form of long term prepaid lease agreements or purchases fixed assets, but which are in substance means for owners to extract bank capital.

Article 4

In case that NBC discover a transaction where accounting does not reflect the economic substance, but just a formal law or requirement, it will be demanded to reclassify this transaction under its real substance.

Article 5

In case the form allows extracting capital by shareholders, to increase profits -or assets or decrease losses -or liabilities, the amount of that transaction will be deducted from equity and net worth, and, if necessary, the bank will have to be recapitalized.

Article 6

Without prejudice of article 6, in this case NBC may take sanctions according to article 33 of the Law on the Organization and Conduct of The National Bank of Cambodia and article 52 of the law on Banking and Financial Institutions.

Article 7

The banks expenses and income accounting must comply with CAS that is the same for IAS. Interest accounting defines as follows:

- Revenue is recognized when it is probable that future economic benefits will flow to the enterprise and these benefits can be measured reliability;
- Interest should be recognized on a time proportion basis that takes into account the effective yield of the asset;
- Recognition of interest revenue and expense is essential in determining the profitability of a bank;
- Interest revenue is recognized on an accrual basis, except in the case of non-performing and non-restructured loans.

Article 8

To provide a high-level information quality, commercial banks must record on a daily basis:

- Interest paid and received by/from customers, banks and all other debtors and creditors.
- Amortization of fixed assets and other assets if necessary.

Article 9

The General Direction, the General Secretariat, the General Inspection, the General Cashier, all Departments of the National Bank of Cambodia, and all Banking and Financial Institutions under of the National Bank of Cambodia's supervisory authority shall strictly implement this Prakas.

Requirements for Bank and Financial Institutions to have a System of Checks and Balances

This circular gives guidance on the need for bank and financial institutions to have a system of checks and balances in its accounting system so that the accuracy of accounting records can be enhanced and errors promptly highlighted and corrected. A system of checks and balances forms part of the overall internal control system of a bank and minimizes operational risks in banking operations. As a minimum standard, each bank should ensure that the following areas form part of its system of checks and balances.

Segregation of staff duties

Banks should not allow a single staff to perform all aspects of a banking operation. For instance, the same staff should not recommend, approve, analyze, disburse, record and control collateral in a loan operation; the staff in charge of computer operations should not also perform program development or program modifications; the cashier who accepts cash deposits for lodgment into customers' accounts should not also be responsible for the general ledger. In general, the functions of recording, custody and authorization should be kept separate for any specified banking operation.

Banks should avoid conflict of interest situations when assigning tasks to staff to ensure a proper system of checks and balances.

Accounting Entries and Records

Where journal entries are raised manually, they should be properly authorized by a bank officer. The bank officer should sign on the accounting voucher as evidence of authorization before it can be posted to the general ledger. In a computerized environment, the authorization is usually done on a computer monitor on - line. However, the access and authorization rights of staff are maintained in a computer file and this should be properly reviewed by management in respect of data entry, authorization and modification.

Dormant or Inactive Accounts

Banks should segregate dormant and inactive accounts from active accounts to have better control over these accounts. An account is normally considered dormant if there is no activity for over 12 months. Special attention should be paid to dormant accounts of demand and savings accounts of customers. A check and balance system would require specific authorization from a senior bank officer if there was a sudden account activity in the dormant account.

Banks should transfer credit balances of customer accounts which have been dormant for 10 consecutive years to the National Bank of Cambodia for administration in accordance with article 71 of the Law on Banking and Financial Institutions.

Monthly Balancing of Subsidiary Accounts

Banks should periodically agree the subsidiary records and accounts to the control accounts and general ledger. This should be done not less than once a month.

Physical Count of Assets

Banks should have written procedures to periodically count physical assets to agree with the control accounts and general ledger. The following states the minimum frequency of counting.

Physical assets	Frequency
Cash in vault and on hand	Monthly
Securities	Monthly
Certificates of deposits	Monthly
Collateral	Semi - Annually
Bills Receivable	Quarterly
Usance Bills	Quarterly
Letters of Credit Outstanding	Semi - Annually
Guarantees	Semi - Annually
Properties	Semi - Annually
Fixed assets	Semi - Annually

Bank Reconciliation

Banks should ensure that reconciliations are carried out for all nostro accounts, at least once a month. Open items should be properly investigated and followed to their proper conclusion. Bank reconciliations should also be reviewed by a bank officer who should approve them.

Suspense Accounts

Items recorded in suspense accounts should be promptly investigated and properly transferred to the proper chart of accounts number. Suspense items should not be carried forward for more than a few days. Bank management should write off items in suspense if they cannot be recovered. This account is not to be used when a proper chart of account number exists to record the transaction.

Backup procedures and Disaster Recovery Procedures

Banks should have written procedures concerning backup of accounting records, customer records, computer tapes and disks, collateral register and other documents of value. Among the items to consider are such issues as frequency of backup, off-site location, media of backup and procedures. Banks should have written procedures on disaster recovery and business resumption plans.

Backup procedures and disaster recovery procedures should be tested at least once a year. Proper documentation should be kept.

Internal Audit

Banks should set up an internal audit department. The internal auditor should report to the highest management level practicable and be independent of operating functions to maintain independence and efficacy.

Banks are reminded of Prakas B7.00-04 on the Licensing of Banks, Article (I) on Internal Audit.

The monitoring of Banks' and Financial Institutions' Net Open Position in Foreign Currency

Article 1

This Prakas has the purpose of preventing Banks' and Financial Institutions' foreign exchange risks.

Article 2

For the purposes of this Prakas, terms below are defined as follows:

- A "foreign exchange risk" results from the possibility of financial loss arising from adverse movements in foreign exchange rates.
- A "foreign exchange settlement risk" results from the possibility of loss that a financial institution (FI) pays the currency it sold but does not receive the currency it bought in a foreign exchange transaction.
- The "net open position in one foreign currency" is the net outstanding balance of all assets, liabilities, and off balance sheet items in that currency. The net open position in debit is defined as "long". The net open position in credit is defined as "short".

Article 3

Banks and Financial Institutions shall maintain an effective system of internal control to identify, measure, monitor and control the extent and source of their foreign exchange risk and foreign exchange settlement risk during the trading day and at the close of business. The nature and the size of the internal control system shall be adapted to the size of the Banks' and Financial Institutions' foreign exchange transactions and foreign exchange positions.

Article 4

Banks and Financial Institutions shall at all times maintain their net open position in foreign currencies in either any foreign currency or overall net open position in all foreign currencies, whether long or short, shall not exceed twenty percent (20%) of Banks' and Financial Institutions' net worth.

Article 5

Every month, Banks and Financial Institutions shall produce both hard copy and soft copy reports of their net open position in foreign currency to the National Bank of Cambodia according to the attached format. The internal control system shall also ensure that the foreign exchange positions are properly reported to the National Bank of Cambodia.

The Accounting Process for Foreign Currency Transactions

Article 1

For the purposes of this Prakas, terms below are defined as follows:

(1) The reporting currency is the currency used for maintaining accounts and presenting financial statements. For temporary accounting periods, the US dollar shall be used as reporting currency until such time as the dollarization of Cambodia's economy has advanced significantly.

A foreign currency is any currency other than a financial institution's reporting currency.

(3) The exchange rate is the ratio between a unit of one currency and the amount of another currency into which that unit can be converted at a given time.

(4) The spot rate is the exchange rate quoted for immediate delivery at the time of a foreign exchange transaction.

(5) A forward rate is an exchange rate stipulated in an agreement to exchange currencies at a specified future date.

(6) The closing rate is the spot exchange rate on the date of the balance sheet.

(7) A foreign currency transaction is a transaction which is denominated in or requires settlement in a foreign currency, including foreign exchange transactions, which create foreign exchange positions.

Article 2

Foreign currency transactions shall be recorded in accordance with the provisions laid down by this Prakas. To this end, the accounting system used by financial institutions should at a minimum be organized so as to provide the information required in this Prakas.

Precious metals, such as gold and silver, which are held in a negotiable form shall follow the valuation rules set out in Article 6 of this Prakas.

Article 3

Financial institutions shall record spot or forward foreign currency transactions in accounts opened and denominated in each of the currencies used.

For the purposes of this Prakas, purchases or sales of foreign currencies in which the parties do not defer completion or defer it only for the customary period shall be regarded as spot contracts. Thus a spot contract is defined as any foreign exchange contract within two business days of its maturity unless a shorter period is customary or required in the local market.

For the purposes of this Prakas, purchases or sales of foreign currencies in which the parties decide to defer completion for more than the customary period of two business days shall be regarded as forward contracts.

Article 4

The counterpart of the foreign-currency accounting entries relating to foreign-exchange transactions - namely those which entail a foreign currency position - shall be entered in foreign exchange position accounts opened either on or off the balance sheet and denominated in each of the currencies used.

The reporting currency accounting entries relating to foreign exchange operations shall be entered in foreign exchange position counter value accounts on or off the balance sheet.

Consequently, transactions involving a foreign currency and the reporting currency shall be entered in their appropriate ledger and each ledger shall be balanced by using "mirror accounts" such as the following:

- * foreign currency exchange position divided into:
 - . balance sheet exchange position
 - . off-balance sheet exchange position.
- * reporting currency exchange position equivalent (or countervalue) divided into:
 - . balance sheet exchange position equivalent
 - . off-balance sheet exchange position equivalent.

Article 5

Capital commitments arising from purchases or sales relating to spot foreign exchange transactions with the customary completion period of two business days and to forward foreign exchange transactions must be recorded in the appropriate off-balance sheet accounts on the date the operation is entered into. Upon delivery of the foreign currencies, the operations shall be entered in the financial institution's balance sheet.

Article 6

On each accounting statement date, the asset, liability or off-balance sheet items shall be valued at the market price prevailing on the statement date. The market rate applicable to asset and liability items and to spot foreign exchange commitments shall be the closing rate of the currency concerned.

The market rate applicable to forward foreign exchange commitments shall be the forward rate of the currency concerned for the outstanding term, namely the forward market rate corresponding to the maturity date of the commitment.

Article 7

On each accounting statement date, the differences between, on the one hand the amounts arising from the valuation - in the reporting currency - of the foreign-exchange position accounts in accordance with the provisions of Article 5 and, on the other hand, the amounts shown in the foreign-exchange position counter value accounts shall be entered in the profit and loss account. The counterpart of these entries must be recorded in the foreign-exchange position counter value accounts denominated in the reporting currency.

Since it is not possible to debit a balance sheet account by crediting an off-balance sheet account and vice-versa, gains and losses posted to the profit and loss account and stemming from off-balance sheet exchange positions shall be balanced by a balance sheet balancing account.

The differences relating to transactions where the exchange risk is borne by the State must be entered in adjustment accounts.

Article 8

The accrued foreign currency income and expenses relating to loans and borrowings, securities or off-balance sheet operations shall be valued at the spot rate of the foreign currency concerned and entered in the profit and loss account with a frequency determined by the financial institution and at the latest on the accounting statement date.

Non-accrued foreign currency income receivable and expenses payable in respect of operations on or off the balance sheet shall be shown in separate accounts when said income and expenses have been hedged.

Article 9

To ensure consistent reporting of foreign exchange exposures throughout the banking system, revaluations should be performed at a minimum at the close of business at each month's end. If the month ends on a nonbusiness day, the closing positions of the preceding business day will be revalued.

Article 10

All provisions contrary to those of this Prakas are hereby repealed.

Article 11

The General Direction, the General Secretariat, the General Inspection, the General Cashier and all Departments of the National Bank of Cambodia, and all Banking and Financial Institutions under the NBC's supervisory authority shall strictly implement this Prakas.

Security Transaction of Banks Licensed in Cambodia

Article 1

The National Bank of Cambodia supports and creates conditions favourable to the growth and development of the securities market in Cambodia, consistent with the principles of safety, soundness and efficiency of the financial system. To further that end, the NBC will coordinate its accounting and operational procedures so as to facilitate interbank lending and trading of securities. Further, the National Bank of Cambodia shall implement specialized standards for the examination of banks acting as broker - dealers in securities.

Article 2

A bank is considered to be operating as a securities broker-dealer if it underwrites, trades, or deals in securities. If a repetitive pattern of short-term purchases and sales of securities demonstrates that the bank portrays itself to other dealers or investors as a securities dealer, the bank is trading in securities, regardless of what section of the bank processes the transactions.

Article 3

The coordination of operational and accounting procedure of the National Bank of Cambodia includes the permissibility for designated banks to transfer funds from their current account to current accounts of other banks at the National Bank of Cambodia by initial telephone instruction to the National Bank of Cambodia, followed by call-back reconfirmation. In order to implement this method, transferring banks and their recipient banks must have established a Master Agreement, which shall be previously sent to the National Bank of Cambodia. The Agreement must delineate their desire to enter into such transactions, and the authorizations of respective individual banks.

Additionally, the National Bank of Cambodia will establish a book entry system for government securities when such securities are issued. Similar telephone-call transfer protocols for government securities trading among designated banks would then be established.

Article 4

The National Bank of Cambodia will examine broker-dealer activities in banks practicing securities trading. Examination procedures include board and management oversight, policies and risk limits, record keeping and operational accuracy, trading practices and separation of duties, training and compensation schemes of operators and staff, securities holdings and trading records and any other aspect of operations deemed relevant. Such examination findings may be part of a bank general examination or may be independent of other examination reports.

The Classification of and Provisioning for Bad and Doubtful Debts, Including Interest in Suspense

as amended by the Prakas B7-02-145 dated June 07, 2002 on Amendment on Prakas B7-00-51 on the Classification and Provisioning for Bad and Doubtful Debts, Including Interest in Suspense.

Article 1

Banks must organize their internal accounting information system in such a way that they are able at any time to provide the National Bank of Cambodia with information in accordance with the provisions of this Prakas.

Article 2

Banks shall be able to classify their assets, especially their loan portfolio, regardless of the customers concerned (banks, individuals, businesses, government entities) and their off-balance sheet commitments into the four classes defined in Annex I.

Article 3

All assets and commitments belonging in the substandard, doubtful and lost classifications must be recorded in the relevant doubtful items provided for to this end on the reporting documents compiled at the NBC's request, and particularly on the monthly statement of assets and off-balance sheet items.

Article 4 [as amended by Prakas B7-02-145 dated June 07, 2002]

The mandatory minimum level of specific provisioning, depending on the classification concerned, shall be the following:

- Substandard : 10%, regardless of collateral value except cash,
- Doubtful : 30%, regardless of collateral value except cash,
- Loss : 100%, if the banks can prove the actual market value of collateral on the case by case basis, acceptable to the National Bank of Cambodia, only part of loan uncovered will be provisioned.

Article 5

The specific provision shall be recorded in the bank's accounts and charged to the profit and loss account in the month in which the need is identified. It may not be spread over future periods. Insofar as the customer account balance includes an amount of interest the counterpart of which has been recorded as interest in suspense (see Article 6 below), this amount shall not be taken into account in calculating the specific provision.

Article 6

In accordance with accrual basis accounting, interest accrued on a customer account shall be recorded as income in the profit and loss account. However, such a procedure is not followed for assets once they have been classified as substandard, doubtful or lost. In these circumstances, interest accrued shall be credited to an account for interest in suspense.

Article 7

Any violation of provisions of this Prakas will give rise to the disciplinary sanctions set forth in Article 52 of the Law on Banking and Financial Institutions.

Article 8

All provisions contrary to those of this Prakas are hereby repealed.

CREDIT CLASSIFICATION

CLASSES / CRITERIA	PAYMENT EXPERIENCE	FINANCIAL CONDITION
STANDARD - performing assets - non performing assets - assets fully secured (principal and interest, by cash or cash-substitutes)	- punctual - past-due > 30 days - may have experienced service difficulties	- very good financial condition - good financial conditions - may present financial weaknesses
SUBSTANDARD	- Past-due > 90 days - Advances exceed credit limit for 90 days or more - Deposits to accounts < interest due for 90 days	The assets are no longer fully protected by the financial soundness or the debtor, which may face difficulties to repay.
DOUBTFUL	- Past-due > 180 days - Advances exceed credit limit for 180 days or more - Deposits to accounts < interest due for 180 days	The debtor's current or foreseeable weakness make full repayment highly questionable and improbable. The possibility of loss is high; but certain specific factors -which may strengthen the asset- make it possible to defer the classification as an estimated loss.
LOST	- Past-due > 360 days - Advances exceed credit limit for 360 days or more - Deposits to accounts < interest due for 360 days	Assets classified as lost are considered uncollectable with a very low recovery value.

NOTES:

1/Classification must apply to all direct and indirect credit facilities including loans, overdraft accounts, property acquired by the bank in satisfaction of debts previously contracted and off-balance sheet commitments (letters of credit, letters of guarantee, etc...).

2/ Restructured loans and advances are credit facilities which have been refinanced, rescheduled, rolled-over, or otherwise modified at terms and conditions favorable for the borrower owing to weaknesses in the borrower's financial condition or capacity to repay. The restructuring should not lead to an improvement in the classification of the credit facilities unless there is strong evidence of improvement in the customer's financial condition.

CIRCULAR

On

Non-Performing Loans, Provisions and Interests Accounting

Commercial Banks must apply the following regulation for non-performing loans and interests accounting.

1- Prakas B7.00-51 from February 17, 2000 specifies that non-performing loans must be classified in three categories according to the late payment

- Substandard, if past due is more than 90 days
- Doubtful, if past due is more than 180 days
- Loss, if past due is more than 360 days

This parkas specifies too that interest on non-performing loans⁽¹⁾ must always be recorded as interest in suspense and not as interest income.

2- Prakas B7.02-145 from June 7, 2002 (amending parkas B7.00-51) on classification and provisioning for bad and doubtful debts specifies the minimum mandatory level of specific provisioning depending on the classification concerned.

- Substandard : 10 %
- Doubtful : 30 %
- Loss : 100 %

Obviously, if the risk is higher, provision must be adjusted to the risk. For instance, if a borrower classified as standard is suddenly declared bankrupt and there is no collateral, whatever the late payment, loan must be immediately classified as loss and provision must be 100%.

The above parkas and the following guidelines are the minimum that commercial banks must observe in respect of classification of loans and provision for non-performing loans. If necessary, any commercial bank can be more stringent.

3- Banks must use the accounts provided for by the uniform chart of accounts.

4- It has appeared that some transactions are not covered by the current regulation. This circular is intended to give the commercial banks instructions for accounting some specific transactions and in particular:

- Classification of overdrafts as non-performing
- Transfer of loans and overdrafts from non performing loans to standard loans
- Partial repayments
- Interest accounting
- Restructured loans accounting

⁽¹⁾ Non performing loans include: substandard, doubtful and loss loans

CLASSIFICATION OF OVERDRAFTS AS NON-PERFORMING

An overdraft must be classified as a non-performing overdraft according to the same criteria as a loan is. But in this case the date of late payments are once the account is in excess of the approved limit.

An overdraft must be classified as a non-performing overdraft, even if the breach of the approved limit is a result of the accrual of interests. In the case of the breach is due to any reduction-or cancellation- of the limit, the overdraft must also be regarded as non-performing.

Whatever the grounds of an excess, as soon as the approved limit is breached, overdraft must be classified as non-performing.

In conclusion, overdrafts must be classified as following:

- Substandard, if excess of approval limit is more than 90 days
- Doubtful, if excess of approval limit is more than 180 days
- Loss, if excess of approved limit is more than 360 days

When a loan or an overdraft to a customer is classified as non-performing, all other loans to that customer for trust receipts, bills of exchange etc. will have to be classified as non-performing.

TRANSFER OF LOAN (AND OVERDRAFT) FROM NON-PERFORMING LOANS TO STANDARD LOANS (AND OVERDRAFT)

1. A non-performing loan may be reclassified as a standard loan when the following conditions are fulfilled:

- The loan has not been restructured; specifications of the loans must be unchanged (in particular, outstanding, interest rate, length, amount of installments...);
- All the arrears (be it either interest or principal, or both interests and principal) are fully settled;
- After settlement of arrears, loan has been normally repaid during three consecutive months (interest and capital);
- Arrears have not been paid by a new loan, an increase of approved limit on an overdraft granted to the customer or to a related party.

2. A non-performing overdraft may be reclassified as a standard overdraft when the following conditions are fulfilled:

- The overdraft, including all the past due interest, reverts within the approved limits for at least 3 months consecutively;
- There is no change in the conditions and in particular approved limits and interest rates. In this case, it must be regarded as a restructured overdraft (cf. below).

When an overdraft has been classified as non-performing, the commercial banks will not be allowed to increase the approved limits, unless it is justified by an increase of the customer activity.

PARTIAL REPAYMENTS

When a partial payment is received, it must be posted in the following order:

- Interest recognized as an income (before classification as a non-performing loan) but not collected;
- Interest not recognized as an income and classified as an interest in suspense;
- Principal.

For each one of these categories, payment must be applied by priority on the eldest arrears.

As indicated above, as long as all the arrears have not been fully paid, loan must be classified as a non-performing loan.

INTEREST ACCOUNTING

Interest on performing loans and overdraft must be posted according to the accrual interest method. On a daily basis, banks must reckon and post the interest to be paid by the customers; they are recognized as an income and are posted on the debit side of an accrual interest account (account number 230 000 to 232 639). When interest is actually paid, accrual interest accounts are reversed.

When a loan-or an overdraft - is classified as non-performing, interests are no longer classified as an income but only as interests in suspense. So in any case, once a loan or an overdraft is classified as non-performing, interest cannot be reckoned as an income.

Interest accrued and recognized as an income prior to the loan-or overdraft-classification as non-performing and still classified as accrual interests are not reversed out of the income. They must be immediately fully provisioned.

Once a loan is classified as non-performing, interests may be only recognized as an income when they are actually paid; obviously they cannot be paid by increasing an overdraft or by a new loan. In fact accounting on interest on non-performing loan is made on a cash basis and not on an accrual basis.

RESTRUCTURED LOANS AND OVERDRAFT ACCOUNTING

A loan is restructured, when at least one of the following components of a loan is changed: principal, interest rate, maturity date, tenor and installment.

Loan classified as performing before restructuring

If before restructuring, loan classified as performing, the outstanding amount is still classified as a performing loan after restructuring. But if this loan had been in default for less than 90 days, the starting point for possible classification of the restructured loan will be the beginning of the period of default of the original loan. A restructured loan will be classified as non-performing when; in the aggregate period of time before and after restructuring the account is in arrears 90 days or more.

When a loan is restructured, the new loan must be classified as non-performing in the following manner. The same method is used to classify the loan as doubtful or loss.

Period of default of original loan when rescheduling (number of days)	Starting point as NPL for rescheduled loan (number of days)
0	NO (standard loan)
20	70
90	Immediate

Loan classified as non-performing before restructuring

If before restructuring, loan was classified as non-performing, the outstanding amount will be still classified as non-performing during at least the following three months; after this period, and if all the amounts due by the customers have been normally paid in accordance with the conditions of the restructured loan, then it will be classified as performing. In particular, principal and interests must have been regularly paid on due date.

Loan restructured with abnormal conditions

Loans must be restructured with normal terms (in particular of rate and tenor). They are abnormal if they do not fit the current terms of market, or if they are not allowed to show a normal margin.

If the terms of restructured loans are abnormal, commercial banks must submit them to NBC. NBC could impose some conditions (as a special allowance for instance) for allowing such a restructuring.

Installment Loans Classification and Provisioning

This circular gives guidance on when an installment loan should be classified as a non – performing loan. Non – performing refers to the loan classification of sub – standard, doubtful and loss defined in Prakas B 7-02-145 dated June 7, 2002.

The guidelines are best illustrated by means of an example. Suppose a bank grants a customer an installment loan on January 1, 2004 for USD 1,200 at interest rate of 12% per annum for 12 months with the monthly repayment (inclusive of interest and principal) as stated below.

Date	Installment
31 Jan	106.62
29 Feb	106.62
31 Mar	106.62
30 Apr	106.62
31 May	106.62
30 Jun	106.62
31 Jul	106.62
31 Aug	106.62
30 Sep	106.62
31 Oct	106.62
30 Nov	106.62
31 Dec	107.84

Case 1 – Partial repayment (where repayment amount is zero or less than installment amount) assuming the customer has fully paid Jan and Feb installments.

Suppose, on 31 March, the customer repays only USD 50.00 instead of USD 106.62. There is a short payment of USD 106.62 – USD 50 = USD 56.62. The customer, however, pays the installment of USD 106.62 as per schedule from April 2004 to December 2004 onwards.

In this case, it cannot be said that part of the April 2004 installment is meant to partially repay the arrears of March 2004 and so on. Thus, it is not correct to say that the account is always current since part of the monthly repayment goes to repay the arrears.

In this specific instance, the account should be classified as sub – standard starting on 1 July 2004. (90 days overdue). Provision for loan loss should be made at a minimum of 10% of the principal outstanding as at 1 July 2004.

The account status will change from sub –standard to doubtful on 1 October 2004. The balance outstanding should be transferred from sub – standard to doubtful account and balance in accrued interest receivable – sub standard should be transferred to accrued interest receivable – doubtful. Similarly provision for loan loss should be made at a minimum of 30% of the principal outstanding as at 1 October 2004.

If the balance of principal outstanding has not been fully paid by 1 April 2005, the account status will change from doubtful to loss. The balance outstanding should be transferred from doubtful to loss account and balance in accrued interest receivable – doubtful should be transferred to accrued interest receivable – loss. Similarly provision for loan loss should be made at 100% of the principal outstanding as at 1 April 2005.

Case 2 – Partial repayment with subsequent sufficient higher repayment

The example is the same as above except that for May's repayment, the customer repays USD 106.62 + USD 56.62 + penalty. The penalty represents interest on unpaid interest and unpaid principal on installment and may be imposed by the bank. The customer continues faithfully with the repayment schedule thereafter. In this instance, the account remains as standard.

Case 3 – Partial repayment with subsequent insufficient repayment

The example is the same as Case 1 above except that for May's repayment, the customer repays USD 106.62 + USD 20 + penalty. The customer continues to repay the amounts in accordance with the original repayment schedule. The customer is in arrears since 31 March 2004 and remains in arrears as at 31 December 2004.

In the example on Case 1 above, there is a balance outstanding as at 31 December 2004 of USD 56.62 + accrued Interest.

In Case 3, there is a balance outstanding of USD 36.62 + accrued Interest as at 31 December 2004.

In accordance with chart of accounts requirements, interest accrual in suspense should not stop on 31 December 2004 if there is still an outstanding balance remaining in the loan principal.

The criteria for transferring loans and overdrafts once classified as non – performing loans to standard loans and overdrafts has been addressed previously in the circular on non – performing loans, provisions and interest accounting previously (No. B7.04.01 CIR dated November 8, 2004). Page 2 of the same circular on partial repayments refer to non – performing loans and should not be confused with the partial repayments on standard installment loans.

CIRCULAR
On Multi-Currency Accounting Following Implementation of Uniform Chart of Accounts

This circular gives guidance on the recommended approach for bank and financial institutions in adopting multi – currency accounting for transactions involving foreign currencies. It includes the procedures for daily revaluation and accounting for gains or losses on revaluation as well as recognition of exchange positions on foreign currency loans and foreign currency accrued interest.

The guidelines should be read in conjunction with the Prakas No. B 7-00-50 on the accounting process for foreign currency transactions dated February 17, 2000.

Multi – Currency Accounting

The uniform chart of accounts (COA) which has been adopted by banks is a multi – currency COA. Each general ledger account has a currency code, namely, the last digit. This system of coding applies to assets, liabilities, income, and expense and off – balance sheet items. Therefore, the book – keeping entries for any banking operation can be made in by debiting and crediting the general ledger accounts by each currency. For instance, an outward remittance in Euros to the debit of a customer’s account can simply be made as follows, if the customer maintains a current account in Euros:

Debit Customer Account in Euros
Credit Nostro Account in Euros
[Ignore commission]

Similarly, a fixed loan in THB can be journalized as:

Debit Fixed Loan in THB
Credit Customer account in THB

There would be no foreign exchange involved. Any exchange risk in Euros or THB, in terms of assets and liabilities is neutralized by booking the asset and liability both as a debit and a credit.

However, if the customer has a USD current account and desires the bank to remit in Euros, the bank would convert the Euros to USD and debit the customer accordingly. This gives rise to an exchange position in Euros vis - a - vis the base currency in USD. The accounting entries are:

Debit Customer Account in USD
Credit Equivalence in Foreign Exchange in USD
Debit Foreign Exchange Position in Euros
Credit Nostro in Euros
[Base currency is USD]

In a multi – currency trial balance, both the USD and the Euros will balance in debits and credits. For presentation and reporting purposes, the conversion of the USD and Euros to Riel will not result in any translation gain or loss or exchange gain or loss.

In our example above, the bank has a foreign exchange position in Euro versus USD. Bank management should set its internal policy on the limit of exchange exposure. The exchange position should be revalued daily or other intervals using market exchange rates and any gains or losses taken to the income statement. Gains and losses on foreign exchange revaluation for banks should not be taken to reserve accounts in the balance sheet.

Dual currency accounting

Many banks currently use dual currency accounting despite the adoption of the COA. There are two scenarios. The first is that a bank does not have an overseas correspondent for the foreign currency that it is remitting. For instance, a bank customer has a USD current account and he instructs his banker to remit in Euros. In this case, the banker merely passes the exchange position to his bank correspondent in USA and instructs him to remit Euro and charging his account in USD. The local bank accepts the exchange rate charged by the US bank and it does not have an exchange position. The disadvantage of this approach is that it is costly for the local bank and its customer.

The second scenario is that the customer maintains his current account in Riel but wishes to remit in USD. In this case, the accounting entries in a dual currency account would be:

Debit Customer in Riels

Credit Nostro in Euros and in Riels (Dual Currency)

[Ignore commissions and assume the base currency is Riel]

The Euros in the nostro account and its equivalent in Riel will fluctuate with the market value of Euro vis – a vis Riel. Banks should revalue the foreign currency against the base currency at least once a month and take the gains or losses to income statement.

Foreign Currency income and expense items

Article 8 of the above Prakas states that the accrued foreign exchange income and expense relating to foreign currency loans and borrowings, securities or off – balance sheet operations shall be revalued at the spot rate and entered in the profit and loss account.

In a multi – currency accounting system as suggested above, this is easily done. Each month, there will be as many profit and loss statements as there are currencies in the bank. To give effect to article 8, banks need only to take up the exchange position of the net income less expense by currency and pass the accounting entries:

Assume, there is a net income, say in THB

Debit Income in THB

Credit Exchange position in THB

Debit Equivalence in USD [Assume the base currency is USD]

Credit Income in USD

[By virtue of this operation, banks will have revalued the foreign exchange income in their foreign currency loans]

In a dual currency accounting system, such accrued interest cannot be easily revalued since both the accrued interest receivable in foreign currency and the interest income were booked at the same booking rates. Any revaluation does not give effect to the amount earned.

INSTRUCTIONS

Monthly Statement of Assets & Liabilities (Spreadsheet-based Report)

1- Summary

In addition to the existing Monthly Statement of Assets and Liabilities (paper form) all commercial banks are now required to complete an electronic spreadsheet version of this same Monthly Statement. Both the signed paper copy and the validated spreadsheet are to be handed in simultaneously to the staff of Bann Supervision Department before of on the 10 of the month following.

The following instructions explain how to use the Lotus 1-2-3, spreadsheet-based Monthly Statement of Assets and Liabilities that commercial banks are required to complete in addition to current statutory reporting requirements.

2- General Information

Currently, all commercial banks file a paper form known as the Monthly Statement of Assets and Liabilities (MSAL) to the Bank Supervision Department (BSD). BSD now requests that all reporting banks complete a spreadsheet version of the same form, and submit it together with the signed standard paper form to departmental staff.

BSD staffs have put the MSAL paper form onto a Lotus spreadsheet (1-2-3 Release 1 for Windows, with file format. WK3 and FM3). In the same spreadsheet, BSD has included a series of validation tests that will assist the commercial bank officers ensure correct reporting. For instance, a Monthly Statement is invalid if asset items do not add up to the reported Total Assets, or when Total Assets is not equal to Total Liabilities and Capital. On the other hand, a report that does not include a figure for capital is invalid. Therefore, the validation table allows reporting banks pinpoint areas of their monthly reports that are incorrect. Reporting banks must ensure that their monthly reports are valid before handing over their diskettes to BSD.

The Bank Supervision Department stresses that all Monthly Statements must be correctly completed in accordance with existing guidelines contained in Circular M1, a spare copy of which is included with the present instructions (see Annex 2). The MSAL paper form must contain the same data as that shown in the spreadsheet. As is currently the practice, the paper form must be approved by duly authorized certifying officers from the reporting banks before being submitted to the National Bank. All diskettes handed over to the National Bank must be checked for computer viruses with a reputable and up to date antivirus program.

3- Instructions on the use of the Monthly Statement of Assets & Liabilities spreadsheet

- Software Requirements :

In order to run their spreadsheet copy of the Monthly Statement, reporting banks should have access to Lotus 1-2-3 Release 1 for Windows, or any later release of 1-2-3 that can handle .WK3 and .FM3 file formats. When handing over the MSAL spreadsheet to BSD, format .WK1 (1-2-3 for DOS) is acceptable.

- Spreadsheet Description :

- At the top left hand corner of the spreadsheet, a table contains basic information about the reporting bank, its assigned short name, the month reported on, the name of the reporting officer, and his/her contact telephone (refer to Annex 1, p1). Each bank is assigned a 3 letter short name which is also used as spreadsheet filename. This shortname is used by NBC for clerical processing only and does not purport to replace in any way the official initials that each bank may have.

- Each MSAL spreadsheet contains an entry panel (see example in Annex 1, pp 1&2) which is simply the existing Monthly Statement of Assets & Liabilities. It also contains a validation table (in Annex1, p 3) which is a series of test questions to ensure that the Monthly Statement is consistent and valid.

• Step by Step Instructions :

1. Make a backup copy of the spreadsheet file from the NBC issued diskette into the hard drive of your computer. The diskette has been checked for viruses with an anti-virus program.

2. In cell B3, enter the report month by typing the first 3 letters of the month eg. for April 1995 type Apr-95, for June 1995 type Jun-95 etc.....

3. In cells B4...B5 enter the name of the reporting officer and his/her contact telephone number.

4. Type in balance sheet data for report month in cells C12...C92. Enter the previous month's data in cells D12...D92. Column E displays the changes between columns C and D.

5. Information panel in cells B2...B5 and data entry panel C12...D92 are the only area of the spreadsheet reporting banks need to edit.

6. Cell C9 will display an "INVALID" flag if the submitted report is not consistent i.e there may be one or more cases where figures supplied in column C do not add up. In this case, move to the validation table which begins at cell F1. A diagnosis is displayed with the location of the problem(s). Correct mistakes made in your data entry panel C12...C92 until the validation flag in C9 becomes "VALID". Please refer to a staff officer of the BSD if you are having difficulties.

7. After completing the spreadsheet, save the file onto diskette (always use the reporting bank's assigned shortname as spreadsheet filename). Both the signed copy and the validated spreadsheet version of the Monthly Statement of Assets and Liabilities should be submitted to the Bank Supervision Department before or on the 10th of the following month.

8. NOTE: do not change the spreadsheet in any way i.e, avoid using /Move. /Worksheet Delete commands or any other commands which can result in damages to formulas in the spreadsheet. The only area you may edit is in the input table in columns C and D. Do not alter the test formulas in the validation table.

9. For detailed definition of the items in the Monthly Statement, please refer to Circular M1, a copy of which is included with these instructions in Annex 2.

INSTRUCTIONS
THE MONTHLY REPORT OF ASSETS AND LIABILITIES OF COMMERCIAL BANKS

A. SUBMISSION OF REPORT

1. The Monthly Report of Assets and Liabilities of Commercial Banks (hereafter, Monthly Report) is to be completed on the basis of the bank's account balances as of the last business day of the reporting month, and should be submitted by the 15th day of the following month. In the event that the 15th day is not a business day, the report should be submitted by the last preceding business day. The report should be sent to: Manager, Bank Supervision, National Bank of Cambodia (NBC), 22-24 Norodom Blvd., P.O. Box 2), Phnom Penh., Cambodia. The report should be submitted both on paper and in a computer file, in the format provided by NBC.

B. RESIDENT AND NONRESIDENT ACCOUNTS

2. All assets and liabilities must be disaggregated by type of customer into resident and nonresident accounts, to separately identify domestic and foreign assets and liabilities.

RESIDENCY

3. Residency is based on the economic center of interest of the transactor, rather than nationality, currency of denomination, or legal definitions. All enterprises engaging in economic activities on a significant scale in Cambodia should be considered residents. Individuals have centers of economic interest when their principal residences are in Cambodia. If they work overseas for more than a year, individuals typically cease to be residents. But regardless of their centers of economic interest, some transactors in Cambodia are always considered to be nonresidents-particularly, embassies, consulates and their representatives, international organizations, tourists, and persons staying in Cambodia for less than a year. For such special cases, Cambodian-national outside of Cambodia continue to be Cambodian residents.

4. Riel and foreign currency loans to Cambodian residents are part of the domestic assets of a Cambodian commercial bank (that is, a bank operating in Cambodia), but Riel and foreign currency loans to nonresidents are foreign assets of a Cambodian bank. The residency of borrowers is normally clear since the bank is aware of business being conducted in Cambodia or abroad; for loans to individuals below Riel 1,000,000 (or US $ equivalent), a Cambodian address is sufficient to indicate that the borrower is a resident. Riel and foreign-currency deposits of Cambodian residents are domestic liabilities of Cambodian banks, but Riel and foreign-currency deposits of nonresidents are foreign liabilities of Cambodian banks. Deposits of less than Riel 1,000,000 (or US $ equivalent) should be classified as resident deposits, if the depositor's address is in Cambodia. These rules apply unless there is clear evidence that the borrower or depositor is a nonresident.

5. Even though all deposits of Cambodian residents are included in the domestic liabilities of the Cambodian banks, separate data on (a) Riel deposits of residents and (b) foreign-currency deposits of residents must be included in the Monthly Report, since these data are needed for monetary policy purposes. Separate data should also be reported for Riel and foreign currency deposits of nonresidents.

C. DOMESTIC SECTORS

6. Resident institutional units of Cambodia can be disaggregated by type of customer to identify the following domestic sectors:

(a) private sector: individuals, cooperatives, private and mixed enterprises, and social organizations.

(b) state enterprises: (refer to list of non-financial public enterprises)

(c) government: central, provincial, and district levels

(d) commercial banks

7. All categories of the commercial bank's claims on, and indebtedness to, NBC must be clearly identified in the Monthly Report. Claims on NBC include bank clearing balances and other. NBC deposits (in Riel or foreign currency) of commercial banks. If NBC debt certificates are issued in the future, commercial bank holdings of such claims will be included. Indebtedness to NBC includes bank liabilities incurred through rediscounting and advances by NBC and possibly other NBC credit facilities for banks.

D. FOREIGN ASSETS AND LIABILITIES

8. The major categories of foreign assets are foreign currency holdings, balances in foreign banks (Nostro accounts), and credits related to foreign trade: trade bills discounted, trade receivables, and credit arising from similar instruments that constitute claims on nonresidents as defined in Section B.

9. All accounts for trade-related credit, such as bills receivable, should be carefully disaggregated by resident and nonresident debtors, to ensure accurate reporting of domestic and foreign assets. Similarly, balances due to or due from foreign banks should be carefully distinguished from balances due to and due from domestic banks.

10. The basic test is that all assets that are direct nonresident obligations to the bank are classified as foreign assets, and all liabilities that are direct bank obligations to nonresidents are classified as foreign liabilities. Care should be exercised in cases where the bank's claims are on residents who, in turn, have claims on nonresidents. From the bank's perspective, such claims are domestic assets. Similarly, liabilities' are classified as domestic when a resident has a direct claim on the bank. These rules apply regardless of the currency in which the asset or liability is denominated. All liabilities that are strictly contingent, such as credit commitments and letters of credit, are excluded from the report. Loans to residents that are guaranteed by nonresidents should be classified as domestic loans.

11. In cases where doubts arise, the accounting department of the bank should confer with the Bank Supervision of NBC for the correct classifications and sectorizations. When completed, the Monthly Report should show all assets, liabilities and capital on the bank's balance sheet, as of the end of the reporting month. That is, the various categories of assets, liabilities, and capital should sum to the totals for assets and liabilities plus capital, shown in the report.

E. DOMESTIC LOANS AND DEPOSITS

12. Domestic loans and advances are reported for three broad categories: private sector, state enterprise, and government. Further disaggregations of private-sector and state-enterprise credit are required, as shown on the report form. Some categories may not apply to your bank at present. Total amounts for loans and advances in foreign currency are to be reported separately for each of the three major credit categories.

13. Domestic deposits are reported in four broad categories: current accounts (demand deposits, or sight deposits), savings deposits, fixed deposits, and foreign currency deposits of residents. Current accounts are further disaggregated by sector (private, state enterprise, and government), and a separate subcomponent is reported for certified checks (bank drafts and cashier's checks, or similar instruments).

14. Any deposits that are not created, exchanged, and liquidated on terms agreed to by the bank and depositors should be classified in the category of residedent deposits. Such deposits (for example, import deposits, stabilization funds, blocked deposits, compulsory deposits, or similar categories) often arise from government actions, but may also occur because of accumulation of arrears or loan rescheduling agreements.

F. CAPITAL

15. The major capital entries include paid-in capital and surplus (premium on share capital), retained earnings, and the profit or loss that has not been transferred to the capital account in the bank's balance sheet. Subordinated debt is long-term debt that is subordinated to all other bank debt in order of repayment. At maturity, such debt may be convertible into stock.

G. PROVISIONS

Provisions for loans losses are allowances to cover potential nonpayment of interest and principal on loans. These provisions are in accordance with the rules for prudential regulation. General provisions are allowances provided to cover general losses arising from losses from loans, trading in foreign exchange and securities and other possible sources.

H. VALUATION

16. All assets and liabilities denominated in foreign currency should be translated into riel amounts, by using the market exchange rates quoted on the last business day of the report period (end of month). The counterpart of all valuations made to these account, or the profits or losses resulting from the changes in the exchange rate of the riel, should be aggregated and recorded as valuation adjustments. These valuation adjustments are treated as items in the capital account because they have a direct impact on the level of capital and reserves.

Introduction

1. This manual outlines the classifications and procedures to be used by the commercial banks and the National Bank of Cambodia (NBC) in reporting International Transactions Reporting System (ITRS) transactions. In addition to procedures, classification codes have been provided for country, currency, transactors and transactions. The transactor and transaction codes have been devised for the purpose of classifying transactions between residents of Cambodia and the rest of the world into different types in order to facilitate the analysis of these transactions according to broad balance of payments components.

2. In devising the classification system and the transactions codes for the ITRS, this manual has broadly followed the classification system adopted by the International Monetary Fund's Balance of Payments Manual, Fifth Edition 1993 (BPM 5). The broad balance of payments classifications consist of the following: (a) current (b) capital and (c) financial transactions. These are further sub-divided into other categories and transactions. However, the classification system used in this manual and consequently the transactions codes are not as elaborate as specified in BPM5. The transactions codes have been simplified taking into consideration circumstances that are relevant for Cambodia, as well as to facilitate ease of reporting. Hence the current and capital transactions have been combined. Also, some sub-categories such as acquisition/disposal of non-produced, non-financial assets have been left out because they are not relevant to Cambodia at present or because data on these are best obtained through sources other than the ITRS (e.g. inquiries from embassies for purchase of land to build embassy offices/ housing for employees or enterprise surveys for the purchase/sale of copyrights, patents, and royalties). Similarly, the elaborate classification system followed in BPM5 for the financial account has not been followed for the purpose of the ITRS. In BPM5, the financial account is further sub-divided into (a) direct investment (b) portfolio investment (c) financial derivatives (d) other investment and (e) reserve assets. These are further categorized into (a) assets and (b) liabilities that in turn are further sub-divided into different financial instruments by sectors.

3. The transactions codes together with information provided in forms 1R/1P-3R/3P and the various classification codes will normally enable the balance of payments statisticians to slot the information provided on the ITRS into the elaborate classification system of balance of payments transactions as presented in BPM5. In some instances where clear or inadequate information is not provided, further investigation needs to be conducted by the balance of payments statisticians. Such investigation may also become necessary as data confrontation exercises are conducted. Data confrontation means comparison of data from two or more sources for reasonableness and for avoidance of duplication.

4. While a very general, overall idea of the balance of payments statistics may be helpful, it is not necessary at all for an ITRS compiler in a commercial bank to know the concepts, detailed classifications and the various exceptions to the rules associated with these statistics. Therefore, in this manual an attempt is made to define the various transactors and transactions to enable the ITRS compilers to assign the appropriate transactor and transaction codes. It is the responsibility of the balance of payments statisticians to slot these transactions into the appropriate balance of payments classification system.

Background and Consultation

5. The ITRS is being introduced from January 1, 2003 by the NBC following a review of the data sources and methods used in compiling Cambodia's official balance of payments (BOP) statistics, with the assistance of International Monetary Fund (IMF) statistics advisors. This ITRS for the banking sector is a data collection system which requires the NBC and commercial banks to record details of the purpose and transacting parties for each international payment and receipt made through the banking system (e.g. SWIFT payments and receipts). The information is reported by banks for their own accounts and on behalf of Cambodian residents paying or receiving funds. The confidentiality of individual information is protected under Cambodia's Banking and Statistics Laws. Only aggregated data are used in compiling balance of payments statistics.

6. On June 6 and October 25, 2002, the IMF MSA and the mission held meetings with representatives of the commercial banks to discuss the introduction of an ITRS for Cambodia. The meetings agreed to:

- A cut off level for identifying single transactions of US$10,000, which is expected to capture 80 percent of transactions by value that would be coded and classified by nature of transactions.
- Transactions less than US$10,000 being included in the "other" category and on the basis of a rotating sample to be sampled once a year for each bank with the sampling exercise evenly spread throughout the year.
- Transactions of the Western Union offices being surveyed separately, with data for these transactions being provided separately by the three banks that have these agencies.
- Separate ITRS forms being used by the banks to report receipts and payments and the classification and coding system being further simplified to include "other" categories.
- The banks providing monthly-consolidated statements, via Excel spreadsheets on floppy discs.
- The commencement of the survey from January 1, 2003.
- Just in time training provided to the commercial banks and NBC staff in late November 2002 for 2 days.

7. Based on this agreement with the commercial banks and further discussions with officials from the various departments within NBC, the overall assessment of the IMF resident Multi-sector Statistics Advisor and the BOP STA mission was that it is feasible to introduce an ITRS for the banking sector from January 2003.

Definition, Types and Quality of ITRS

8. An ITRS measures: (a) individual balance of payments (BOP) cash transactions that pass through domestic banks and through enterprise accounts with banks abroad, (b) non-cash transactions, and (c) stock positions. Statistics are compiled from forms submitted to domestic banks and from forms submitted by enterprises. An ITRS can provide comprehensive and timely BOP statistics.

9. There are two types of ITRS: (a) closed ITRS that accounts for all transactions and reconciles all transactions with corresponding changes in stock positions, and (b) an open ITRS that does not allow such complete accounting and reconciliation. An open ITRS is a partial system because certain BOP transactions are not recorded. For e.g. the German system does not include export of goods and short-term financial transactions, although it provides for reconciliation of data on certain flows and stock positions.

10. The quality of ITRS depends on (a) clearly defined rules, (b) a sound legal basis, (c) well-designed collection forms and procedures, (d) cooperative reporters, (e) adequate resources, and (f) well-trained staff.

Purpose of Cambodia's ITRS

11. The primary purpose of Cambodia's ITRS is to collect international transactions data in order to compile Cambodia's balance of payments statistics. In addition, a monthly summary report of aggregate statistics for the whole of the banking sector will be produced for the NBC and the commercial banks in order to monitor the growth in international transactions (i.e. total value and volume), as well as changes in the nature of these transactions. The information reported by the banking sector will only be used for statistical purposes.

Authority for the ITRS and Compliance

12. The information reported by the banks and the NBC, on their own account transactions or on behalf of their clients, is to be collected under the authority of the National Bank's own legislation, as well as the Statistics Law of Cambodia. The Law provides for the compulsory provision of individual information to institutions and ministries of the Royal Government of Cambodia, for statistical purposes under Article 24. The article states that "ministries and government institutions may conduct statistical activities to obtain statistical information from respondents". Furthermore, the Law states under Article 29 that the "respondents must provide accurate, complete, timely and truthful information to a designated statistical officer of the National Institute of Statistics of the Ministry of Planning or any other ministry or institution of the Royal Government. Where accurate and complete information is not available within the time required, respondents must provide approximate information. Articles 30 and 31 state that, "Penalties shall apply to any respondent who knowingly violates Article 29" and "any individual who deliberately and without legal justification prevents or prohibits statistical activities conducted by the National Institute of Statistics, Ministries, or other government institutions under the provisions of this Law, will be subject to penalties as determined under the judicial code".

13. The NBC has the authority to collect the ITRS data under Article 39.1 of the Law on the Organization and Conduct of the National Bank of Cambodia. This article states that “a bank or financial institution must furnish to the Central Bank such information and data as the Central Bank may require for the discharge of its functions and responsibilities”. Further in Title II of the Law, which describes the general functions, and duties of the NBC, the establishment of the balance of payments is listed in article 7.8 as one of the functions and duties. Also, article 33.4 states that “the Central Bank shall be empowered to take remedial actions or sanctions according to the existing laws if there has been an infraction by a bank or financial institution of its officers or employees with respect to the violation of a provision of the existing laws or regulations of the Central Bank”.

Confidentiality of Individual Information

14. The Statistics Law provides for the confidentiality of all individual information collected under this Law. Individual data remain confidential to the NBC and the data are only to be released in the form of aggregated statistics. Article 25 of the Law specifically guarantees “the confidentiality of all individual information obtained from respondents” and that “the information collected under this Law is used only for statistical purposes”.

15. Furthermore, Article 30 specifies that “Government employees and designated statistical officers of the National Institute of Statistics and statistical units in ministries or institutions of the Royal Government who violate Article 25 will be subject to penalties as determined under the judicial code”.

Scope of Cambodia’s ITRS

16. Under Cambodian banking regulations, both residents and non-residents can have foreign currency accounts with resident banks. In most instances, large international transactions are managed through these accounts. The scope of the proposed ITRS is to collect information from the NBC and commercial banks on the following international transactions, where:

- A bank client buys foreign exchange from, or makes a withdrawal from a foreign currency account at, a resident bank to make a payment to a nonresident.
- A bank client sells foreign exchange, or makes a deposit to a foreign currency account, which has been received as a payment from a nonresident, to a resident bank.
- A Cambodian resident intending to travel abroad acquires foreign currency from, or makes a withdrawal from a foreign currency account at, a resident bank.
- A resident bank buys foreign currency travelers’ checks or cash from a nonresident who is traveling in the domestic economy.
- A resident bank undertakes a foreign exchange transaction with a correspondent nonresident bank abroad, including where the transaction is undertaken to exchange foreign exchange assets denominated in one currency for those denominated in another or to acquire (or sell) goods, services, other financial assets, etc.

- A resident bank undertakes a foreign exchange transaction with another resident bank, including where this transaction is undertaken to settle balances in various currencies or to sell (or buy) foreign exchange to (from) the NBC.

Definition of Resident and Nonresident

17. For the purposes of balance of payments statistics and the ITRS, residents of Cambodia comprise the following types of economic units:

- Households and individuals who make up a household;
- Enterprises, which are corporations and quasi-corporations, such as branch offices of non-resident direct investors;
- Nonprofit organizations; and
- The Royal Government of Cambodia.

18. To be a resident of Cambodia, an economic unit must have a center of economic interest in Cambodia. A household has a center of economic interest when members of that household maintain, within Cambodia, a dwelling that the members use as their principal residence. For simplicity, the one-year rule is applied. That is, individuals and members of a household are considered to be residents of Cambodia if they stay in Cambodia for one year or more, or intend to stay in Cambodia for one year or more (regardless of their nationality). However, foreign officials, diplomats, consular representatives, members of foreign armed forces, and other foreign government personnel (except for technical assistance personnel) in Cambodia are to be treated as non-residents.

19. An enterprise or nonprofit organization is treated as a resident when it is engaged in a significant amount of production/provision of goods and/or services in Cambodia, or transactions in land in Cambodia. That is, the enterprise or non-profit organization maintains at least one production unit in Cambodia and intends to operate that unit for more than one year.

20. Embassies and international organizations (e.g. ADB, IMF, UN agencies and World Bank) located in Cambodia are to be treated as nonresidents.

Threshold Practices

21. In many ITRS, thresholds are used so that transactions of less than certain amounts need only to be aggregated as in the system proposed for Cambodia or need not be reported. BOP compilers have generally found large numbers of transactions that, in aggregate account for small values. The use of thresholds prevents undue reporting burdens and processing costs. However, while it may be unnecessary to report small transactions individually, an aggregate record of small transactions may be necessary for classification purposes and to determine the appropriate level of the threshold. This information may be gathered from periodic sample surveys. In the case of Cambodia, each commercial bank will provide detailed information on the under-threshold transactions for a selected week of the year. It is important that judgment be applied in adopting thresholds so that overall data quality remains acceptable.

22. The US$10,000 threshold amount has been agreed for Cambodia's ITRS. This amount is the same as that collected on Customs declaration forms for international passengers entering or leaving Cambodia. Based on the information provided by the banks, this threshold is expected to capture approximately 80 percent of the value of international transactions of commercial banks. This threshold level will be reviewed on an annual basis in order to ensure that individual transactions information is available for 80 percent by value of transactions.

Recording and Reporting of Transactions

23. With the exception of the NBC which will report information on all international transactions, on its own accounts and on behalf of its clients, a threshold of US$10,000 or more will be applied for collecting individual transaction details on ITRS Form 1R – Receipts and ITRS Form 1P – Payments. Section A of the form should be completed by the bank customer or the commercial bank representative on behalf of the customer. Section B should be completed by the commercial bank representative. Where commercial banks already collect the information required on their own transaction forms, they are free to use their own forms rather than Forms 1R and 1P.

24. For commercial banks, only the total number and value in millions of Riel will be reported on a monthly basis for transactions of less than US$10,000. However, once a year it is proposed that each bank provide details of individual transactions under US$10,000 for a period of one week, using the daily summary forms ITRS Form 2R – Receipts and ITRS Form 2P – Payments, or any existing forms that the commercial banks already have to collect the information required.

- March – Canadia Bank, Advanced Bank, Cambodian Commercial Bank and Cambodia Mekong Bank
- June – Foreign Trade Bank, Cambodia Asia Bank, Cambodian Public Bank, and Credit Agricole Indosuez
- September – Union Commercial Bank, Emperor International Bank, First Overseas Bank, Krung Thai Bank, Maybank and Rural Development Bank
- December – First Commercial Bank, Singapore Banking Corporation, ACLEDA Bank and Peng Heng S.M.E. Bank

25. In addition, it is proposed that the Singapore Banking Corporation, Aceda Bank, and Cambodia Asia Bank (acting as agents for Western Union) will report all individual transactions on behalf of Western Union clients for the third week of January, April, July and October of each year, also using ITRS Forms 2R and 2P.

26. Commercial banks are required to provide consolidated monthly summary reports, ITRS Form 3R – Receipts and ITRS Form 3P – Payments, on a regular monthly basis ten (10) working days after the end of the reference month to the BOP Division of NBC. The reports are to be provided on floppy discs using the Excel spreadsheets provided for this purpose. The information collected on ITRS Forms 1R, 1P, 2R and 2P (or other forms used by the banks for ITRS purposes) are to be retained by each bank for a period of two years, in case balance of payments compilers need to access the individual transaction information for data quality or validation checks.

Bundling of Transactions

27. Most transactions are likely to have a single purpose, e.g. payment for imported goods or receipts for exported goods. However, where the customer indicates that there is more than one purpose for a payment or receipt (bundling of transactions), the bank representative should ask for a breakdown of the payment or receipt by purpose in order to unbundled the transactions. Bundling of transactions occurs when several transactions relating to more than one classification category are covered by a single payment. For example, an importer may make a single payment of $30,000, including three separate payments for: imports ($25,000); freight ($4,000); and insurance ($1,000). Another example could be when a payment on a loan may include the loan repayment, an interest repayment, and some fees for financial services. It is necessary for transactors to report the separate components. The bank should report these as separate ITRS transactions.

28. A further example of bundling is the recording of transactions on a net, rather than a gross, basis. Some foreign exchange payments may cover a number of offsetting gross credit and debit transactions. This may often be the case with transactions undertaken by transportation, travel, and finance enterprises and direct investment enterprises. Therefore, it may be necessary to collect additional information in respect of certain types of transactions or from certain types of enterprises.

Data Items to be Collected

29. The proposed data items to be reported for each transaction include:

- Description of reason for the transaction.
- Institutional sector of the transactor.
- Transaction code.
- Country of non-resident counterpart(s).
- Affiliation of counterpart with resident transactor.
- Currency of transaction.
- Amount in original currency.
- Amount in Riel (millions).

30. In order to compile balance of payments statistics, it is necessary to ensure that the reporting classifications (i.e. transactor codes, other party codes, and transaction codes) used in the ITRS conforms, as closely as possible, to the classification used for the balance of payments statement. The list of transactor, other party and transaction codes and their descriptors are provided below. Also provided are currency and country codes.

31. Since the ITRS system envisaged for Cambodia is an open system, it is not necessary for the banks to record corresponding details of their own transactions-for purposes of matching their transactions with those of clients- and details of their foreign currency (and other external asset and liability) positions since the ITRS envisaged for Cambodia does not intend to reconcile transactions and stock positions or to obtain international investment position (IIP).

Currency Conversion

32. All individual transactions of US$10,000 or more are to be converted to Riel at the buying (receipt) or selling (payment) exchange rate used for the transaction. Where the receipt or deposit is not converted into Riel, the bank should use the midpoint of its buying or selling rate for both receipts and payments. This should also be the methodology used where banks are reporting individual transactions under US$10,000 in value.

Valuation

33. Cambodia's ITRS may not achieve uniform valuations. For example, goods may be recorded, depending on the contract price in individual transactions, or on an f.o.b., c.i.f., or some other basis. The BOP compiler has to record goods on a uniform, namely the f.o.b., basis. Therefore, the compiler may have to make certain valuation adjustments to ITRS statistics to compile a BOP statement.

Time of Recording

34. All transactions taking place within a particular month should be included in the monthly summary report for that month.

Commencement Date

35. The commencement date for the ITRS is January 1, 2003.

Assistance and Future Training

36. For assistance in completing the ITRS forms or for any other queries relating to the ITRS, please contact the Balance of Payments Division, NBC on 023 722 563 extension to 1118.

37. Just-in-time training was provided for commercial banks' and NBC staff on 26 and 27 November 2002. Further training is available on request and can be arranged by contacting Balance of Payments Statistics Division of the Economic Research and Statistics Department.

Deposits include those payable on demand and transferable by check or otherwise usable for making payments and those that, while not readily transferable, may be viewed as substitutes for transferable deposits. Thus, in addition to commercial banks, the definition includes merchant banks, savings banks, savings and loan associations, building societies, credit unions or credit cooperatives, rural and agricultural banks, travelers' check companies that mainly engage in financial corporation activities, and post office savings banks or other government controlled savings banks (as long as these banks are separate from government).

Transactions Codes for Banks' Transactions with Nonresidents for Their Own Accounts and on Behalf of Their Clients – Receipts and Payments

44. Transaction codes 110-999 have been devised for the purpose of classifying transactions between residents of Cambodia and the rest of the world into different types to facilitate the analysis of these transactions according to broad balance of payments classifications.

45. In a few instances, some of the transactions in the ITRS are grouped together with categories to which they do not belong. This is done in order for ease of reporting these transactions or because some transactions could belong to more than one major category. An example of the former case is prepayments received or made for goods (111), and of the latter is processing fees for goods (120). Prepayments received or made for goods are actually financial account transactions and would normally be assigned one of the following transactions codes: (a) 760 - loans (short-term) extended to or repaid by non-residents; (b) 790 – other assets/claims; (c) 860 - loans (short-term) extended by or repaid to non-residents; and (d) 890 - other liabilities. These are shown in the goods category because the bank clients are most likely to report them in that category as these transactions are not separately identified in the financial transactions categories shown in the ITRS. According to BPM5, processing fees would be attributed to exports and imports of goods under some circumstances and to services under other circumstances. It is not necessary for a commercial bank ITRS compiler to be aware of all the nuances of the classification rules that determine when processing fees should be attributed to the value of goods and when they should not. The balance of payments compiler at the NBC will make that decision.

46. The numerical transaction code used is the same for reporting receipts or payments of any particular transaction identified. For example, the transaction code for receipts or payments for goods is 110. However, receipts and payments will be reported to the NBC on separate reporting forms. Thus, forms 1R, 2R, and 3R will be used to report receipts whereas forms 1P, 2P, and 3P will be used to report payments.

47. Receipts arise as a result of exports of goods and services from Cambodia to residents of other countries, salaries, wages, and bonuses paid by nonresidents to Cambodian residents or to short-term Cambodian workers abroad, investment income (dividends, profits, and interest) received by Cambodian residents from their investments abroad, transfer receipts from abroad (migrants transfers, remittances from long-term workers abroad, pensions, and official and private gifts and grants), accumulation of financial liabilities to nonresidents or reduction of financial claims on nonresidents.

48. Payments arise as a result of imports of goods and services to Cambodia from residents of other countries, salaries, wages, and bonuses paid by Cambodians to nonresidents or to nonresident short-term workers in Cambodia, investment income (dividends, profits, and interest) paid by Cambodian residents on their financial liabilities to nonresidents, transfer payments abroad (migrants transfers, remittances from long-term workers in Cambodia, pensions, and official and private gifts and grants), accumulation of financial claims on nonresidents or reduction of financial liabilities to nonresidents.

Current and Capital Account Transactions

Goods - Transactions 1 to 7 represented by transaction codes 110-199 refer to receipts or payments for exports and imports of goods. Included in this category are prepayments received or made for goods (transaction 111). Prepayments received are by Cambodian exporters from importers in other countries and prepayments made are by Cambodian importers to exporters abroad. Therefore, these transactions will be reported on the appropriate Receipts and Transactions forms. The Balance of Payments Statistics Division (BOPSD) at the NBC will assign the prepayment received by the Cambodian exporter to 860 Receipts since it is a short-term liability to the importer until the importer receives the goods. When the final settlement is made, the ITRS will capture the balance in transaction code 110 as a receipt. The BOPSD at that time will expunge the short-term liability to the nonresident importer (the pre-payment received earlier) and will make an entry in 860 Payments and another entry of equal value in 110 Receipts. The twin entries made by the ITRS and the BOPSD at the time when the final settlement is made will constitute the value of the exports. There is likely to be a time lag between the time the nonresident importer receives the goods (which is the time that the change in ownership takes place) and the time when the financial settlement is made. If so, the BOPSD will make the necessary adjustments to the BOP data.

Transactions 1 and 3-6 represent the various categories of goods identified in BPM5. Transaction 1 represents all other goods (general merchandise) that are not identified in 3-6. Transaction 3 represents goods for processing. This requires further explanation. According to BPM5, goods that are sent from Country A to Country B for further processing and then brought back should be treated as exports when sent and as imports when received. The difference in the two values would be equivalent of the processing fees paid to country B. However, the enterprises involved in these transactions would not treat these as exports and imports. They would be treated as goods on consignment and no financial transactions would be associated with these transactions. At the time the goods are returned, Country A will pay a processing fee to Country B. This will be treated as a Payment by Country A and as a Receipt by Country B. Customs and the BOPSD will assign the appropriate export and import values for such transactions. If Country A is Cambodia, the processing fee will be added to the export value of the goods together with other expenses such as transportation costs to derive the imported value. The ITRS will only reflect the processing fees and not the value of the unprocessed goods. It is important that the ITRS compilers assign the transaction code 120 to processing fees for goods and not any of the codes in Other Services.

In some instances, Country A will consign a product to country B for processing and then sell it to Country C without re-importing the product to Country A. In such an instance, Country A will show the value of exports (after processing) to Country C. The processing fee paid to country B will then be shown as a service fee assigned to transaction 30 with the transaction code of 378. In these instances, additional explanations in the appropriate reporting forms will be helpful.

1. Receipts or payments for goods (110) – includes all other export (receipt) or import (payment) of goods (general merchandise) that are not classified in transactions 3-6. General merchandise covers most movable goods that residents export to, or import from, nonresidents and that, with a few specified exceptions, undergo changes in ownership.

2. Prepayments received or made for goods (111) – includes prepayments received by Cambodian exporters from importers in other countries and prepayments made by Cambodian importers to exporters abroad.

3. Processing fees for goods (120) – are fees paid or received for the processing of goods. For example, goods are sent from Country A to Country B for further processing and then brought back should be treated as exports when sent and as imports when received. The difference in the two values is the equivalent of the processing fees paid to country B. It is important that the ITRS compilers assign the transaction code 120 to processing fees for goods and not any of the codes in Other Services. The balance of payments compilers at the NBC will make the necessary adjustments to these data as necessary. At present, Cambodia is not known to either export or import goods for the purpose of processing and therefore it is not expected that any transactions for processing would be reported in the ITRS. In the balance of payments statistics, goods that are sent to or received from abroad for processing that involve a substantial physical change are distinguished from other processing. Goods that cross frontiers for processing and reclassified, upon return, in a different three-digit group of the Central Product Classification (CPC) are included on a gross basis, under goods. The value of other processing is recorded under services. However, some may regard the garments industry in Cambodia as essentially a processing industry where the garments factories cut, manufacture, and trim (CMT) the imported fabrics and accessories into garments. This view gains some credibility since most garments factories in Cambodia do not take any decisions or control the import of raw materials or the exports of the finished garments. Both imports and exports are arranged by the owners of the factories who are resident abroad and payments for imports are made by them and exports receipts are remitted to them directly. Therefore, the various transactions between the factory owners and the factories once they are operational may relate only to payments for working capital requirements such as wages, utilities, rent etc. Garments factories may report these transactions as either processing fees for goods (120), other equity: investment or withdrawal of investment (820), or other liabilities (890). It is recommended that the ITRS compiler obtain additional information from the garments factories when they report transactions to enable the balance of payments compilers at the NBC to make the appropriate adjustments.

4. Gold (130) - refers to non-monetary gold. Non-monetary gold covers exports and imports of all gold not held as reserve assets. Gold used in production (e.g. industrial, production of jewelry) and as a store of value should be included in this category. Transactions that relate to gold associated with the monetary transactions of the NBC should not be included here. BOP Division will obtain transactions related to reserve assets directly from the relevant departments of the NBC and not from the ITRS. Therefore, only gold that is imported or exported for industrial use (manufacture of jewelry) or as a store of value by institutions other than the NBC, enterprises (including goldsmiths, importers and exporters), and individuals should be included in this item.

5. Repair on goods (140) - refers to value of all repairs on goods. Proper classification of this item poses problems in an ITRS. The System of National Accounts (SNA) distinguishes between repairs performed on investment goods and those performed on other goods. The latter are included under services in the SNA. However, the BPM5 recommends that the value of all repairs be included under goods. This recommendation is made because of the practical difficulty involved in making distinctions between the two types of goods and the fact that the bulk of international repairs are performed on investment goods. Excluded are construction repairs (recorded under construction services), computer repairs (recorded under computer and information services), and maintenance performed in ports and airports on transportation equipment (recorded under other transportation services).

6. Bunkers and stores (150) – include all goods procured in ports by carriers (airplanes and ships) such as fuel, (food and other) provisions, stores, and supplies that resident/nonresident carriers (air, shipping, etc) procure abroad or in Cambodia. The classification does not cover auxiliary services (towing, piloting, maintenance, etc), which are covered under other transportation services (transaction 14 or transaction code 230).

7. Other, purpose not specified (199) - is a residual category for goods transactions whose purposes are not specified. Care should be exercised to include as few of the transactions as possible in this category. This classification category should be used by the ITRS compilers only when sufficient information is not available to code a transaction in goods to any of the other six categories discussed above.

Transportation Services – Transactions 8 to 15 represented by transaction codes 211-239, cover most of the transportation services that are performed by Cambodians for nonresidents and vice versa. However, transportation services utilized by nonresident travelers within Cambodia to resident carriers should be shown to travel (transactions 16-18). Also, freight insurance should be covered under insurance services (transaction 23-24 or transaction codes 331-332). Transportation includes freight and passenger transportation by all modes of transportation and other distributive and auxiliary services, including rentals of transportation equipment with crew. Transportation services are covered by transactions 8-15 or transaction codes 211 to 239.

Importers and exporters usually engage the services of transportation companies directly or through agents. Importers eventually pay for the cost of transportation of goods even though the exporters may have arranged for these services. In such instances, the payments made by the importers include not only the cost of goods but that of transportation as well. In other instances, the importers may pay for the transportation of goods directly to the transportation companies or agents acting on behalf of transportation companies. If a Cambodian importer engages the services of a Cambodian transportation company to import goods into Cambodia, it is a resident to resident transaction and therefore it does not have to be reported on the ITRS forms. If the transportation company is nonresident, then the transportation charges have to be reported on the ITRS.

According to balance of payments concepts, transportation costs include only those that are charged from the port of loading of the exporting country to the port of unloading of the importing country. The cost of transportation from factory gate or farm gate to the port of loading is included in the cost of goods. In the case of overland transportation of goods by trucks (for example from Thailand to Cambodia through Poipet), the goods (e.g. steel or cement) may be shipped by a Thai trucking company, from Bangkok to the place of business of the importer in Siem Reap. In this case, the cost of goods and transportation cost from Bangkok to Poipet will constitute the free on board (f.o.b.) cost of goods. The cost of goods in Bangkok (excluding the cost of transportation to Poipet) is called factory gate price. According to balance of payments concepts, the f.o.b. cost constitutes the cost of imported goods. In the above example, the cost of transportation from Poipet to Siem Reap should be included in transportation cost or payments since the services of a nonresident trucker are utilized.

Therefore, when transportation payments or receipts are reported on the ITRS forms, it would be helpful if additional information is provided, to the extent possible, on the mode of transportation, the residency of the transportation companies, and other details such as the cost of transportation from the factory gate to the port of loading and any transportation services provided by nonresident truckers within the geographical boundaries of Cambodia.

In the case of transportation of passengers, the cost of transportation provided by nonresident modes of transportation (such as airlines, ships, automobiles etc) to nonresidents visiting Cambodia should not be reported on the ITRS. However, transportation costs paid by nonresidents to Cambodian resident transportation modes (irrespective of their ownership) should be reported. For example, the President Airlines of Cambodia is a resident of Cambodia even though it is owned by nonresidents. But Bangkok Airlines is not a resident of Cambodia. Therefore payments made to it by nonresidents should not be reported on the ITRS.

The cost of transportation within Cambodia by nonresidents should be included in travel and not in transportation according to balance of payments concepts. If such transportation is provided by nonresident carriers to nonresidents, then those payments should not be reported on the ITRS.

In the case of residents, transportation costs paid to nonresident carriers should be reported and not those paid to resident carriers.

Cambodian residents traveling abroad may obtain the required funds by making withdrawals from their foreign currency accounts held in Cambodian banks, or buying foreign currencies or travelers checks from the banks or utilizing their credit cards. To the extent possible, the banks should report the cost of transportation paid to nonresident carriers separately from other costs of travel. The passenger transportation cost (from Cambodia to the port of disembarkation) should be assigned one of the transaction codes in the range 221-223. Other travel costs including transportation within the countries visited should be assigned one of the transaction codes in the range 241-249.

8. Freight: sea transport (211) – includes the costs of transportation from the customs border of the exporting country to the importing country, as well as, within the importing country to the point of delivery. Include costs of loading on board ship or the unloading of goods from ships where this service is specified under the freight contract. Payments for freight on all imports should be recorded as a payment, while payments for freight on exports should be recorded as a receipt only when these freight services are provided by Cambodian owned carriers. Please note that the flag flown or the country of registration is not to be used to determine ownership. Also included as a receipt are payments received for freight services provided by Cambodian carriers between other countries (e.g. goods transported between Thailand and Vietnam). Please note that there are currently no Cambodian owned shipping lines.

9. Freight: air transport (212) – includes the costs of transportation from the customs border of the exporting country to the importing country, as well as, within the importing country to the point of delivery. Include costs of loading on board or the unloading of goods from airplanes where this service is specified under the freight contract. Payments for freight on all imports should be recorded as a payment, while payments for freight on exports should be recorded as a receipt only when these freight services are provided by Cambodian owned carriers (i.e. President and Phnom Penh Airlines). Also included as a receipt are payments received for freight services provided by Cambodian carriers between other countries (e.g. goods transported between Thailand and Vietnam).

10. Freight: other transport (213) – includes the costs of transportation from the customs border of the exporting country to the importing country, as well as, within the importing country to the point of delivery. Include costs of loading on board or the unloading of goods from trucks or railway trucks where this service is specified under the freight contract. Payments for freight on all imports should be recorded as a payment, while payments on exports should be recorded as a receipt only when these freight services are provided by Cambodian owned trucking services or railways. Also included as a receipt are payments received for freight services provided by Cambodian carriers between other countries (e.g. goods transported between Thailand and Vietnam).

11. Passenger: sea transport (221) – includes all passenger services between Cambodia and other countries provided by Cambodian ships to nonresident passengers (receipts) and nonresident ships to Cambodian passengers (payments). Passenger services provided to Cambodian passengers by nonresident carriers within Cambodia should also be included here. Passenger services provided to nonresident passengers by Cambodian carriers within Cambodia should be reported under the travel category. Passenger services charges include fares, charges for excess baggage, vehicles, or other personal accompanying effects and expenditures for food, drink, or other items for which passengers make expenditures while on board carriers.

12. Passenger: air transport (222) – includes all passenger services between Cambodia and other countries provided by Cambodian airlines (i.e. President Airlines and Phnom Penh Airlines) to nonresident passengers (receipts) and nonresident airlines to Cambodian passengers (payments), e.g. Bangkok Airways, Silk Air. Passenger services provided to Cambodian passengers by nonresident carriers within Cambodia should also be included here. Passenger services provided to nonresident passengers by Cambodian carriers within Cambodia should be reported under the travel category. Passenger services charges include fares, charges for excess baggage or other personal accompanying effects and expenditures for food, drink, or other items for which passengers make expenditures while on board carriers.

13. Passenger: other transport (223) – includes all passenger services between Cambodia and other countries provided by Cambodian land transport services (i.e. Cambodian owned bus services) to nonresident passengers (receipts) and nonresident land transport services to Cambodian passengers (payments), e.g. Laos, Thai or Vietnamese owned bus services. Passenger services provided to Cambodian passengers by nonresident carriers within Cambodia should also be included here. Passenger services provided to nonresident passengers by Cambodian carriers within Cambodia should be reported under the travel category. Passenger services charges include fares, charges for excess baggage or other personal accompanying effects and expenditures for food, drink, or other items for which passengers make expenditures while on board carriers.

14. Other transportation services (230) – includes rental or operational leases made by residents to nonresidents (receipt) and vice-versa (payment) of vessels, aircraft, freight cars, or other commercial vehicles with crews for limited periods (such as a single voyage) for the carriage of freight or passengers. Also included are payments or receipts for auxiliary services provided in ports, airports and other terminal facilities (e.g. cargo handling, storage and warehousing, packing and repacking, towing, pilotage, navigational aid for carriers, maintenance and cleaning of transportation equipment, salvage operations, commissions and agents fees etc.).

15. Other, purpose not specified (239) - is a residual category for transport services transactions whose purposes are not specified. Care should be exercised to include as few of the transactions as possible in this category.

Travel – Transactions 16 to 20 represented by transaction codes 241 to 249, covers goods and services, including those related to health and education-acquired from Cambodia by nonresident travelers (and vice versa) for business and personal purposes during their visits of less than one year. Travel excludes international passenger services, which are included in transportation. Students and medical patients are treated as travelers, regardless of the length of stay. Military and embassy personnel and nonresident workers (stay in another country of less than one year) are not regarded as travelers. However, expenditures by nonresident workers are included in travel, while those of military and embassy personnel are included in government services n.i.e.

16. Business travel (241) – includes business travel related transactions (of a personal nature) including travelers coming to Cambodia (receipts) or going abroad (payments) for all types of business activities, carrier crews stopping off or staying over, employees of international organizations on official business, and employees doing work for businesses that are not resident in the economy where the work occurs. Business travelers include sales persons, academics, commercial negotiators, product buyers, mission members, engineers and technicians, etc. Official travel by government and international organization employees should not be included here but reported under government services n.i.e.

17. Personal travel (242) – includes personal travel related transactions for travel other than for business, education, health or official reasons. Includes travel for leisure and holidays, cultural and religious activities, sports, visiting friends and relatives by nonresidents in Cambodia (receipt) or Cambodians abroad (payment). All travel expenses on the purchase of goods and services within the economy should be included here (e.g. hotel accommodation, entertainment and entry fees, drinks and meals, transportation within the economy, gifts and souvenirs etc.). Official travel by government and international organization employees should not be included here but reported under government services n.i.e.

18. Health-related travel (243) – includes health-related travel transactions where Cambodian residents travel abroad for medical reasons (payment) or vice-versa (receipt), regardless of the length of stay by nonresidents in Cambodia or Cambodians abroad.

19. Education-related travel (244) – includes education-related travel transactions includes education-related travel transactions where Cambodian residents travel abroad for study (receipt) or vice-versa (payment), regardless of the length of stay by nonresidents in Cambodia or Cambodians abroad.

20. Other, purpose not specified (249) - is a residual category for travel related transactions by nonresidents in Cambodia (receipt) or Cambodians abroad (payment), whose purposes are not specified. Care should be exercised to include as few of the transactions as possible in this category.

Other Services - are covered by transactions 21 to 36 represented by transaction codes 310-399. These are further subdivided into various categories.

21. Telephone and other telecommunication services (310) - includes payments to nonresidents or receipts from nonresidents for telephone and other telecommunication services, such as transmission of sound, images, and other information by telephone, telex, telegram, cable, broadcasting, satellite, electronic mail, facsimile services, etc. and includes business network services, teleconferencing, and support services, as well as, associated maintenance. The Ministry of Posts and Telecommunications in Cambodia has significant communications related transactions with nonresidents. These include services provided as well as received. Receipts for services provided to and payments for services received from the nonresident counterparts are usually settled on a net basis. However, the NBC officials need the data on gross payments and gross receipts, which would entail additional reporting burden for the banks. Therefore, it is recommended that the banks report the data on a net settlement basis as would be done by the banks' clients and that the NBC officials follow up with the respondents to obtain the gross data.

22. Postal services and settlements (311) – includes payments to nonresidents or receipts from nonresidents for postal and courier services, including pickup, transport, and delivery of letters, newspapers, periodicals, brochures, other printed material, parcels, and packages by national postal administrations and other operators. Also included are post office courier and mailbox rental services. The Ministry of Posts and Telecommunication in Cambodia has significant communications related transactions with nonresidents. These include services provided as well as received. Receipts for services provided to and payments for services received from the nonresident counterparts are usually settled on a net basis. However, the NBC officials need the data on gross payments and gross receipts, which would entail additional reporting burden for the banks. Therefore, it is recommended that the banks report the data on a net settlement basis as would be done by the banks' clients and that the NBC officials follow up with the respondents to obtain the gross data. International courier services such as DHL and FedEx may operate in Cambodia through local offices established by them or through agents. Any payments to or receipts from the parent companies or their affiliates abroad of these international courier companies for communication services should be shown here.

23. Other communication services, purpose not specified (319) - is a residual category for payments to nonresidents or receipts from nonresidents for communication services whose purposes are not specified. Care should be exercised to include as few of the transactions as possible in this category.

24. Construction services (320) - includes payments to nonresidents or receipts from nonresidents for construction and installation project work that is, on a temporary basis, performed in Cambodia/abroad or in extraterritorial enclaves by nonresident/resident enterprises and associated personnel. Such work does not include work that is undertaken by a foreign direct investment enterprise (FDIE). Temporary basis means work that is generally performed for less than one year. Extraterritorial enclaves in Cambodia include embassies, and consulates of foreign governments as well as offices of international organizations such as the World Bank, IMF, Asian Development Bank, etc. A foreign direct investment enterprise in Cambodia is the subsidiary, affiliate, or branch of an enterprise located in a country other than Cambodia. If construction services are provided by a Cambodian construction company to a foreign embassy located in Cambodia, they should be reported as receipts. Similarly, if construction services are provided by a foreign construction company to a Cambodian embassy located abroad, they should be reported as payments.

25. Insurance: premiums (331) – includes premiums paid by Cambodians (payments) for the provision of insurance services by nonresidents and vice versa (receipts). This item comprises insurance premiums paid or received for freight insurance (on goods exported and imported), other types of direct insurance (including life and non-life), and reinsurance. At present, there are very few insurance companies in Cambodia. These do not generally engage in international transactions except for some re-insurance and possibly some freight insurance on behalf of Cambodian importers. Other international transactions by Cambodian insurance companies related to life and non-life are practically non-existent. However, some enterprises in Cambodia obtain fire and casualty insurance directly or through their parent companies or affiliates from foreign insurance companies. Such payments too should be included under insurance services. Also recorded as insurance services are agent commissions related to insurance transactions.

26. Insurance: claims (332) – includes claims paid out to Cambodians by nonresidents (receipts) and vice versa (payments). This item comprises claims paid or received for freight (on goods exported and imported), other types of direct insurance (including life and non-life), and reinsurance.

27. Other insurance services (339) - is a residual category for payments to nonresidents or receipts from nonresidents for insurance services whose purposes are not specified. Care should be exercised to include as few of the transactions as possible in this category. This item comprises payments or receipts for freight insurance (on goods exported and imported), services provided for other types of direct insurance (including life and non-life), and services provided for reinsurance.

28. Financial services, excluding insurance (340) - includes financial intermediation and services and auxiliary services conducted between residents of Cambodia and nonresidents. Included are commissions and fees for letters of credits, lines of credits, foreign exchange transactions, and consumer and business credit services paid to nonresidents (payments) or received from nonresidents (receipts). Service charges on purchases of IMF resources are included here as financial service payments, as are charges (similar to commitment fees) associated with un-drawn balances under stand-by or extended arrangements with the IMF.

29. Computer and information services (350) - includes payments to nonresidents or receipts from nonresidents related to hardware consultancy, software implementation, information services (data processing, data base development and storage, news agency), and maintenance and repair of computers and related equipment.

30. Royalties and license fees (360) - includes receipts (exports) and payments (imports) of residents and nonresidents for (a) the authorized use of intangible non-produced, non-financial assets and proprietary rights-such as trademarks, copyrights, patents, processes, techniques, designs, manufacturing rights, franchises, etc. and (b) the use, through licensing agreements, of produced originals or prototypes – such as manuscripts, films, etc.

31. Operational leasing services (372) - includes payments to nonresidents or receipts from nonresidents for rental of equipment without operators and covers resident-nonresident leasing (other than financial leasing) and charters of ships, aircraft, and transportation equipment such as railway cars, containers, rigs, etc. without crew. A financial lease should not be recorded here as it is a means by which the lessee finances the purchase of the good. The full equivalent of the market value of the goods should be recorded under goods and not in services. However, the transactions related to financial leases that go through the Cambodian banking system will reflect only the periodic lease payments which consist of the amortization of the principal and interest payments. Information collected by the commercial banks from their clients on the nature of the leases (operational or financial) would help the balance of payments compilers to code these transactions appropriately.

32. Other business, professional, and technical services (378) – includes payments to nonresidents or receipts from nonresidents for services provided by residents to nonresidents and vice versa, including merchanting and other trade-related services, and miscellaneous business, professional and technical services.

33. Administrative and operating expenses between head offices and subsidiaries and branches (379) - includes various business related services provided to (receipt)/from (payment) head offices and subsidiaries situated in different economies (e.g. accounting and legal services provided by Raffles International Hotel in Singapore, the parent company, to its subsidiary Le Royal Raffles Hotel in Phnom Penh).

34. Personal, cultural, and recreational services (382) - includes payments to nonresidents or receipts from nonresidents for audiovisual and related services, and other cultural services provided by Cambodian residents to nonresidents and vice versa.

35. Embassy expenditures and government services, n.i.e. (390) - includes all services associated with embassies, consulates, military units, defense agencies, government sectors or international and regional organizations and not classified under other items provided by Cambodians (receipts) or received from nonresidents (payments). Included are receipts from nonresidents or payments to nonresidents for office supplies, furnishings, utilities, official vehicles and their maintenance and operation, official entertainment, and personal expenditure by diplomats and consular staff and their dependents. Also included are expenditure by aid missions, government investment and tourism promotion not reported under other categories.

36. Other, purpose not specified (399) – is a residual category for payments to nonresidents or receipts from nonresidents for other services transactions whose purposes are not specified. Care should be exercised to include as few of the transactions as possible in this category.

Income - is covered by transactions 37 to 43 or transaction codes 400-599. Income includes compensation of employees and investment income.

37. Compensation of employees (400) - includes wages, salaries, and other benefits, in cash or in kind, earned by Cambodian individuals (receipts) and nonresident individuals (payments), and includes those of border, seasonal, and other short-term (less than one year) resident and nonresident workers (e.g. local staff of embassies). Compensation by international organizations to long-term international experts working in Cambodia should be reported here as receipts.

38. Dividends (510) – includes dividends paid by Cambodians (payment) or received (receipt) from direct or portfolio equity investment (i.e. investment in shares or ownership of listed or unlisted companies or enterprises).

39. Distribution of profits (520) – includes the distribution of profits by Cambodian branches of foreign enterprises to their foreign head office (payment), or the distribution of profits by foreign branches of Cambodian enterprises to their Cambodian head office (receipt). Rents received by Cambodian residents owning property abroad should be reported under this category.

40. Interest on deposits (521) – includes interest received (receipts) by Cambodian residents on deposits held in nonresident banks and other financial institutions abroad and interest paid to nonresident deposit holders living abroad by Cambodian resident banks and other financial institutions (payments).

41. Interest on credits and loans (522) – includes interest received (receipts) on credits and loans made to nonresidents by Cambodian financial institutions and enterprises (including direct investors or direct investment enterprises), and interest paid (payments) on credits and loans extended to Cambodian residents by nonresident financial institutions and enterprises (including direct investors or direct investment enterprises).

42. Interest on securities (523) – includes interest received (receipts) on debt securities, such as money market instruments (e.g. Treasury bills and other short-term instruments) and bonds and notes (i.e. debt securities with a maturity of one year or more) by Cambodian residents from nonresidents, and interest paid (payments) on debt securities, such as money market instruments (e.g. bills and other short-term instruments) and bonds and notes (i.e. debt securities with a maturity of one year or more) by Cambodian residents to nonresidents. Please note that as there are currently no bond or money market instruments issued by Cambodian residents, there should be no payments reported under this category.

43. Other, purpose not specified (599) - is a residual category for income transactions whose purposes are not specified. Care should be exercised to include as few of the transactions as possible in this category.

Transfers - are covered by transactions 44 to 49 or transaction codes 610 to 699.

44. Migrants transfers on immigration or emigration (610) - includes cash transferred into Cambodia by immigrants or long-term residents (over one year) with the exception of diplomats and employees of international organizations, foreign military and other foreign government representatives should be shown in this account in the ITRS as receipts. Similarly any cash transferred abroad by Cambodians emigrating or taking up long-term residency abroad (over one year) with the exception of Cambodian diplomats and other Cambodian government representatives abroad should be shown in this account in the ITRS as payments.

45. Workers' remittances (620) - includes receipts by Cambodian residents of remittances by migrants who are employed in foreign countries and considered residents there. A migrant is a person who is expected to stay in a foreign country for a year or more. Workers' remittances often involve related persons and friends. Cambodians who work for and stay in foreign countries for less than a year are considered residents of Cambodia. Their transactions are appropriate mainly to the component for compensation of employees. Conversely, remittances by foreign migrants employed in Cambodia to relatives and friends abroad should be reported under this category as payments.

46. Pensions (621) – includes pensions received in Cambodia by Cambodian residents who had formerly worked for foreign governments or other foreign organizations should be shown as receipts and any pensions paid by Cambodian government or organizations to residents abroad should be shown as payments.

47. Official grants/development assistance (630) - includes cash transfers effected between governments for the purpose of financing current expenditures by the recipient government; cash transfers associated with relief efforts in the wake of famine, earthquakes, floods, war, and other natural disasters; and cash grants for development projects such as for building of roads and other infrastructure.

48. Grants and gifts – private (640) - include grants and gifts from individuals (other than workers' remittances) and nongovernmental organizations (NGOs).

49. Other, purpose not specified (699) - is a residual category for transfers whose purposes are not specified. Care should be exercised to include as few of the transactions as possible in this category.

Financial Account Transactions - The classification adopted in the ITRS is a two tier classification in contrast to the five tier classification used in BPM5 to classify financial transactions. In BPM5, the financial account is first classified on a functional basis into the following categories: direct investment, portfolio investment, financial derivatives, other investment, and reserve assets. These categories with the exception of direct investment are further classified into assets and liabilities. Direct investment is classified on a functional basis into direct investment abroad and direct investment in reporting economy. The third tier of classification is by financial instruments such as equity and debt securities. The fourth tier of classification is by the various sectors in Cambodia who are either the creditors (holders of the assets) or the debtors (holders of the liabilities). The various Cambodian sectors identified for this purpose are (a) the Monetary authority (National Bank of Cambodia), (b) General government which includes the Royal Government of Cambodia as well as the various regional and local governments such as the provinces, cities, and communes, (c) Commercial banks, (d) and other sectors such as enterprises (including government enterprises), non-government enterprises, and individuals. The fifth tier of classification is based on the duration or term of the financial instrument such as long-term or short-term. All financial instruments that mature within one year are classified as short-term and those with maturities over one year are termed long-term.

It is not necessary for the ITRS compiler to know the definitions and the detailed five-tier classification system of BPM5. If the ITRS compilers are able to obtain data on the basis of the two-tier classification system reflected in the various reporting forms, then the balance of payments compilers will be able to convert the data to fit the five-tier classification system of the BPM5 with the help of other information provided on the forms as well as data collected by them directly from various respondents.

Assets/claims on Nonresidents - are covered by transactions 50 to 59 representing transaction codes 710-799. These transaction codes have been simplified in the ITRS forms (compared to the structure in BPM5) to reflect the Cambodian circumstances. Therefore, in the ITRS forms the financial account transactions have been broadly classified for assets or claims on nonresidents. Under this broad category of assets, various financial instruments such as shares, bonds and notes, money market instruments, loans and deposits are identified. Acquisition of assets abroad will be reported as payments and withdrawal of assets as receipts.

50. Shares: purchase or sales of shares (710) – includes transactions involving the purchase (payment) or sale (receipt) of shares in nonresident corporations (i.e. Cambodian direct or portfolio investment abroad). Direct investments abroad are made by Cambodian direct investors. A Cambodian direct investor is an investor who seeks a significant voice in the management of an enterprise operating in a country other than Cambodia. The ownership of ten percent of the equity of the company (usually also ten percent of the voting rights) is considered sufficient to exercise a significant voice in the management of a company. At present, the amount of identified Cambodian direct investment abroad is small. It is likely that Cambodian individuals have portfolio investments abroad in equity securities. Investment of less than ten percent in the equity security of a foreign company by a Cambodian resident would constitute portfolio investment abroad. To the extent that acquisition and disposition of such assets are executed through the Cambodian banking system, these transactions should be reflected in the ITRS.

51. Other equity: investment or withdrawal of investment (720) – includes transactions involving new or increased investment (payment) or withdrawals of investment (receipt) in unincorporated direct investment enterprises abroad - such as equity in a branch operation abroad of a Cambodian enterprise or investments in real estate abroad by Cambodian individuals and enterprises. According to BPM5, investments in real estate should be treated as direct investment.

52. Bonds and notes (long-term securities): purchase or sale (730) – includes transactions involving the purchase (payment) or sale (receipt) of bonds, notes and other long-term marketable debt securities (with a maturity of one year or more). Bonds and notes are considered long-term debt securities even if the holder disposes of the investment within one year.

53. Money market instruments (short-term securities): purchase or sale (740) - includes transactions involving the purchase (payment) or sale (receipt) of bills and other money market instruments. Money-market instruments mature under a year and hence are short-term debt securities.

54. Loans (long-term): extended to or repaid by nonresidents (750) – includes transactions involving the provision (payment) or repayment (receipt) of loans to non-residents by Cambodian residents, where the maturity period for the loans is one year or more. The holders of these assets are monetary authorities, general government, banks, and other sectors.

55. Loans (short-term): extended to or repaid by nonresidents (760) – includes transactions involving the provision (payment) or repayment (receipt) of loans to non-residents by Cambodian residents, where the maturity period for the loans is less than one year. The holders of these assets are monetary authorities, general government, banks, and other sectors. Trade credits should also be included in these transactions.

56. Deposits with nonresident banks: deposit or withdrawal (770) – includes transactions involving deposits (payments) or withdrawals (receipts) of currency and deposits with nonresident banks by Cambodian residents. The holders of these assets are the monetary authorities, general government, banks, and other sectors.

57. Options, futures, warrants, swaps etc. (780) – includes transactions involving financial derivatives such as options, futures, warrants, swaps etc. There are no known transactions in financial derivatives between Cambodians and nonresidents now or expected in the near future. Therefore, these transactions are not likely to be collected through the ITRS.

58. Other assets/claims (790) – includes transactions comprising other assets/claims on nonresidents by Cambodian residents other than shares and other equity, loans, currency and deposits and financial derivatives. Capital subscriptions to international non-monetary organizations are to be classified under this category, as are miscellaneous prepayments made.

59. Other, purpose not specified (799) - is a residual category for transactions relating to assets and claims on nonresidents whose purposes are not specified. Care should be exercised to include as few of the transactions as possible in this category.

Liabilities to Nonresidents - are covered by transactions 60 to 69 representing transaction codes 810-899. These transaction codes have been simplified in the ITRS forms (compared to the structure in BPM5) to reflect the Cambodian circumstances. Therefore, in the ITRS forms the financial account transactions have been broadly classified for liabilities to nonresidents. Under this broad category of liabilities, various financial instruments such as shares, bonds and notes, money market instruments, loans and deposits are identified. Increases in liabilities to nonresidents will be shown as receipts and decrease in liabilities as payments.

60. Shares: purchase or sales of shares (810) – includes transactions involving the purchase (receipt) or sale (payment) of shares in Cambodian corporations (i.e. direct or portfolio investment in Cambodia). At present, the amount of identified direct investment in Cambodia is significant. Direct investments in Cambodia are made by foreign direct investors. A foreign direct investor is an investor who seeks a significant voice in the management of an enterprise operating in Cambodia (i.e. a foreign direct investment enterprise). The ownership of ten percent of the equity of the company (usually also ten percent of the voting rights) is considered sufficient to exercise a significant voice in the management of a company. The best known foreign direct investment enterprises in Cambodia are the garment factories owned by investors from China, Hong Kong, Taiwan, Malaysia, Singapore and Indonesia. Other foreign direct investments in Cambodia include the tourism industry such as the hotels, consumer goods industries such as the manufacture of beer, soft drinks, and cigarettes, utilities such as cell phones and generation of electricity. If these investments are made in Cambodian incorporated companies, the equity investments made by the foreign direct investors (registered capital) should be attributed to shares. Investment of less than ten percent in the equity security of a Cambodian company by a foreign resident would constitute portfolio equity investment in Cambodia. So far, only a small amount of equity portfolio investment has been identified in Cambodia. Since there are no publicly held shares of Cambodian companies, all direct and portfolio investments in Cambodia are privately held. Until an active stock market develops in Cambodia, portfolio investment will tend to be negligible. To the extent that acquisition and disposition of such liabilities are executed through the Cambodian banking system, these transactions should be reflected in the ITRS.

61. Other equity: investment or withdrawal of investment (820) – includes transactions involving new or increased investment (receipt) or withdrawals of investment (payment) in unincorporated direct investment enterprises in Cambodia - such as equity in a branch operation of a foreign enterprise in Cambodia or investments in real estate in Cambodia by nonresident individuals and enterprises. According to BPM5, investments in real estate should be treated as direct investment. According to the laws of Cambodia, non-citizens cannot own real estate in Cambodia. However, there are citizens of Cambodia who are resident abroad and may own real estate in Cambodia. Since balance of payments statistics are based on residency rather than citizenship, such investments should be recorded under this category.

62. Bonds and notes (long-term securities): purchase or sale (830) – includes transactions involving the purchase (receipt) or sale (payment) of bonds, notes and other long-term marketable debt securities (with a maturity of one year or more). Bonds and notes are considered long-term debt securities even if the holder disposes of the investment within one year. As there are currently no marketable bonds or notes issued in Cambodia, there are likely to be no ITRS transactions for this category in the near future.

63. Money market instruments (short-term securities): purchase or sale (840) - includes transactions involving the purchase (receipt) or sale (payment) of bills and other money market instruments. Money-market instruments mature under a year and hence are short-term debt securities. As there are currently no money-market instruments issued in Cambodia, there are likely to be no ITRS transactions for this category in the near future.

64. Loans (long-term): extended by or repaid to nonresidents (850) – includes transactions involving the drawing (receipt) or repayment (payment) of loans by Cambodian residents from/to nonresidents, where the maturity period for the loans is one year or more. The holders of these liabilities are monetary authorities, general government, banks, and other sectors.

65. Loans (short-term): extended by or repaid to nonresidents (860) – includes transactions involving the drawing (receipt) or repayment (payment) of loans by Cambodian residents from/to non-residents, where the maturity period for the loans is less than one year. The holders of these liabilities are monetary authorities, general government, banks, and other sectors. Trade credits should also be included in these transactions.

66. Deposits with Cambodian banks: deposit or withdrawal (870) – includes transactions involving deposits (receipts) or withdrawals (payments) of currency and deposits with Cambodian banks by nonresidents.

67. Options, futures, warrants, swaps etc. (880) – includes transactions involving financial derivatives such as options, futures, warrants, swaps etc. There are no known transactions in financial derivatives between Cambodians and nonresidents now or expected in the near future. Therefore, these transactions are not likely to be collected through the ITRS.

68. Other liabilities (890) – includes transactions comprising other liabilities of Cambodian residents to nonresidents other than shares and other equity, loans, currency and deposits and financial derivatives. Miscellaneous prepayments received are to be classified under this category.

69. Other, purpose not specified (899) - is a residual category for transactions relating to liabilities to nonresidents whose purposes are not specified. Care should be exercised to include as few of the transactions as possible in this category.

Transactions that could not be classified

70. Please provide the NBC with a copy of the Form 1R or 1P (999) – is a residual category for ITRS transactions whose purposes could not be classified by the bank staff under any of the categories above. The bank should provide a hard copy of the relevant Form 1R or 1P to the NBC when it provides its monthly summary report.

Appendix I. Frequently Asked Questions

1. Are sufficient regulatory arrangements for functioning of the ITRS in place?

Response: The information reported by the banks and the NBC, on their own account transactions or on behalf of their clients, would be collected under the authority of the Law on the Organization and Conduct of the National Bank of Cambodia and the Statistics Law of Cambodia. The Statistics Law provides for the compulsory provision of individual information to institutions and ministries of the Royal Government of Cambodia, for statistical purposes under Article 24. The article states that “ministries and government institutions may conduct statistical activities to obtain statistical information from respondents”. Furthermore, the Law states under Article 29 that the “respondents must provide accurate, complete, timely and truthful information to a designated statistical officer of the National Institute of Statistics of the Ministry of Planning or any other ministry or institution of the Royal Government. Where accurate and complete information is not available within the time required, respondents must provide approximate information. Articles 30 and 31 state that, “Penalties shall apply to any respondent who knowingly violates Article 29” and “any individual who deliberately and without legal justification prevents or prohibits statistical activities conducted by the National Institute of Statistics, Ministries, or other government institutions under the provisions of this Law, will be subject to penalties as determined under the judicial code”.

The National Bank of Cambodia (NBC) has the authority to collect the ITRS data under article 39.1 of the Law on the Organization and Conduct of the National Bank of Cambodia. This article states that “a bank or financial institution must furnish to the Central Bank such information and data as the Central Bank may require for the discharge of its functions and responsibilities”. Further in Title II of the Law, which describes the general functions, and duties of the NBC, the establishment of the balance of payments is listed in article 7.8 as one of the functions and duties. Also, article 33.4 states that “ the Central Bank shall be empowered to take remedial actions or sanctions according to the existing laws if there has been an infraction by a bank or financial institution of its officers or employees with respect to the violation of a provision of the existing laws or regulations of the Central Bank”.

2. Have the response burden of the banks and cost for balance of payments compilers been carefully considered?

The concerns raised are that notwithstanding the relatively small number of international transactions in Cambodia, it is important to be mindful of the low level of automation of the Cambodian banking system. An effective ITRS system requires adequate computer resources in both commercial banks and the NBC to ensure efficient processing of data and management of the databases. This issue will become even more crucial in future when further development of the settlement system in Cambodia might jeopardize the proper functioning of the ITRS.

Response: Any new system of data collection imposes demands on human and material resources of both data compilers and data providers. The ITRS has been designed currently to minimize such demands. The human and material resources demand will obviously not be distributed evenly among the commercial banks. The larger banks and those that conduct most of the transactions with nonresidents will have a greater share of the burden.

It is hoped that such banks can cope with the ITRS using their current computer and human resources. If not, it is hoped that they will have the financial capability to enhance their resources.

The data collected by the NBC will be provided back to the banks in aggregated form. These and the data obtained on the ITRS by each individual bank will help them to analyze the international transactions conducted by their clients in relation to the total transactions by the commercial banks. This will help to enhance their business development. Also, reliable balance of payments data produced by the NBC will help the banks to focus their activities in fast growing economic activities such as tourism. Therefore, any investment made in the ITRS by the commercial banks is not just a cost of satisfying regulatory requirements but also an investment in their own business development.

The NBC is aware that its human, computer, and space resources have to be enhanced not only to cope with the ITRS but also to carry out its current system of compilation of balance of payments data. Any shortcomings in the human and material resources available to the commercial banks and the NBC will definitely affect the efficiency of the ITRS data collection and hence its reliability. While some of these resource problems can be anticipated and taken care of, as the ITRS is introduced, other problems will only surface when the system is in operation. Therefore, both the commercial banks and the NBC should be able to cope with such problems, as they become known.

3. Will individual pieces of information provided by the banks and its customers kept strictly confidential?

Response: Yes, the Statistics Law provides for the confidentiality of all individual information collected under this Law. Individual data remain confidential to the NBC and the data are only to be released in the form of aggregated statistics. Article 25 of the Law specifically guarantees “the confidentiality of all individual information obtained from respondents” and that “the information collected under this Law is used only for statistical purposes”. Further more, Article 30 specifies that “Government employees and designated statistical officers of the National Institute of Statistics and statistical units in ministries or institutions of the Royal Government who violate Article 25 will be subject to penalties as determined under the judicial code”.

The data will be published only in an aggregated form so that no individual data will be disclosed, even residually. Rules on aggregation to observe strict confidentiality will be followed by the NBC. No data for a particular dataset will be published unless there are three responses. If any one of these responses accounts for a substantial proportion, then the particular dataset will be combined with another related dataset to avoid any residual disclosure. In deciding what is a substantial proportion, the procedures followed in countries such as Australia and Canada will be followed. For instance, in Australia, the rule of 85/90 is applied. According to this rule, if there are three responses and one of these accounts for 85 percent of the total, then that dataset will be suppressed or combined with another related dataset. Similarly, if two of the responses account for 90 percent of the total, then again that dataset will not be separately identified. Similar rules with some variations are followed in other countries with developed statistical systems such as Canada, the United States, United Kingdom, Netherlands, Sweden, New Zealand, and Germany etc to protect confidentiality.

4. Purpose of transaction is meaningless as there may be thousands of reasons for transactions.

Response: For purposes of reporting, 70 transactions have been identified and codes assigned to them. The same codes have been assigned for both receipts and payments. If they are receipts, they will be reported on forms 1R, 2R, and 3R. If they are payments, they will be reported on forms 1P, 2P, and 3P. In addition, a brief description is requested for purpose of large transactions on these forms. The explanation provided will relate to the transaction code. The reason for requesting a brief description of large transactions is that even in the best designed ITRS, coding errors are made. Sometimes exports are coded to imports and vice versa. In financial transactions, asset related transactions might be confused for liabilities related transactions. That is why a brief description of the purpose of large transactions is requested to clarify the nature of transactions.

5. The bank staff will take a long time to remember the complicated procedures to enter the information on the questionnaires.

Response: A two days training was held on November 26 and 27, 2002 for NBC and commercial banks' staff to familiarize them with the forms and how to enter the data. Examples of the most common transactions were discussed and practical class exercises will be conducted during the training session. A broad explanation of international balance of payments transactions was also provided. Further follow up training in groups as well as on the premises of individual banks will be provided on request. The banks' staff have also been provided with a NBC contact person's name and phone number. As the banks' staff become familiar with the forms and how to report the transactions, the procedures will cease to be complicated.

6. Customers do not like to provide some of the non-statistical information requested on Forms 1R and 1P such as Resident Name, Other Party Name and Purpose of Transaction.

Response: All statistical inquiries request such information since the data reported have to be related to the statistical population reporting such data. This information helps to classify the transactions and to ensure that the data provided is nearly as complete as possible. Also, such information is necessary to validate the data reported. However, in the case of Forms 1R and 1P, the information requested is only for the large transactions. Such information will be provided to the NBC when clarification is required for some of the transactions. It is not intended that the NBC will have a carte blanche access to all the Forms 1R and 1P.

7. Who is a resident/nonresident?

Response: The concept of residency used in the balance of payments statistics is not based on nationality or legal criteria. It is based on a sectoral transactor's center of economic interest. Thus, a parent company, branch or subsidiary of a Cambodian company located abroad is a nonresident. A subsidiary or a branch of a foreign bank located in Cambodia is a Cambodian resident. A Cambodian working in Thailand for less than one year is a Cambodian resident. If he works in Thailand for more than one year, he is a resident of Thailand (usually). A contract worker (more than one year) from Philippines working in a Cambodia casino is a Cambodian resident. Embassy officials and members of their families are always considered as residents of their own countries rather than that of the countries where they work. The embassy premises are considered as the territory of the countries represented by the embassies.

8. The scope of the ITRS requires further clarification.

Response: Under Cambodian banking regulations, both residents and nonresidents can have foreign currency accounts with resident banks. In most instances, large international transactions are managed through these accounts. These transactions need to be captured for the purpose of the ITRS. These accounts may also be used to carry out transactions denominated in foreign currency between residents since Cambodia is substantially dollarized. It is our understanding that transactions in big-ticket items such as real estate, automobiles, electronic goods and consumer durables are carried out in foreign currency. Although, in principle such transactions should be captured for the purpose of classification of foreign currency holdings among different sectors (e.g. banks, individuals etc), the scope of the ITRS as outlined above does not intend to do so.

We also realize that to obtain the full scope of transactions between residents and nonresidents, we need to know the transactions settled outside of the Cambodian banking system. Such transactions include cash transactions as well as transactions through foreign accounts of individuals and domestic enterprises with banks abroad and intercompany accounts. The NBC intends to do so through surveys of direct investment enterprises, data provided by the Bank of International Settlements and through estimation techniques.

Appendix II. Practical Exercises

Show how the following transactions will be reflected in the ITRS Forms.

Exercise 1.

A freighter based in Singapore bought fuel and ship supplies in the amount of US$11,000 from the Port Authority of Sihanoukville on September 29, 2002. A check drawn on a Singapore bank was given as payment for these supplies. The check was deposited in a Cambodian bank on October 2, 2002.

Solution

This transaction would be reported on Forms 1P and 3P. Most of the information collected by the forms are the same. Two additional pieces of information are available from Forms 1P which are the names of the resident Cambodian transactor, and that of the nonresident counterpart. This additional information would be used by the NBC in the event that further investigation is necessary to obtain clarifications on the transactions. Therefore, the following solutions will be discussed with reference to the reporting on Forms 3P and 3R (in the case of receipts) only.

In the case of the example given in Exercise 1, the transactor code would be 5 since the Port Authority of Sihanoukville is a State Owned Enterprise.

The transaction code would be 150 since fuel and ship supplies are considered as goods and are classified to the sub-category bunkers and stores.

The country of nonresident counter-party is Singapore (code 702).

The other party is probably an enterprise (code 8-other nonresident) since a freighter is most likely to be owned by an enterprise.

The currency of transaction is US$ (code 51).

The amount in original currency would be reported as 11,000.00.

To report the amount in Riel (millions), the amount in original currency (US$ 11,000) should be converted at the market exchange rate prevailing at the time the transaction takes place. This rate is defined as the midpoint between buying and selling rates applicable to the transaction or, alternatively, as the average rate for the shortest period applicable.

Exercise 2

The Port Authority of Sihanoukville rented a container loading and unloading equipment with crew from a Singapore company from January 1, 2002. The monthly rental for this equipment is US$20,000. It pays by check drawn on an account with a Cambodian bank.

Solution

The transactor code would be 5 since the Port Authority of Sihanoukville is a State Owned Enterprise.

The transaction code would be 230 since rental of transportation equipment with crew is coded to other transportation services rather than as leasing services in the services account in BPM5.

The country of nonresident counter-party is Singapore (code 702).

The other party is probably an enterprise (code 8-other nonresident) since such equipment is most likely to be owned by an enterprise.

The currency of transaction is US$ (code 51).

The amount in original currency would be reported as 20,000.00.

To report the amount in Riel (millions), the amount in original currency (US$ 11,000) should be converted at the market exchange rate prevailing at the time the transaction takes place. This rate is defined as the midpoint between buying and selling rates applicable to the transaction or, alternatively, as the average rate for the shortest period applicable.

Exercise 3.

Sokhann Import Enterprises of Cambodia negotiated with Singapore Electronics Company to import five containers of various electronic products at a cost of US$5 million. The Singapore company also arranged the shipping and insurance for the imports at a cost of US$1 million to Sokhann Import Enterprises. As part of the contract, Sokhann Enterprises made a pre-payment to the exporter on March 17, 2002 of US$2 million. As agreed in the contract, the balance of US$4 million was paid when the goods were delivered at Sihanoukville port on April 21, 2002. The pre-payment and the final payments for the imports were transacted through a Cambodian bank.

Solution

The transactor code would be 6 (Other Enterprise) since Sokhann Import Enterprise of Cambodia is a private enterprise.

There are several different balance of payments transactions, all of which should be identified with different codes.

The first transaction was the pre-payment of US$2 million made by Sokhann Import Enterprises of Cambodia to Singapore Electronics Company on March 17, 2002. This should be assigned the transaction code 111 (pre-payment made for goods).

The second payment of US$4 million made on April 21, 2002 consisted of three different transactions. The first was the balance owing on the value of imports of US$3 million. This should be assigned the transaction code 110, payments for goods. The balance of US$1 million was for insurance and transportation of goods from Singapore to Sihanoukville. The ITRS compiler would obtain additional information from the client/respondent on the allocation of the expenses between transportation and insurance. On the basis of such information the cost of transportation (e.g. US$800,000) would be shown to freight (sea transport) and assigned the transaction code 211 and the cost of insurance (e.g. US$200,000) shown to insurance and assigned the transaction code 331.

The country of nonresident counter-party is Singapore (code 702).

The other party is an enterprise (code 8-other nonresident).

The currency of transaction is US$ (code 51).

The amounts in original currency would be reported as 2,000, 000.00, 3,000,000.00, 800,000.00, and 200,000.00.

To report the amount in Riel (millions), the amounts in original currency should be converted at the market exchange rate prevailing at the time the transaction takes place. This rate is defined as the midpoint between buying and selling rates applicable to the transaction or, alternatively, as the average rate for the shortest period applicable.

Exercise 4.

Two nonresidents walked into a commercial bank in Phnom Penh on Friday 22 November 2002 to cash travelers' checks (TCs). One was well dressed, carried an expensive briefcase and very impatient. He cashed US$10,000 worth of TCs. The other person was very casual, carried a backpack and cashed TCs worth US$50. November is the month designated in the ITRS schedule for that particular commercial bank to report in detail all transactions with nonresidents.

Solution

The transactor code would be 2 (Deposit Money Bank).

There are two different balance of payments transactions, both of which should be identified with different codes.

The first transaction, the encashment of a TC for US$10,000, appears to have been made by a business traveler. This should be assigned the transaction code 241. The second transaction, the encashment of a TC for US$50, appears to have been made by a personal traveler. This should be assigned the transaction code 242.

The countries of nonresident counter-parties could be ascertained from the clients' passports by the ITRS compilers since passports have to be shown when TCs are encashed.

The other parties' codes would be 7 (Individual Nonresident).

The currency of transaction is US$ (code 51).

The amounts in original currency would be reported as 10,000.00, and 50.00.

To report the amount in Riel (millions), the amounts in original currency should be converted at the market exchange rate prevailing at the time the transaction takes place. This rate is defined as the midpoint between buying and selling rates applicable to the transaction or, alternatively, as the average rate for the shortest period applicable.

Exercise 5.

Mr. Pel Sararh, a Cambodian resident received a scholarship from the University of Pennsylvania to study in the United States for 5 years. The value of scholarship was US$100,000, which was paid to him in the United States in five equal installments each year starting from January 1, 1998. Since this amount was not sufficient for Mr. Sarath to live in the United States, his wife sent him additional money of US$10,000 once every year on October 1 through a Cambodian bank.

Solution

The transactor code would be 7 (Individual Resident).

The transaction code would be 243 (Travel- studies abroad).

The country of nonresident counter-party is the United States (code 840).

The other party code would be 9 (Resident Entity or Individual).

The currency of transaction is US$ (code 51).

The amounts in original currency would be reported every year on October 1 as 10,000.00

To report the amount in Riel (millions), the amounts in original currency should be converted at the market exchange rate prevailing at the time the transaction takes place. This rate is defined as the midpoint between buying and selling rates applicable to the transaction or, alternatively, as the average rate for the shortest period applicable.

Exercise 6.

On September 29, 2002, a Thai company sent some garments on consignment to a factory in the newly established Industrial Estate in Koh Kong for affixing labels. It was a simple processing process as no substantial transformation of product took place. The garments were returned after processing on October 2, 2002. The Thai company paid US$20,000 by check drawn on a Thai bank to the Koh Kong company for processing. The Koh Kong company deposited the check to its own account in a Cambodian bank on October 5, 2002.

Solution

The transactor code would be 6 (Other Enterprise).

The transaction code would be 120 (Processing fees for goods).

The country of nonresident counter-party is Thailand (code 764).

The other party code would be either 6 or 8. If the other party is the parent company or nonresident head office of the Cambodian company, code 6 should be assigned. If it is an unrelated party, code 8 should be assigned.

The currency of transaction is US$ (code 51).

The amounts in original currency would be reported as 20,000.00.

To report the amount in Riel (millions), the amounts in original currency should be converted at the market exchange rate prevailing at the time the transaction takes place. This rate is defined as the midpoint between buying and selling rates applicable to the transaction or, alternatively, as the average rate for the shortest period applicable.

Exercise 7.

Golden Eagle Garments Company of Cambodia imports US$2 million of fabrics from its parent company in Taiwan on June 3, 2002. No payments were made at the time of imports. On August 3, 2002, the Cambodian company exported the finished garments to the United States. The export order was arranged by the parent company, which also received the export proceeds of US$4 million from the importer on September 15, 2002. The profits on this manufacturing operation was US$1 million. The Cambodian company is 100 percent owned by the Taiwanese company. After retaining the amount owed by the Cambodian company for the cost of fabrics and its share of profits, the Taiwanese company returned the balance of the export proceeds to the Cambodian company. These proceeds were deposited to the Cambodian company's bank account in Phnom Penh.

Solution

The transactor code would be 6 (Other Enterprise).

The transaction code would be 860 (Short-term loans extended by nonresidents)

The only transaction that would go through the Cambodian banking system is the amount of US$1 million, which is a recycling of working capital provided by the parent company to its subsidiary in Cambodia. Such recycling is usually a short-term financial transaction.

This transaction is a clear example of the nature of transactions between a direct investment enterprise and a direct investor. Since most of these inter-company transactions may not go through the Cambodian banking system, the balance of payments compilers have to obtain data from other sources such as surveys and administrative data.

The country of nonresident counter-party is Taiwan (code 158).

The other party code would be 6 (parent company of the Cambodian company).

The currency of transaction is US$ (code 51).

The amounts in original currency would be reported as 1,000,000.00.

To report the amount in Riel (millions), the amounts in original currency should be converted at the market exchange rate prevailing at the time the transaction takes place. This rate is defined as the midpoint between buying and selling rates applicable to the transaction or, alternatively, as the average rate for the shortest period applicable.

The Methods of maintenance of Required Reserves against Deposits and Other Borrowings by a Financial Institution and Their Reports

In order to effectively implement monetary policies and control of the banking system; the National Bank of Cambodia there in after referred to as the “Central Bank” issues this annex circular attached to the regulation on the maintenance of required reserves against deposits and other borrowings by a financial Institution # NBC793-282-R2 dated December 30, 1993 and has the following meaning :

I. What reserve requirements are for and how they are held:

The main role of reserve requirements is as an instrument of monetary policy. They allow the Central bank to influence the amount of liquidity in the banking system. Changes in reserve levels change the banking system’s ability to make role as they ensure that commercial banks possess a minimum amount of highly liquid assets. These liquid assets consist of cash in the vaults of the commercial bank and demand balances responsible for the management of its liquidity to meet the withdrawals made by customers from their accounts. Required reserves are structured in terms of average holdings for the reserve maintenance period. This averaging allows a commercial bank to reduce temporarily its clearing balances with the central bank always provided the commercial bank increases its clearing balances or designated account balances later in the period so that it meets the reserve requirement by the end of the reserve maintenance period.

Each reserve accounting period is four weeks long. It starts on a Friday and ends on a Thursday. The required reserve reports cover two reserve accounting periods. During the 28 day base period a commercial bank calculates the average amount of reserves that it shall maintain during the 28 day maintenance subject to reserve requirements as the lending bank has already provided reserves on the underlying liabilities. Borrowings from affiliates, head offices, other branches and other banks that are outside Cambodia are subject to reserve requirements.

Using the cash holdings in the base period to establish the reserve requirement for the maintenance period is known as lagged reserve accounting.

II. How to Report to the National Bank

The Commercial Bank shall complete form 015RR-1 shortly after the end of the base period. The Commercial Bank shall calculate its reserve requirement by applying the percentage stated in the regulation to the riel deposits (demand (1), time (3), savings (2), and other items [e.g. margins held against letters of credit] (4) foreign currency deposits and borrowing [specified liabilities in foreign currency] form 015RR-1 that forms part of the regular report. The then deducts its daily cash holdings from the percentage of its deposits and other borrowing that appears on the worksheet. The resultant figure becomes the amount that a commercial bank shall maintain during the maintenance period on its clearing account and/or any designated accounts. The form shows the daily average required balances. (on its clearing account and other designated accounts) in a box at the foot of the form. A commercial bank with multiple branches in Cambodia shall use the deposit and other borrowing data for the whole bank (head office and branches). These amounts are added together for each day of the base period and multiplied by the percentage reserve requirement-presently 5%. Daily riel cash holdings are then deducted. US$ notes are not regarded as reserve assets for the purposes of this regulation. The daily result is added together and the total required balance is shown in the row marked total. Some commercial banks may find that they have already satisfied their reserve requirements. In this case the total row in the last column on form 015RR-1 will show a minus figure. Form 015RR-1a is a worksheet for the conversion of deposit liabilities and other borrowing from dollars or baht to riel which is the reporting currency.daily total on form 015RR-1a is transferred to form 015RR-1..... headed (5) Specified liabilities in foreign currencies. 015RR-2 is for use during the maintenance period. It is designed to give a commercial bank's reserve money manager every day, the exact amount of reserves that the commercial bank must hold in its clearing account (and on any designated accounts) on average during the remaining days of any reserve maintenance period. The last column of the form shows this figure. Form 015RR-2b is a conversion worksheet to be used where non interest bearing US$ account with the Central Bank are designated as reserve assets for the purposes of this circular and the regulation on required reserves. The Central Bank recognizes that many depositors have opened foreign currency accounts with the commercial banks in Cambodia. If the commercial banks are required to hold riel reserves against these deposits they will incur an exchange risk. In order to avoid an unnecessary exchange risk the Central Bank will exceptionally permit, for the time being, a commercial bank to hold a part of its required reserves in a non interest bearing US$ account with the Central Bank. Interest bearing accounts with the Central Bank or any US$ denominated accounts with other banks in or outside Cambodia are not considered as a part of a commercial banks reserves for the purposes of satisfying any liquidity requirement that may be established. The Central bank expects that depositors will soon choose to open riel and as the rate of inflation slows down. At a suitable future time, and with a reasonable period of notice the Central Bank will require all reserve holdings to be denominated in riel.

III. Methods of reserve adjustment

As a commercial bank adds each days clearing balance and the balance of any designated account to form 015RR-2, The Commercial Bank's reserve money manager will know how much he must keep in the clearing account on average on each of the days of the maintenance period that remain.

If the daily average required balance for the rest of the period is growing the money manager must increase the balance in the clearing account or the designated accounts. The following options are currently available to a reserve money manager:

- a- He must raise enough to cover his commercial bank's anticipated shortfall for the remainder of the maintenance period:
 1. By borrowing from other bank that has excess reserves
 2. By transferring foreign currency from an account outside of Cambodia to his bank's designated account with the Central Bank.
 3. By depositing cash dollars into his bank's designated account and paying the Central Bank a commission charge of 2% (cash withdrawal will also be subject to a 2% commission).

- b- When a commercial bank has a reserve deficiency in any maintenance period the deficit will be cured by the transfer of an amount equal to one tenth (10%) of the deficiency from the commercial bank's clearing account to a non-interest bearing account in the commercial bank's name (required reserve deficiency account). The amount transferred will be returned to the clearing account after ten days. Balances on such reserve deficiency accounts are not regarded as reserveany maintenance period. Reserve deficiency accounts will not be designated by the Central bank as eligible in any circumstances.

IV. Points to Remember

1- Cash holdings in the base period will help to satisfy the reserve requirement in the following maintenance period. Therefore, transferring riel cash to the commercial bank's clearing account at the Central Bank in maintenance period 1 will contribute towards meeting the reserve requirement in maintenance period 1, but will reduce the cash holdings that contribute towards meeting reserve requirement in maintenance period 2.

2- A commercial bank must ensure that it's always has sufficient cash in its tills and vault to service the needs of its customers. It should not reduce its cash holdings to very low levels merely to satisfy reserve requirements in one maintenance period.

3- The Central Bank will accept cash dollar deposits to designated foreign currency accounts for the time being.timately the method of designating foreign currency accounts as eligible reserve assets will be phased out. at that time banks will be required to sell foreign currency to the Central Bank for riels. The designation will not be phased out, however, until the credit window is opened to commercial banks operating in Cambodia.

4- A Bank that suffers reserve deficiencies on several occasions may be subject to penalties, including the levying of interest approximation charges at penal rates whenever the Central bank has to make mandatory transfers to required reserve deficiency account.

This circular comes into force from the first day of the first base period mentioned in the circular # NBC793-288-C2 dated December 30, 1993 (other reference).

Article 10: Banks are expected to utilize the Clearing house to send payments to other participants. Any bilateral exchanges of payments other than at established clearing house meeting times is permitted only upon mutual and specific agreement between the appropriate clearing house participants.

Article 11: Sending participants must:

1. Authorize and identify sendings
All checks must bear the stamp of the sending participant, and the date of sending on the reverse side of each item.
2. Prepare sendings properly
Each sending participant shall prepare list of checks in duplicate (Form PPC001) on which shall be shown the individual check amounts and the total value of checks drawn on the other participants. Example of all forms appears in Annex IV. One list shall be prepared for each other participant showing the total value and number of checks presented to them;
 - i. drawn on the Phnom Penh offices of each other participant, and
 - ii. Returned unpaid and ineligible items.
 Each sending participant may deliver a computer file (diskette) in the prescribed format containing the worksheet of Form PPC001.
3. Attend regular Clearing house meetings
Checks are to be brought to the Clearing house at or before the prescribed hour on each business day. A participant whose representative arrives more than five minutes after the prescribed Clearing house session may be excluded from that session by the Clearing Leader. A participant who is excluded from a clearing session shall not present his items to the other participants. He shall however, be compelled to accept and his account be debited for the checks which other participants deliver to him.
4. Authorize debit to account for payments returned
Each sending participant, by its act of sending payments to the Clearing house, authorizes the Bank to debit its current account for the subsequent return of dishonored payments by a receiving participant.
5. Retain records
Sending Participants must retain all pertinent records necessary to reconstruct any shipment or individual payment for one year beyond the date of original presentment. This does not imply, however, an obligation to research, provide customer contact, or resolve any adjustment for a particular payment later than this time.

Chapter 4 Receiving Banks' Responsibilities

Article 12: Receiving Banks are expected to pick up any checks made available to them at the Clearing house each day, including any dishonored checks as noted in Article 11. Checks made available to a receiving participant which are not picked up by such participant because he has failed to attend the clearing house session or has been excluded because of tardy arrival on that day are deemed to have been delivered on that day for purposes of settlement and timely return of any dishonored checks.

Article 13: Receiving Participants must:

1. Certify acceptance

The receiving participant shall sign the copy of the list on PPC 001 to acknowledge receipt of the checks at the Clearing house. Each receiving participant shall sign a copy of PPC 002, prepared by the National Bank of Cambodia or a printout containing all Forms 002 as an acknowledgment of his agreement with the amount to be debited or credited to his clearing account as result of the clearing session.

2. Settle for or return payments

Payments remain the property of sending participants until they have been settled for or returned. Receiving participants hold payments in trust until they have received credit from the drawer of the payment by charging that client account on its books. Receiving participants are expected to keep adequate funds in their National Bank of Cambodia clearing accounts to pay for their obligation in daily settlements.

3. Return unpaid or dishonored payments

i. General Provision

Unpaid or dishonored checks are to be returned by sending through the Clearing house. Receiving participants must note conspicuously on each returned check, the cause for return using an approved reason as listed at Annex III, and the name of the receiving participant.

ii. Timely Return

Any check presented through the clearing house shall be deemed to be returned timely, and the receiving participant shall not be held accountable for such payment, if it is returned no later than the 3:00 p.m. clearing session on the same day of settlement. Checks are not to be considered as finally paid, with disbursement in cash, until after the close of the applicable return item session.

iii. Settlement for Returns

Receiving participants must return the unpaid payment clearly marked as a "RETURN ITEM" in the prescribed format. The amount will be deducted in the net settlement amount for the receiving participant (Form PPC 001).

iv. Expiration of Return privilege

Checks may be dishonored and returned on two occasions only. Checks remaining Unpaid after the second dishonor must be handled outside of clearing house channels by collection directly between the banks involved.

4. Retain records

Receiving participants must retain computer file (diskette) or paper listings, and any other Associated evidence necessary to reconstruct records for any Clearing house transaction for one calendar year beyond the date of receipt. Receiving participants are under no obligation however, and may as a courtesy, assist sending participants in resolving inquiries about transactions which occur after the mandatory records retention period has expired.

5. Return all unposted checks in event of default

In the event a participant is unable to provide adequate funds in its current account with the National Bank of Cambodia for the daily settlement and is declared insolvent by the Banking Supervision Department, the National Bank of Cambodia will so inform other participants and request the defaulting participant to immediately return all unposted payments in its possession to the National Bank of Cambodia. The National Bank of Cambodia will then return such payments to the participant that originally sent them to the Clearing house for payment.

6. Assure customers mandate

Members are reminded that:

- i. Debit to customer's account requires the customer's mandate. A check bearing a forged signature is lacking such mandate and cannot normally be debited to a customer's account; and
- ii. A holder or endorser of a check may not be able to acquire good title to an instrument bearing a forged endorsement. Participants should therefore only accept checks from persons who are known to them or have been properly identified.

Chapter 5

National Bank of Cambodia Responsibilities

Article 14: The National Bank of Cambodia is a participant of the Clearing house and can receive and send checks to the same extent as any other participant for drawn or payable to the National Bank of Cambodia. In addition, the Bank provides facilities for the Clearing house meeting and settles accounts on its books for the participants.

Article 15: Preparation of forms

The Clearing Leader shall electronically prepare Form PPC 002, and PPC 003, as shown in the Annexes by incorporating participant's computer worksheets (PPC001) from the diskette brought to the clearing session.

Article 16: Settlement

1. Settlement will be completed each business day by debiting and crediting current accounts maintained by participant with National Bank of Cambodia. When the total amount of the checks presented exceeds the total amount received, the participant's account will be credited. When the total amount of checks received exceeds the total amount presented, the participant's account will be debited. When the Clearing Leader is satisfied that the clearing settlement form is balanced he shall sign a copy or a print-out of each participant's Form PP002 as an advice of debit or credit to that participant's clearing account. He shall then announce that the session is closed. No participant shall leave the session before the announcement of the closure.

2. In the case that the receiving participant has insufficient funds in its clearing account for settlement, it will have 2 hours to arrange for funds from another bank to be deposited into its clearing account at the National Bank of Cambodia. This will be the primary and expected source of funds for settlement.

Article 17: Balances maintained at National Bank of Cambodia

Participants authorize the Bank to charge to their accounts at the National Bank of Cambodia any debit amounts that they may occur as a result of clearing checks, and must maintain funds in these accounts adequate to cover such debits. As a prudential measure, the National Bank of Cambodia may require banks to maintain adequate unencumbered deposits of foreign currencies in accounts abroad to cover their largest net debit exposure incurred during the previous calendar quarter.

Article 18: Failure to Settle

1. If the participant does not provide for its net debit obligation in the clearing house within the 2 hours allowed, the Clearing house Leader will inform the Chairman of the circumstances, who will determine corrective measures. If the participant is declared "in default" by the National Bank of Cambodia, the Chairman will so inform the other participants. The session will not be declared closed until the all accounts have been successfully debited on the day of clearing.
2. In the case default is announced during the session, the National Bank of Cambodia shall "unwind" the settlement, i.e. reverse the credit given that paying bank for its payments brought to the clearing house and the debit against it for payments brought by other banks, and recalculate the net positions of all participants accordingly. New forms shall be prepared by the Clearing Leader to reflect the new positions of the Participants. The defaulting bank will not be permitted further access to the Clearing house.

Article 19: Limit of liability

The National Bank of Cambodia shall not any way be responsible or liable in the event a participant incurs a loss in connection with participant in the clearing house, except in case of the Bank's own negligence or misconduct. It is understood and agreed that all claims on account of missorting, untimely return, failure to return, default by a participant, etc. shall be resolved directly between the participants except insofar as they agree to use the National Bank of Cambodia books to post the transactions. The Bank shall, however be accountable pursuant to the terms and conditions of Regulation for its own items entered for clearing and settlement in the same manner as any other participant.

Chapter 6 Miscellaneous Provisions

Article 20: Address for Notices

1. Any written notice to the Clearing house as required by Regulation shall be addressed as follows:

 - P.O. Box 25

Article 23: Emergency conditions

Conduct of daily clearing operations may be delayed within a business day or deferred to a later day in the event that participants are unable to attend due to adverse conditions as may be attributable to weather, loss of power or communications, or other major disruption in the city or country. In such circumstances, the National Bank of Cambodia will provide explicit instructions to the participants regarding to the procedures to be followed for entries applicable to the clearings or returns. However, individual participants should prepare for disruptions in their own facilities and are responsible for maintaining contingency plans and alternate processing sites with necessary equipment to continue operations for the duration of the emergency.

Article 24: Statistics

The National Bank of Cambodia shall compile and publish monthly statistics of the number and value of checks exchanged on daily basis throughout the month, including information on returned checks (unpaid checks). The statistical series shall compare monthly averages for the current and past years. Information on an individual bank's clearing shall not be published, except to that bank.

Article 25: All former Regulations that contradict with this Prakas shall be abrogated.

Article 26: The General Direction, the General Secretariat, the General Cashier, the General Inspection, all Department of the National Bank of Cambodia and Commercial banks members of the US Dollars Net Settlement Clearing house shall strictly implement this Prakas.

Chapter 3

Sending Banks' Responsibilities

Article 10: Banks are expected to utilize the Clearing house to send payments to other participants. Any bilateral exchanges of payments other than at established clearing house meeting times is permitted only upon mutual and specific agreement between the appropriate clearing house participants.

Article 11: Sending participants must:

1. Authorize and identify sendings

All checks must bear the stamp of the sending participant, and the date of sending on the reverse side of each item.

2. Prepare sendings properly

Each sending participant shall prepare list of checks in duplicate (Form PPC001) on which shall be shown the individual check amounts and the total value of checks drawn on the other participants. Example of all forms appears in Annex IV. One list shall be prepared for each other participant showing the total value and number of checks presented to them;

- iii. drawn on the Phnom Penh offices of each other participant, and
- iv. Returned unpaid and ineligible items.

Each sending participant may deliver a computer file (diskette) in the prescribed format containing the worksheet of Form PPC001.

3. Attend regular Clearing house meetings

Checks are to be brought to the Clearing house at or before the prescribed hour on each business day. A participant whose representative arrives more than five minutes after the prescribed Clearing house session may be excluded from that session by the Clearing Leader. A participant who is excluded from a clearing session shall not present his items to the other participants. He shall however, be compelled to accept and his account be debited for the checks which other participants deliver to him.

4. Authorize debit to account for payments returned

Each sending participant, by its act of sending payments to the Clearing house, authorizes the Bank to debit its current account for the subsequent return of dishonored payments by a receiving participant.

5. Retain records

Sending Participants must retain all pertinent records necessary to reconstruct any shipment or individual payment for one year beyond the date of original presentment. This does not imply, however, an obligation to research, provide customer contact, or resolve any adjustment for a particular payment later than this time.

Chapter 4

Receiving Bank's Responsibilities

Article 12: Receiving Banks are expected to pick up any checks made available to them at the Clearing house each day, including any dishonored checks as noted in Article 11. Checks made available to a receiving participant which are not picked up by such participant because he has failed to attend the clearing house session or has been excluded because of tardy arrival on that day are deemed to have been delivered on that day for purposes of settlement and timely return of any dishonored checks.

Article 13: Receiving Participants must:

1. Certify acceptance

The receiving participant shall sign the copy of the list on PPC001 to acknowledge receipt of the checks at the Clearing house. Each receiving participant shall sign a copy of PPC002, prepared by the National Bank of Cambodia or a printout containing all Forms 002 as an acknowledgment of his agreement with the amount to be debited or credited to his clearing account as result of the clearing session.

2. Settle for or return payments

Payments remain the property of sending participants until they have been settled for or returned. Receiving participants hold payments in trust until they have received credit from the drawer of the payment by charging that client account on its books. Receiving participants are expected to keep adequate funds in their National Bank of Cambodia clearing accounts to pay for their obligation in daily settlements.

3. Return unpaid or dishonored payments

i. General Provision

Unpaid or dishonored checks are to be returned by sending through the Clearing house. Receiving participants must note conspicuously on each returned check, the cause for return using an approved reason as listed at Annex III, and the name of the receiving participant.

ii. Timely Return

Any check presented through the clearing house shall be deemed to be returned timely, and the receiving participant shall not be held accountable for such payment, if it is returned no later than the 3:00 p.m. clearing session on the same day of settlement. Checks are not to be considered as finally paid, with disbursement in cash, until after the close of the applicable return item session.

v. Settlement for Returns

Receiving participants must return the unpaid payment clearly marked as a "RETURN ITEM" in the prescribed format. The amount will be deducted in the net settlement amount for the receiving participant (Form PPC001).

vi. Expiration of Return privilege

Checks may be dishonored and returned on two occasions only. Checks remaining Unpaid after the second dishonor must be handled outside of clearing house channels by collection directly between the banks involved.

4. Retain records

Receiving participants must retain computer file (diskette) or paper listings, and any other Associated evidence necessary to reconstruct records for any Clearing house transaction for one calendar year beyond the date of receipt. Receiving participants are under no obligation however, and may as a courtesy, assist sending participants in resolving inquiries about transactions which occur after the mandatory records retention period has expired.

5. Return all unposted checks in event of default

In the event a participant is unable to provide adequate funds in its current account with the National Bank of Cambodia for the daily settlement and is declared insolvent by the Banking Supervision Department, the National Bank of Cambodia will so inform other participants and request the defaulting participant to immediately return all unposted payments in its possession to the National Bank of Cambodia. The National Bank of Cambodia will then return such payments to the participant that originally sent them to the Clearing house for payment.

Chapter 5

National Bank of Cambodia Responsibilities

Article 14: The National Bank of Cambodia is a participant of the Clearing house and can receive and send checks to the same extent as any other participant for drawn or payable to the National Bank of Cambodia. In addition, the Bank provides facilities for the Clearing house meeting and settles accounts on its books for the participants.

Article 15: Preparation of forms

The Clearing Leader shall electronically prepare Form PPC002, and PPC003, as shown in the Annexes by incorporating participant's computer worksheets (PPC001) from the diskette brought to the clearing session.

Article 16: Settlement

1. Settlement will be completed each business day by debiting and crediting current accounts maintained by participant with National Bank of Cambodia. When the total amount of the checks presented exceeds the total amount received, the participant's account will be credited. When the total amount of checks received exceeds the total amount presented, the participant's account will be debited. When the Clearing Leader is satisfied that the clearing settlement form is balanced he shall sign a copy or a print-out of each participant's Form PP002 as an advice of debit or credit to that participant's clearing account. He shall then announce that the session is closed. No participant shall leave the session before the announcement of the closure.
2. In the case that the receiving participant has insufficient funds in its clearing account for settlement, it will have 2 hours to arrange for funds from another bank to be deposited into its clearing account at the National Bank of Cambodia. This will be the primary and expected source of funds for settlement.

Article 17: Balances maintained at National Bank of Cambodia

Participants authorize the Bank to charge to their accounts at the National Bank of Cambodia any debit amounts that they may occur as a result of clearing checks, and must maintain funds in these accounts adequate to cover such debits. As a prudential measure, the National Bank of Cambodia may require banks to maintain adequate unencumbered deposits of foreign currencies in accounts abroad to cover their largest net debit exposure incurred during the previous calendar quarter.

Article 18: Failure to Settle

1. If the participant does not provide for its net debit obligation in the clearing house within the 2 hours allowed, the Clearing house Leader will inform the Chairman of the circumstances, who will determine corrective measures. If the participant is declared "in default" by the National Bank of Cambodia, the Chairman will so inform the other participants. The session will not be declared closed until the all accounts have been successfully debited on the day of clearing.

2. In the case default is announced during the session, the National Bank of Cambodia shall "unwind" the settlement, i.e. reverse the credit given that paying bank for its payments brought to the clearing house and the debit against it for payments brought by other banks, and recalculate the net positions of all participants accordingly. New forms shall be prepared by the Clearing Leader to reflect the new positions of the Participants. The defaulting bank will not be permitted further access to the Clearing house.

Article 19: Limit of liability

The National Bank of Cambodia shall not any way be responsible or liable in the event a participant incurs a loss in connection with participant in the clearing house, except in case of the Bank's own negligence or misconduct. It is understood and agreed that all claims on account of missorting, untimely return, failure to return, default by a participant, etc. shall be resolved directly between the participants except insofar as they agree to use the National Bank of Cambodia books to post the transactions. The Bank shall, however be accountable pursuant to the terms and conditions of Regulation for its own items entered for clearing and settlement in the same manner as any other participant.

Chapter 6

Miscellaneous Provisions

Article 20: Governing Law

The transactions covered by Regulation shall be subject in all respects to the laws of Kingdom of Cambodia and all other applicable published regulations of the National Bank of Cambodia.

Article 21: Emergency conditions

Conduct of daily clearing operations may be delayed within a business day or deferred to a later day in the event that participants are unable to attend due to adverse conditions as may be attributable to weather, loss of power or communications, or other major disruption in the city or country. In such circumstances, the National Bank of Cambodia will provide explicit instructions to the participants regarding to the procedures to be followed for entries applicable to the clearings or returns. However, individual participants should prepare for disruptions in their own facilities and are responsible for maintaining contingency plans and alternate processing sites with necessary equipment to continue operations for the duration of the emergency.

Article 22: Statistics

The National Bank of Cambodia shall compile and publish monthly statistics of the number and value of checks exchanged on daily basis throughout the month, including information on returned checks (unpaid checks). The statistical series shall compare monthly averages for the current and past years. Information on an individual bank's clearing shall not be published, except to that bank.

PRAKAS
On Transaction of Settlement Accounts

Article 1.-

Definitions stated in Article 2 of the NIPTL are incorporated into this Prakas, unless hereafter modified or where the context requires otherwise:

1. “Bank” means a “bank” as defined in Article 2 of the NIPTL but does not include the NBC;
2. “Bilateral bank payment” means a payment from one bank to another;
3. “Settlement” means the process of payment out of or into a settlement account;
4. “Single bank payment” means a payment between a bank and the NBC; and
5. “Third-party processor” means a provider of a facility for the communication of payment orders on behalf of banks.

Article 2.-

1. A clearing and settlement is to take place on each banking day in Cambodia for the exchange of payment orders relating to single and bilateral bank payments.
2. To take part in the clearing and settlement, an interbank payment order will reflect a payment transaction on behalf of a customer or participating bank. A payment order submitted by a customer directly to a third-party processor as instructed by its bank is deemed to be the bank’s own payment order carrying out the customer’s instructions.
3. Participants in the clearing and settlement are banks. The interbank settlement of the clearing takes place on banks’ settlement accounts maintained in the NBC.
4. Banks are bound by this Prakas and any operating procedure and directive issued thereunder,
5. This Prakas applies only to credit transfers, and to payment transactions and settlement accounts denominated in riel or US dollars.

Article 3.-

1. To be included in the settlement, each payment order must be either for a single or bilateral bank payment out of and/or into a settlement account. The payment order must contain an irrevocable and unconditional instruction for a payment in either riel or US dollar, and not be subject to any restriction or limitation, except that it may be value-dated as prescribed in an operating procedure. It must comply with specifications prescribed in operating procedures and addressed either to a bank or to the NBC.

2. Subject to the provisions of this Prakas, a payment order which complies with paragraph (1) of this Article will be executed by the NBC by posting a debit and/or credit to a settlement account(s). Each payment order which does not comply with paragraph (1), or that cannot be directed due to insufficient or incorrect data, authentication failure or any other reason, and each payment order which was wrongly delivered, should be returned to the sending bank, according to a unique sorting code, to be allocated, to that end, by each participating bank.

Article 4.-

Each bank operating in Cambodia that wishes to participate in the domestic settlement of payment orders must open and maintain a settlement account on the books of the NBC and must have it open and operational on such terms and conditions as specified by the NBC.

Article 5.-

1. For each bank the following payments, each initiated by a payment order, can be made into and out of the settlement account:
 - (i) single bank payments
 - (ii) bilateral bank payments
2. The NBC will not debit a settlement account or allow a cash withdrawal from it unless there is sufficient balance to cover the debit amount or withdrawal.
3. A single bank payment such as a cash withdrawal or deposit will be posted by the NBC to the bank's settlement account. Payment out of a settlement account to the NBC is carried out by posting a debit to the bank's settlement account. Payment by the NBC into a settlement account is carried out by posting a credit to the bank's settlement account. A single bank payment becomes final, irreversible and irrevocable when the respective debit or credit is posted to the bank's settlement account.
4. A bilateral bank payment may be initiated by a payment order issued to the NBC and instructing it to debit the paying bank's settlement account and credit another bank's settlement account. Payment is carried out by posting a debit to the paying bank's settlement account and a corresponding credit to the other bank's settlement account. A bilateral bank payment becomes final, irreversible and irrevocable when the respective debit and credit are posted to the banks' settlement accounts.
5. Advice confirming a debit or credit posted to a settlement account under this Article shall be sent by the NBC to each bank participating in the single or bilateral bank payment. Advice shall be sent not later than at such time after the conclusion of the daily clearing as prescribed in an operating procedure.
6. A debit for a cash withdrawal by a bank must promptly be posted by the NBC to that bank's settlement account as soon as the withdrawal is made.

7. For each payment transaction, settlement is completed as soon as any resulting debit or credit, posted to the settlement account of a bank, party to the payment, becomes final, irreversible and irrevocable.

Article 6.-

1. Payment order instructing the NBC to carry out a single or bilateral bank payment may be submitted by a bank to the NBC either individually or as part of a batch.
2. The NBC will carry out payment for each payment order submitted to it (i) only against available funds in the paying bank's account and (ii) at any time before the end of the daily clearing as specified in an operating procedure. For a value-dated payment order as prescribed in an operating procedure, this time shall be on value date.
3. Where adequate funds for payment out of a settlement account are not available to the paying bank, the NBC, at its discretion, may either reject or place the payment order in a pending queue, and advise the instructing bank accordingly. A payment order placed in a pending queue will be executed by the NBC in the sequence of its input and without advance notice only when funds in the paying bank's settlement account become available. The NBC may reject an unexecuted payment order any time before it is executed and will advise the instructing bank accordingly. A bank's payment order that has been neither executed nor rejected during the daily clearing is canceled by operation of law at the conclusion of that daily clearing as prescribed in an operating procedure.
4. Where no adequate funds are available for a whole batch of payment orders, for the purpose of the immediately preceding paragraph, the NBC may treat each payment order included in the batch as transmitted individually. The NBC shall place each such payment order for execution against available funds, queuing, or rejection, in any sequence it deems fit.
5. Unless rejected, or put in a pending queue by the NBC as provided in paragraph (3) above, a bank's payment order given to the NBC is irrevocable and may not be canceled by the bank. For a payment order in a pending queue, cancellation by the instructing bank is effective only when given to the NBC in a manner, time, and according to a procedure stipulated or approved by the NBC, enabling it to act on it before debiting the bank's settlement account.
